"I cannot give you any," replied the druggist, as he closed the door in

The latter began a vigorous pounding on the door, and presently a policeman appeared.
"What's the row?" he asked. "This man is a merphine fiend," replied the druggist, "and I can't sell

The policeman led the man away, but ten minutes later he was back again. The policeman again appeared and dragged the man off in the direction of the station house.

When he got up the blood was flowing from his mouth, but he re-fused to go away, and the policeman was compelled to take him to the station.

"They can talk about liquor ruining men," said the druggist, "but when opium once gets its grasp on a man, he's gone."
