A farmer bired a man to help work the farm. One summer day, when labor was very scarce, the two were mowing in the field, several larks flew up. "Look at those big cranes," said the hired man.

"Those are not cranes; they are only larks," replied the farmer, somewhat surprised.
"If you don't say that they are cranes, I'll knock off work right now," said the hired man. As the farmer could get nobody at that time to take the hired man's place, he was obliged to yield to the whim of the menial.

whim of the mental.

"Yes," said the farmer, "I see now that they are cranes, but they are not big cranes, they are only half-grown cranes."

The hired man was satisfied with this concession. Some months after-wards, the hired man still being in the employment of the farmer, the latter said at dinner one day, as he poured out a glass of water:—

"Here is some very fine beer."

"That's no beer; that's only water," replied the hired man. "If you don't say it is beer you can tender your resignation, for I don't want any offensive partisans about the place." This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and can not be sold in competition with the multi-tude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans.
