ASTORIA, OREGON: FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1885

To-night. Forget-Me-Not. At Ross' opera house.

Secure your seat for to-night at Carl Adler's.

See Jeffrey-Lewis in "Stephanie De Mohrivar," to-night.

Jeffrey-Lewis is said to be the greatest actress that has ever visited Oregon.

The wardrobe worn by Miss Jeffrey-Lewis in "Forget-Me-Not" is said to be magnificent.

Jeffrey-Lewis comes direct from the Baldwin theater, San Francisco, and is supported by an excellent company.

Capt. Grant has sold the Wildwood machinery to Moran Bros., and they are putting it into the schooner Leo at Seattle.

Those who appreciate fine acting and a good company will not fail to see Jeffrey-Lewis in "Forget-Me-Not," this evening.

"Forget-Me-Not" is one of the finest plays and Jeffrey-Lewis unsurpassed in the artistic delineation of its principal character.

Flags were at half mast throughout the city yesterday and on the shipping in the stream, in respect to the memory of the dead vice president.

The Geo. W. Elder arrived in yesterday. The Oregon sailed. She took out from here 358 sacks oysters, 95 bbls salmon and 324 cts. salmon, shipped by J. O. Hanthorn.

The British bark Northernboy, 1,211, Boulton master, was reported outside with a pilot aboard November 11th, since which time no report has been received regarding her.

Philip Nicholas, aged 43, a native of the Sandwich Islands, died last Wednesday at the hospital, and was buried yesterday. He came here as steward on the T. F. Oakes.

A whale was washed ashore at Nestucca bay last Wednesday during the severe storm, 150 feet long and fourteen feet across the tail fin. Parties are cutting it up and rendering out the oil.

In consequence of Mr. Dorris declining the nomination for city attorney on the Independent club's ticket, the committee representing the club requested Mr. Noland to accept the nomination.

The dispatch announcing Vice President Hendricks' death was a little warped on its transmission to Astoria, making the event take place at Minneapolis, instead of Indianapolis, the vice president's home.

The Deep Sea Fishing Co's schooner Carrie B. Lake is lying at Ford & Stokes' ship chandlery store, taking on equipments. Mr. Exon will take a crew of five men. They will start on the first favorable opportunity.

H. M. Beale, secretary of The Dalles board of trade, writes that the hospitalities of the city are tendered to the Astoria delegation to the free river convention to be held in that city, next Wednesday. Quarters have been provided them at the Umattilla house.

The line between here and the Cape has been in a demoralized condition for over a week: the high wind blew down the poles over by Chinook, and no sooner were they up than the high tides knocked down the poles on the Lewis and Clarke dykes. Sergeant Griffin has a force of men at work rebuilding the line and will get it into working order as soon as possible.

The usual observance was given Thanksgiving day in Astoria. Stores and business places were for the most part closed; a union service was held at the Presbyterian church by Rev. Wm. Hamlin, assisted by Rev. A. J. Joslyn. Services were also held at Grace Episcopal church. A fine dinner was set at the M. E. church, of which many sat down and partook, the fragments filling numerous baskets. Several private parties were held, the cheer without contrasting with the gloom within.

Drowned at Upper Astoria. A distressing accident occurred at upper Astoria yesterday afternoon, resulting in the drowning of Benj. Bell, the nine-year-old son of Jno. A. Bell. The boy, with his brother and a companion named Barnhart, had gone out in a small skiff, and the skiff overturning, threw the three children into the water. The others were saved by parties who hastened to the rescue, but Benny sank before assistance could reach him. The body was recovered last evening. The funeral will take place at eleven o'clock, tomorrow morning.

LAST EVENING'S MEETING.

Several Speeches Made and a Set of Resolutions Adopted.

A meeting was called to meet at Liberty Hall at 7:30 last evening to take action concerning the recent position taken by Hon. C. Leinenweber in opposing the bill in the legislature validating the issue of bonds to build a schoolhouse in district No. One.

The meeting was called to order by C. H. Stockton, chairman of the board of school directors, who made a brief statement of the matter of issuance of bonds, and construction of the schoolhouse, etc.

He was followed by C. W. Fulton, who said he was at the legislature and advocated the passage of the bill. The representative from this county had opposed the bill from the start, and had eventually succeeded in defeating it.

When it was read the third time he made a violent speech against it, said it was "a job," that the bonds had been issued without notice; that no one knew of it and that it ought to go to the judiciary committee.

After the bill had failed to pass he, Fulton, had gone to Mr. Leinenweber and again explained its provisions; that the bill simply stated that the district's power to issue bonds for such purposes should not be questioned, and that it let all the rest alone; it was only to give the district power to contract bonds.

Mr. L. said he didn't care about the petition that had been sent; that it was only the rag, tag of the town. Members then agreed to reconsider. Leinenweber voting for reconsideration. Through his efforts the bill was finally defeated.

C. H. Page was called for. When he first heard of the bill he telegraphed to Mr. Leinenweber to stop it till he could get there. The reason he opposed it was because of its unconstitutionality and because it prohibited any suit or action at law to question any bond negotiable or otherwise when money had thus been used by districts, shutting them off from further litigation. He had no explanation to make. Mr. Leinenweber could and doubtless would make explanation when he arrived.

There was no spite work or attempt to injure bondholders. He with others had brought a private bill in equity charging, as he believed, a fraudulent issue of bonds. He wanted to show that an investigation would establish fraud on the part of the directors. He wanted an investigation from the beginning; the mode of construction, who did the work, and for how much; he had heard that the work had been done by the directors, themselves. If bondholders would appoint a committee of investigation, and allow him and associates to participate, they would abide by such decision.

He thought that common justice and fairness suggested that no vote of censure be made till Mr. L. had a chance to come back and speak for himself; that to try a man in his absence was not the fair thing to do.

Fulton followed citing the phrasing of the bill and saying that there was nothing in the bill of the nature of what the preceding speaker had alleged. That the bill said that where the power of the district had been exercised, all district debts regarding purchase of material, employment, etc., should be legal, and the power of the district in that regard was not to be questioned. It cut off the right of no one to sue. He censured the representative for defeating a bill that said that that district power should not be questioned; all was asked was that the power of the district be confirmed.

Stockton followed, saying that the books were in the hands of the clerk and could be thoroughly examined at any time.

Fulton moved that a committee of ten be appointed to draft a series of resolutions setting forth the sense of the meeting regarding the object for which it was called. After further remarks from Messrs. C. H. Page, W. W. Parker, Capt. Geo. Flavel, Capt. J. H. D. Gray, and L. Hartwig, a committee of ten was appointed by the chair.

The committee reported as follows: WHEREAS, At the late session of the legislature of this state a bill for an act to legalize the bonds of this district was introduced, and

WHEREAS, The passage of said bill was defeated by the action of Hon. C. Leinenweber, representative from this county, and

WHEREAS, said Leinenweber in opposing said bill stated, "that the whole business of building the school house in this district was a fraud and a swindle," therefore be it

Resolved, By the tax payers of this district: 1st, that in opposing said measure, Mr. Leinenweber willfully and knowingly misrepresented the voice and sentiment of the voters of the district.

Resolved, 2nd, That we denounce the statement that the "business of building the schoolhouse was a fraud and a swindle" as unqualifiedly false, and without any foundation whatever in fact, and we view the statement as an intentional insult to the officers and taxpayers of the district.

Resolved, 3rd, That we believe it was the duty of Mr. Leinenweber as representative from this county to be governed by the wishes of the taxpayers of this district in voting upon said measure, particularly, as he owned property therein, and we therefore consider that in opposing said measure Mr. Leinenweber betrayed the trust and confidence of those who elected him to the honorable position of a representative in the legislature of the state of Oregon.

Resolved, 4th, That it is the sentiment of the tax-payers of this district that every effort should be made to sustain the action of the district in borrowing money with which to build its school house, that its honor and integrity may remain unimpaired.

Resolved, 5th, That the thanks of the district are due to the members of the legislature who favored the passage of said act, and particularly

A New King on the Throne.

"Malaria," as a popular "ailment," has given place to a new potentate.

If you have Rheumatism now, the medical wisecracks exclaim—"Uric Acid!"

If you have frequent headaches, they sagely remark—"Uric Acid!"

If you have softening of the brain, they insist that it is—"Uric Acid!"

If sciatica or neuralgia make life miserable, it is—"Uric Acid!"

If your skin breaks out in Boils and Pimples, it is—"Uric Acid!"

If you have Abscesses and Piles, "Uric Acid" has set your blood on fire.

If you have dull, languid feelings, back-ache, kidney or bladder troubles, gout, gravel, poor blood; are ill at ease, threatened with paralysis or apoplexy, vertigo; are bilious, dropsical, constipated or dyspeptic—"Uric Acid" is the key to the situation, the cause of all your difficulties!

We do not know as Madam Malaria will take kindly to this masculine usurper, but he has evidently come to stay.

"Uric Acid,"—this monster, is the product of the decomposition—death—constantly taking place within us, and unless he is every day routed from the system, through the kidneys, by means of some great blood specific like Warner's Safe Cure, which Senator B. K. Bruce says snatched him from its grasp, there is not the least doubt but that it will utterly ruin the strongest human constitution!

It is not a young fellow by any means. It has a long and well-known line of ancestors. It is undoubtedly the father of a very great family of diseases, and though it may be the fashion to ascribe progeny to it that are not directly its own, there can be little doubt that if it once gets thoroughly seated in the human system, it really does introduce into it most of the ailments now, per force of fashion, attributed to its baleful influence.

THE COMING THEATRICAL EVENT. Of the Jeffrey-Lewis company the Alta of October 21st has the following: The week at the Baldwin theater has been one of those pleasurable memorable ones which occur periodically, though resulting from chance and necessity, and toward which the public have liberally contributed in attendance.

The revival of "Forget-Me-Not" has associated with it a strength of cast which, in the earnest efforts of all, has brought out all the genius of the players and secured lavish encomiums for the impersonations, especially with Miss Jeffrey-Lewis and Harry Mainball, who assumed the respective difficult parts of Stephanie and Sir Horace Welby.

If Miss Lewis has pleased us in the past, she has in her artistic perfection at this time thrilled all by her naturalness and earnest impressiveness, gaining sympathy as well as applause. Mr. Mainball is one of those sterling actors who always sustain his part with his impressive action at this time has been with that finish and force which makes us regret to part with him.

Mrs. Saunders, Thompson and Charlotte Tittle, all acceptable in themselves, seemed to gather inspiration from the leaders, and very capably sustained the other parts which made it such a delightful whole. Miss Lewis, supported by this excellent company, will appear at Ross' opera house on Friday evening, Nov. 27th, in this grand play of "Forget-Me-Not." Reserved seats at Carl Adler's Crystal Palace.

VICTIMS OF THE GALE. The ship Ivanhoe, which left here on the 15th inst. for Seattle, returned yesterday in distress. She reports that on the 16th, in latitude 42 deg. north, longitude 127 deg. west, while running before a southeast gale, the vessel broached to and was thrown on her beam ends, in which position she lay for fourteen hours. The foremast was blown out of the bolt ropes, and other damage was sustained, which compelled her return to port for repairs.

The bark Arcturus has put in here damaged and leaking. The steamer Walla Walla, which arrived on Thursday from the Columbia river, had a heavy sea come aboard over the quarter, which carried away the rail and raised the top off the after houses, while another sea struck her amidships, starting in her iron bulkheads, and striking the iron engine house, stove and bent in the iron plating. The decks were also damaged by the force of the sea, and a considerable quantity of her cargo of wheat was damaged.

The brig Josephine arrived yesterday with the loss of her entire deck load, the barkentine Monitor with a loss of about 20,000 feet of her deck load, and the schooners Lily and Reliance also lost portions of their deck loads.

The schooner C. H. Merithen, previously reported as having lost her deck load, did not do so, as she left Westport without any at the commencement of the gale. The masters of the vessels report the gale as being the heaviest they ever encountered, and it is feared that some of the fleet may have met with serious disaster.—S. F. Chronicle, 21.

STEPHANIE.

The Great Actress in the Title Role.

Jeffrey-Lewis' performance of "Stephanie" in "Forget-Me-Not" will be an emotional representation long to be remembered. Of her performance of this character at the Baldwin theater last week the San Francisco Post says:

"Miss Jeffrey-Lewis is undoubtedly the greatest actress in her line in America to-day—perhaps in the world. Her art is an inspiration—it was born in her, is part of her being, and she herself must often be unconscious of the spirit which animates her work. Many actors and actresses of the present day who have achieved considerable fame are mere machines. Place Miss Jeffrey-Lewis beside them and it would have about the same effect as putting a diamond of pure water among a lot of paste imitations. Now Miss Lewis does everything out of the amplitude of her own varied inspirations. We watched her as Stephanie last week, and this week as Stephanie, and observed that her movements are rarely alike on successive evenings. She realizes the part she is playing, and for the time being is not Jeffrey-Lewis playing a part, but the author's character endowed with life. How she does hold the senses enchained in the role of the adventress Stephanie! One's nerves are at full tension from her first entrance to her last exit. She's the play itself. Nothing in woman kind could be more bewitching than the pretty, pouting archness with which she bends her shapely head. Her wonderful delicacy of sarcasm, fine as the point of a cannie needle, yet severe as the slash of a Malay creese, is genius itself. She uses the weapon of woman with unequalled skill. What a wealth of art she has at her command to lure a victim to her net. With a look, a smile, a touch almost, she seems to possess the power to enchain the senses of a man of more than ordinary brain, and bring him captive to her feet. What strikes the close observer most is the rare mobility of her features. She has Aimee's power of suggestion, with Adelaide Nielson's sweet womanly softness and Nielson's grand dramatic force. She delights in surprises, copies no model, studies no methods but is art itself." At Ross' opera house to-night.
