Chit-Chat. Mr. Thorneycroft, the sculptor, (but better known as the husband of Mrs. Thorneycroft), died a few days ago, at the residence of his son-in-law, M. Sassoon. Mrs. Thorneycroft, who survives her husband, is the lady whose works attracted the attention of Queen Victoria, when her children were young. Mrs. Thorneycroft excelled at Rome, her famous work, called "The Sleeping Child," and when her majesty consulted the late Mr. Gibson as to the selection of an artist to model her children, he referred to this particular work, and recommended that the commission should be given to that lady. She subsequently executed a statue of Princess Alice, and the queen was so pleased with it that she asked Mrs. Thorneycroft to undertake the prince of Wales, the princess royal, and Prince Alfred. This series was exhibited at the Royal Academy as "The Four Seasons," and is now at Windsor Castle. The Princess Metternich, says London Life, is at present accompanying Prince Metternich on a shooting expedition in Bohemia, where her skill in handling a gun is greatly admired. Unlike the majority of modern amazons, the princess is said to be quite regardless of her personal appearance when hunting, as long as she is at her ease. Her hunting costume is described as consisting of a short, gray skirt, a darker jacket, a straw hat, and a pair of boots, which, as she jestingly remarks, make her feet look like the feet of a young elephant. Her one anxiety is to prove herself a good shot, and her one vanity to show a good bag of game at the end of each day. Rowland Hill was introduced to an aged Scotch minister, somewhat resembling himself in piety and eccentricity. The old man looked at him for some time very earnestly, and at length said: "Well, I have been looking for some time at the leens on your face." "And what do you think of it?" said Mr. Hill. "Why, I am thinking that if the grace of God hadna changed your heart, you would have been a most tremendous rogue." Mr. Hill laughed heartily, and said: "Well, you have just hit the nail on the head."

A Florentine artist is manufacturing a unique fan for Queen Margaret, of Italy. It is painted on glove kid, and represents a fantastic scene at sunset. The queen is seen in the ethereal garden of the graces, sitting majestically on a throne, surrounded by a troop of the virtues, she herself being their center point. On her right stand four charming female figures; they symbolize love, hope, faith, and religion. In their company are other allegorical figures.

The prize for the best-dressed lady at the Mechanic's Fair, in San Francisco, was awarded to a lady who had arrived in that city from the East but a short time before. She was dressed in black silk, beaded in front, with a basque covered over entirely with jet beads. Her hat was white, with a waving ostrich plume. She wore diamond ornaments, the brilliants glowing in her ears, at her throat, and in her bracelets, which were lapped over white kid gloves.

They were spooning in a dark corner. He took her hand and looked into the shining depth of blue eyes. "Marie," he said, in a low, emotional tone, "you know I would not speak if I did not mean it. I will tell the truth. I am poor, hard up. If you can only -" "I'm so sorry. I left my purse up stairs; but perhaps Brother Harry can lend you a few dollars. I'll call him." He was taken with a sudden headache, and went home.

"For consolation I turn to thee," is a line cut on a gravestone erected by a widower to his departed wife, in an Augusta cemetery. Next to this slab is the sister gravestone sacred to the memory of the same widower's second wife. Besides the appropriate inscription of the above inscription one notices that the second wife died exactly one year and four days after the death of the first.

Cure For Piles. Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moisture like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, after resting, is a common attendant. Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the "Tumors," allaying the intense itching, and effecting a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Address The Dr. Bosanko Medicine Co., Piqua, O. Sold by J. W. Conn.

A sociable man is one who, when he has ten minutes to spare, goes and bothers somebody who hasn't. Don't Give Up. It doesn't follow that a patient will die because the doctors have "given him up," or that he will recover because they promise to "pull him through." It is never too late to try the great virtues of Parker's. Mr. Michael Guilfoyle, of Binghamton, N. Y., was cured of Rheumatism by it after ten years of unspasmodic suffering. Mr. R. W. Mosher, druggist, of same city, certifies that he has sold over a thousand bottles of Parker's Tonic through its reputation for this and other cures.

A CARD. To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c. I will send a receipt that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, New York City.
