Caught in a Chost Trap.

Several experiments have been tried by persons anxious to secure a ghost and to receive the reward offered by the Society for Physical Research for a live ghost delivered on the society's premises. One man residing in a haunted house covered the middle of the floor of a room in which a ghost was in the habit of walking. with an inch of soft and very tena-cious asphalt. The following night the ghost, who was an unusually large one, tried to walk over the asphalt and stuck fast in it. The experimenter instantly rushed to the ghost with withes of witch hazel, and, as he might have expected, stuck fast himself just out of reach of the ghost. The latter after a few migutes of strengeling, extricated himminutes of struggling, extricated him-self and disappeared, but the inves-tigator remained glued to the spot all night and was pried out by the servants in the morning.—Household
