The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON:

TUESDAY.....MARCH 16, 1886

FOR THE RIGHT.

THE mayor of Portland has called a public meeting in that city this afternoon. He alleges it to be necessary. He says: "The city is full of men without any visible means of support, who have been driven from towns on the Sound and attracted here evidently for the purpose of riot when the time comes for the exodus of the Chinese."

If this is so it is certainly time for the good people of Portland to take necessary steps to insure quiet and order in their city. No community can thrive in which turbulence and lawlessness gain the ascendancy. It is a matter that directly affects everyone in that community; employer and employe, capitalist, merchant, wage worker and every resident of the city honestly employed or with honest intent is alike interested in seeing that the peace of the city is maintaind. And not only in that community but throughout the commonwealth the same interest exists directly and indirectly. What affects one affects all. If Portland suffer it has its reflex action on Astoria: prosperity in one community is reflected upon its neighbors.

For this reason the action of the mayor of Portland, if his allegation be true, is commendable; for this reason we hope that the conservative sensible element in our sister city will see that no overt act stain the fair fame of the chief city of the state; for this reason we hope that a prosperous season awaits the metropolis; that the law-abiding home-making people of that city will have the sense and courage to see what is best and to stand by it.

It is to be regretted that the arrogant rant of the Oregonian on the one hand and the criminal desire to violate the law on the other, have stirred up so much bad blood and made it seemingly necessary for Portland's citizens to meet and adopt measures of repression, but now that it appears necessary the action must meet with commendation and approval from all well meaning citizens, wherever they may be resident.

But recently the Oregonian undertook to lecture us for alleged inability to discern. Probably had it, in homely phrase, minded its own business it would have been better for the community that is compelled to endure that journal's vindictiveness.

We were skating over very thin ice down here, and are not altogether serene yet, but there is sufficient sense and justice in Astoria for this community to deal effectively with present and pressing questions.

In favorable contrast to the disquiet and uneasiness that evidently pervades Portland is the cheery bustle and business aspect of this city. We look for a prosperous season down here. In every cannery a busy crowd of men are putting things in shape, mechanics are laying out their spring work, plans are being drafted for new residences, large quantities of supplies have been bought—and paid for—and all signs give promise of a fairly prosperous season. All who want work can find it, and the busy man has no time to put up mean jobs or plan bad deeds. Our little troubles down here were mostly settled sometime ago, and we sincerely wish our Portland friends as happy and satisfactory a termination of their difficulties, and shall gladly record it when it comes.

SOCIETIES are being organized with incredible rapidity in the south among the negroes. One of the latest is the "Union State Grand Tabernacle of the Imperial Order of Gallilean Fishermen." All this is in Norfolk, Va.

THAT EDUCATIONAL BILL.

THE house committee have reported adversely on the bill just passed by the senate appropriating $77,000,000 among the states and territories for educational purposes. In this they seem to have exhibited more common sense than the upper house did in passing the ridiculous measure.

The bill is killed and deserved its fate. It simply fined the progressive states for being progressive, and awarded premiums to the sluggish commonwealths for being inert. The states that are foremost in the cause of education would have been punished and the states that are backward would have been rewarded. Had the bill passed, Oregon would have got $85,000; Mississippi, $4,500,000; the great state of New York would have had $2,625,000; while Georgia would have $6,240,000; California would have $604,000, and North Carolina $5,566,000; Iowa, in the van of educational progress would have been given $560,000 and Alabama would have got $5,201,000. Ohio, the center of colleges would have $1,582,000, and South Carolina, $4,428,000; Maine would have $264,000 and Tennessee $4,920,000. This is sufficient to show how ridiculous the idea was to to tax the north for the support of the south. To the credit of the Democratic majority of the house committee be it said they reported adversely. That will probably be the last of it.

The only presidents who were never in congress are Washington, Taylor, Grant, Arthur and Cleveland.
