DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

A Full Ticket Nominated Last Evening

Pursuant to call a Democratic meeting was held at the court house last evening and numerously attended. The meeting was called to order by C. H. Page, who read the call. C. J. Trenchard was elected chairman, and Wm. Pohl secretary. The convention then proceeded to nominate. The following were nominated: For mayor, J. C. Trullinger; for councilman 1st ward, L. C. Kinney; for councilman 2nd ward, P. E. Ferchen; The Westport mill started up last week on an order for 400 M feet of lumber.

For the position of street superintendent the names of Thos. Logan and John McCann were placed in nomination. When the ballot was partly taken the latter objected to the manner of the vote, alleging that there were men voting who were not entitled to vote. It was then suggested by C. H. Page that the ballot box be placed on the table in front of the chairman and each one come forward to vote. This was done. The result of the vote was as follows: Thos. Logan, 97; John Mc-Cann, 50; blank 1. Thos. Logan was declared the nominee of the conven-tion. On motion the nomination was made unanimous. J. C. Trullinger was loudly called for. In response he said he was proud of this mark of esteem from the convention; that he accepted the nomination, and if elected would work earnestly and faithfully for the interests of the city. He had been a resident of this state for 38 years; had worked hard, and had through his life tried to do all good possible to his fellowmen. He had no pledges to make, would try to treat all squarely and fairly and would, if mayor, act solely with a view to the peace, quiet, order and advancement of the city. Hon. C. Leinenweber came for-ward in answer to a call and said he was always ready to respond. He was not a resident of the city but he felt a great interest in the welfare of this municipality and congratulated the convention on the nomination for mayor and warmly endorsed Mr. Trullinger as an old acquaintance and an honest man.

A. M. Twombly was the next speaker, briefly thanking the convention for the nomination and pledged him-self if elected to so serve as to give satisfaction to the citizens of Astoria. Wm. Pohl said that he felt under obligations for the nomination and hoped that the whole ticket would be elected next Wednesday.

J. P. Dickinson said that coming as it did, he felt that the nomination was a compliment to him which he fully appreciated and if elected would endeavor to so discharge the duties of his position as to merit popular council two years ago: had served as police judge for two years and if elected would try to so net in that capacity as to have it said at the close that he had done his duty well thanking the convention for the nom-ination and that throwing all dissen-sion aside they should all labor for the success of the nominees next Wednesday.

Thos. Logan thanked the convention for the nomination and was followed by Geo. Noland who said he appreciated the honor of a unanimous nomination and hoped to get the unanimous vote of the meeting as well. He touched briefly upon the charter amendment fight a year ago and charged that the effort to make a property qualification was a Republican measure.

BAD MAN FROM MONTANA BOZEMAN, Dec. 5 .- Jos. Jando, who recently put his eleven year old daughter in a house of ill fame in this place telling the proprietress to educate her in the profession, was last night taken out by vigilantes and hanged to a lamp post. He cried loudly and aroused the attention of the police who cut him down before life was extinct.

EXCOMMUNICATED. DETROIT, Dec. 5.-Bishop Burges has issued a decree of interdic-tion the parish church of St. Alberts. It was caused by members of that church raising a serious dis-turbance in front of the church almost occasioning bloodshed. This action disbars the congregation from the sacrament of baptism and outlaws the entire congregation. Such action is very rare, but few in stances being on record since the commencement of the Christian era.

BEFORM OVERDONE.

In his zeal for reform the new commissioner of the general land office is involving in hardship a large industrious and excellent body of people who have settled on public lands in this state and Washington territory, and who have not yet obtained complete title from the government. In very many instances the requirements of residence, cultivation, etc., have been complied with, and the patents are delayed in the delivery because the lands have not yet been surveyed. Thus settlers, though unquestionably entitled to their holdings, have not all the advantages which belong to ownership. They can live on the land, but cannot sell it; and besides there are many minor annoyances growing out of In his zeal for reform the new con minor annoyances growing out of undefined and uncertain conditions Two or more persons often claim the same piece of land, and there are continual rows about boundary lines and other matters of importance as detween settlers. It has been common in past years when settlers have desired, as people always do, to have their rights determined and accredittheir rights determined and accredited to pay the cost of surveys, the work being done under direction of the surveyor-general and as government work, and differing from regular government surveys only in the circumstances, that they are paid for by the settlers instead of the government. There is no more chance for ment. There is no more chance for fraud under this practice then under the regular system, and as a matter of fact there has never been fraud of fact there has never been fraud under it in this country.

In accordance with this practice, certain settlers along the upper Young's river, in Clatsop county, recently made up a purse and engaged the surveyor-general of Oregon to make a contract to survey their district. The work was done, but when done under covernment. their district. The work was done, but when done under government authority and in accordance with government rules and reported to Commissioner Sparks, the contract was abrogated and so it goes for nothing. The Young's river settlers are out their money and still have no title to their lands. Some of them have lived continuously on their settlements for more than fifteen years waiting for the anyways.

There are two similar cases in Washington territory, one in the foothills of the Blue mountains, where a large settlement engaged the surveyor general to do the work and paid their money for it, and another in the country north of Vancouver. In the two instances the settlers have paid $14,000 of money gotten in the hard ways by which alone money is acquired in new and remote settlements, and to no purpose whatever. tlements, and to no purpose whatever. The contracts, properly made by the territorial officer of surveys, have been abrogated by Commissioner Sparks. He is afraid, he says, of frauds and his argument is very brief-"be-cause" (some time back) "there were frauds in similar cases in Arizona.

And so, because there have been frauds in Arizona, people in Oregon and Washington, who have acted in steamer San Pedro, from San Fran-cisco, went ashore near scow bay this might the commissioner refuse to issue patents under any or all circumstances in Oregon because there have been frauds elsewhere.

Mr. Sparks is new to the business of his office and, unfortunately, seem to think that the land laws are intended, not to facilitate the distribution of public lands, but to keep the people from them: He seems to think, also, that all applicants for the land are wolves. His caution (well intended, no doubt) amounts to obstruction. The worst of it is that the victims of his unjust ruling are poor and deserving people, who can ill-afford to lose their money or to suffer delay in getting possetheir lands.—Oregonian, 5.
