

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON: SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1886 ENGLAND'S ASSISTANCE REQUIRED.

THE unanimity with which the people of California are moving in the expulsion of the Chinese from that state is no new development of popular feeling. It is a reiteration of a practically unanimous sentiment expressed six years ago. In 1879 it was asserted that those who wanted the Chinese to go from California were louder in noise than their number justified.

Before and since memorial after memorial has been presented to congress, resolutions and declarations without number have been made. In the last year, since the wholesale success of a fraud in evading the restriction act has become plainer and plainer the people have got tired of the farce, and any one that reads the papers or walks the streets knows the rest.

An anti-Chinese convention composed of delegates from all parts of the state has just adjourned at San Jose, Cal.; another has been called to meet at Sacramento, March 10th. A similar convention meets in Portland to-day. The California conventions have declared in favor of the abrogation of the Burlingame treaty. That is well, but the doing away of that infamous agreement is not enough.

A prime requisite in the matter is the co-operation of England. The Chinese that we see around us came from Hong'kong, a British colony over which the Chinese government has no control. It is to the English government that our government must look for efficient aid in this matter. If we can secure the friendly co-operation of Great Britain and secure just and friendly action from Gladstone who is all the time telling us he is a friend of the United States, we can stop the stream. Restriction acts won't do it; abrogation of treaties won't do it; diplomacy and persistence can. Where is the American statesman that can sink party in an effort for his country's good? Whoever he is or wherever he may be found his opportunity is a grand one.

This we believe to be the chief requirement after the abrogation of the existing treaty. Without such concert of action on the part of England and the United States, and the probable co-operation of the Chinese government, it is difficult to see how the desired result can legally be obtained.

Clarkson, Bright and Wilberforce showed the horrors of the slave trade and won a record in England for their efforts in abolishing slavery. England can win luster for her honorable names by aiding in doing away with the new slavery, the slavery of Chinese labor in this country that tarnishes her honor by her acquiescence in it as it exists.

STATE OFFICES.

The preliminary talk in regard to candidates for the office of governor shows, says the Standard, that few men in either party who are wanted, can afford to take the office. Under the arrangement of public business in this state a great amount of labor is thrown upon the executive, which in other states is performed by various boards of commissioners. This makes it necessary that the governor should devote most of his time to his official duties, and live at Salem. The salary is too small to allow a man to do this and be honest, unless he has a large private income which he is willing to spend while serving the state. One way to relieve the embarrassment is to raise the governor's salary. This, however, could not be done without amending the constitution. A much better plan would be for the legislature to authorize the creation of a board of correction and charities, consisting of three men to be appointed by the governor and confirmed by the senate, whose duty it shall be to overlook the management of the state prison, the insane asylum and other institutions of the kind. Another board should be appointed to take charge of the swamp land business. The governor might be an ex-officio member of such boards, but the real management would be in other hands. Then he would not be obliged to live in Salem except during sessions of the legislature, visiting the capital as often at other times as his duties might require. The office then would not interfere with his private business, and any suitable candidate could afford to serve for the present salary.

There ought also to be more state officers. These should be a lieutenant-governor, an auditor, an inspector of finance and an attorney general. It is far better in a popular government to have the power distributed more widely than it is in this state. If there were more officers there would be far less danger of "state house rings," and a better condition of public interest in all public affairs.

Two races of men are dying out, the Laplanders, who number 30,000, and the Maoris of New Zealand, reduced from 100,000 to 45,000 since the days of Captain Cook, and likely to be extinct by the year 2000.

From the tone of some of the Portland papers it would seem as though a riot, growing out of the anti-Chinese excitement is expected in that city. It is to be sincerely hoped that their fears are groundless.

GEN. HANCOCK'S funeral takes place to-day. The gallant officer died poor, and a subscription will be made up for his widow.
