PAYING INDUSTRIES, Callings That Are Open to Inde

Mrs. Henrietta Wolcott sald : "A intimate experience with two is expositions in Boston and New leans enables me to assume at outset that women are industries There may be idle and aimless wom en in our midst, but they are in minority. The mass, whether rich or poor, young or old, believe in the virtue of infratry. Influences of years of inheritance have but in the minds of many men, as well as many women, the idea that only in the privacyat home may women be industri

"Labor in the home for those n d under the roof has been strongly op posed by communities still later, but to-day women are coming to the front as skilled laborers in many fields. The natural increase in population and emigration developed the need of the activities of women outside the home and not merely in the church, but whenever and wherever faithful and industrious hands could be employed to advantage for the benefit of community or corporations. In the missionary societies women al-ways have found a field for labor. Money compensation has always a strong attractive force, and it is not to be wondered at that women desire to possess it for itself as a lever with which to move obstacles in limited spheres. "Passing over as well known the details of teaching work in some sections of our country, seven-eighths of the whole corps of teachers in public schools being women, also those who teach in homes, private schools and as specialists in science, art, art embroidery, vocal and instrumental music, dancing, deportment, foreign languages, sewing, cooking, and dec-oration of china and pottery, are to be found in such numbers that one often fears lest the teachers outnumber the pupils. Last year the tuning of pianos was taught as a business to women. Women in scientific pursuits already stand well, recent as has been the departure. Physicians, chemists, dentists, geologists, botan-ists, entomologists, astronomers and many others have shown that patient industry, added to a love for the special study subjected, has borne good fruit. Women serve on State boards of education, on boards of charities, of health and of lunacy, on school boards and superintendents of public schools, as writers and copyists in probate courts and records, as well as the registry of deeds—work which requires precision, neatness and industry; as superintendents in penal and reformatory institutions, as ma-trons, wherever the sick, the insane, the feeble-minded, the deaf, dumb or blind are gathered together into sylums; as nurses in homes, in hospitals, or following the army to labor in the cold and with few comforts, women have already achieved much good work. Plainly, these industries annot be ticketed and exhibited they exist, and the world in general is aware of it. "Of great importance also may be considered the women of the press. While qualities of high order tempt women in numerous instances to assume the arduous duties and reassume the arduous duties and re-sponsibilities of editors and sub-editors, there are hosts of women who are laboring industriously to fill the public demand for petty details of all public gatherings, caucu-ses, receptions, balls, concerts and fashion openings, etc. A year since, when it was proposed to inaugurate a National Press Association at the New Orleans Exposition, official correspondence revealed over two hundred newspapers on whose staff

"Yes, sir, in one day. It isn't every road that can afford improve-ments of that magnitude. But our that is making money now, and the superintendent said we had used that long track long enough."
"But how did he manage to do the job so quick? Must have taken several thousand men?"
"Oh no one man did the whole

"Oh, no; one man did the whole thing. It took him about ten minutes. You see, when our road was first built, traffic was light and profits doubtful. So the distance Furniture and Upholstering, the time card at from one to five miles greater than it actually was. Of course, all passengers were charged three cents a mile according to the distance. Our directors declared many a dividend on the strength of those extra miles,"

An Estimate.

"Of the wealth of the world," says a fanciful statistician, "$730,000,000 is owned by four men, as follows: Mackay, $275,000.000;
Rothschild, $200,000,000; Vanderbilt, $175,000,000, and the Duke of Westminster, $86,000,000. Their income per minute is $25, $20, $18 and $7 respectively."

Machinery is doing a vast amount Machinery is doing a vast amount of labor for man, but horses are not dispensed with, on the contrary their number is increasing in this country every year. Not only so, but their quality is improving, both for the carriage and heavy work. No other creature is so valuable a servant to man. He is often illegated not so much from intention. treated, not so much from intention as from ignorance of what is right. Don't build the manger so high as to make it unnatural, and therefore painful, for the horse to eat from it. Remember a horse is a grazing animal, constructed to take his food from the ground. When the head is down near the surface of the earth, the swallowing muscles are in a position to do their work; but when the head is raised four or five. when the head is raised four or five feet high, the muscles are restricted in their action. What is supposed to be gained by the high mangers in the development of high neck and shoulders is more than lost in the depressed back or "saddle back" of the horse in consequence of the unnatural elevation of the head. The bottom of the feed-box and manger should not be above the horse's knees, or, what is better, never more than one foot from the floor. The manger should be two feet deep, measuring from the top, and about two feet four inches wide at the top. Make the feed box at the bottom of the manger.

Some claim that the floor of the stall should be level instead of descending from the manger toward the rear, and use more and bet-ter absorbents. In so doing you not only save the most valuable part of the fertilizing of the horses, but you remove the strain of standing with his hind feet lower than the forward ones. When at rest in pasture the horse chooses to stand with his forward feet lower than his hind feet; this he does to throw the center of gravity nearer the fore legs and shoulders, by which the projecting neck is bal-anced by the rear portion of the

The horse wants clean food and drink. Nothing is clean where a hen goes. Hens should be kept away from horses, not only from fouling their food but from communicating lice. These parasites are difficult to remove from horses when once upon them. Don't work a horse all day upon the farm, and at night turn him out to pick up a scanty supper, when he should be resting in the stable after eating. All that a horse requires for his services is rest, food, and drink, and he is cruel who denies these. There is economy in keeping a working team in the stable at night, where it can be regularly feed, and is always ready for use. Don't scrimp the al-lowance of suitable food. All a horse needs of hay and grain to keep in good condition, it is for the profit of his owner to supply.-[New Enowner to supply.-[gland Farmer.

Teetering Up and Down.

A speculator in four years has paid one firm in Wall Street the sum of $250,000 in commissions. He was i wealthy man when he went into the street, with a laudable but unwar-rantable desire to increase his patrimony by speculating in stock s.

Now, so heavy have been his losses that he would be satisfied if he possessed the sum he has paid out in commissions. As it is, he will cheerfully accept a clerkship in the said firm, who wish to avail themselves of his numerous acquaintances to in-increase their custom. If he had been contented with a handsome sufficiency for the day, amounting really to a supera bundance, he would now be in affluence instead of in the position of comparative desti-tution he is. On the other hand, a young clerk a few years ago com-menced to speculate in the street with $200, the savings of a year's abstinence from smoking, and now is worth in real estate over $1,000, 000 and several more in securities In Wall Street speculation, more than in anything else, what is game for one man is ruin for another.

Arabella-Now do tell me, dear, why you broke your engagement with Mr. Golden. Julia-Well, I found he was too fond of drawing and painting. Arabella-Why, I should think that would just suit you, with your artistic tastes. Julia-But his taste ran to drawing checks and painting the town.

To be thoroughly good natured, and yet avoid being imposed upon, shows great strength of character. Physicians have Found out

That a contaminating and foreign element in the blood, developed by indigestion, is the cause of theumatism. This settles upon the sensitive sub-cutaneous covering of the muscles and ligaments of the joints, causing constant and shifting pain, and aggregating as a calcarcous, chalky deposit which produces stiffness and distortion of the joints. No fact which experience has demonstrated in regard to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, has stronger evidence to support than this, namely, that this medicine of comprehensive uses checks the formidable and atrocious disease, nor is it less positively established that it is preterable to the poisons often used to arrest it, since the medicine contains only salutary ingredients. It is also a signal remedy for malarial fevers, constipation, dyspepsia, kidney and bladder allments, debility and other disorders. See that you get the genuine.
