

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON:
THURSDAY, JANUARY 7, 1896

PATRICK EGAN claims to have sent $80,000 to Parnell from the United States.

For the first time in the history of the United States there is not a single Smith in congress.

EASTERN IOWA farmers send $4 to pay freight on an organ and receive in return a 10-cent mouth organ.

THE immigration from Ireland is at a perfect standstill. The people there are in high hopes since the election.

THE election of officers in New York city cost the taxpayers $142,320. The other expenses attending an election make up a total of $300,000.

THE Eugene City Guard says that Senator Weatherford, of Albany, is talked of as the Democratic candidate for governor at the coming election.

WADE HAMPTON'S bill making it a misdemeanor for congressmen and senators to influence appointments is referred to as a measure to drive the politicians out of politics.

"BRITANNIA rules the waves," but she has to pay the freight. There is not a day in the year which does not record the loss of some British vessel with all its crew.

BENJAMIN LOUTH, of Pittsburg, the inventor of a process for turning old steel rails into nail plate, sold his right to a syndicate for $300 per day for the next sixteen years.

A NEW YORK man had his wife arrested for carrying a concealed weapon. In court it was shown that she was in the habit of taking off her wooden leg and beating him with it.

It is said on alleged respectable authority that more than half a million pounds of willow leaf were shipped from Shanghai last year as green tea—a large proportion of it coming to America.

The receipts of flaxseed in Chicago during the last month reached the astounding aggregate of 1,857,000 bushels of 56 pounds each, and during one week the receipts of seed exceeded those of wheat.

A NOTICE of dissolution of partnership lately published in a Minnesota paper stated that the dissolution was by mutual consent, and added that the reason therefor was that one of the partners was "too lazy to continue the business."

THE last words of the dying great are generally regarded as significant of something, and obliging bystanders are frequently obliging enough to make such little alterations and amendments as may be needed to make them effective. But what will they make of General Toombs' last words, "Lend me one hundred dollars?"

THE police of Vincennes, Ind., are not models in their profession. On the night of the 22nd of December, the mayor and a committee of the council made a tour of the city to see if the police were "on deck." One of the force was found at home in bed, another was drunk, a third was in a house of ill-fame and the fourth was asleep in a saloon. The whole force was thus accounted for.

It is very kind of the Republican senators in congress to defend the president's financial policy and uphold Wall street, but if the Republican party is going to be committed to the defense of Wall street, of the national banks and the land-holders against the people, there won't be much of the Republican party left at the next national election. Andrew Jackson was just as right in 1835 as Grover Cleveland is wrong in 1896. The people won then and they will win now, and whoever or whatever stands in their way will be crushed, call it what you will.

WHAT is needed in the way of amendment of existing governmental arrangements almost as much as the better regulation of presidential succession, is some provision by which the organization of a new congress shall be effected immediately upon the beginning of its legal term. As matters now are, a congress does not meet in regular session till full a year after it is elected. This is an utterly absurd condition, and it has more than once been the occasion of embarrassments and exasperations.
