

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON: SUNDAY, MARCH 21, 1886

The Columbia is due from San Francisco this morning; the State sails.

The Clatsop Mill Co. have been making extensive alterations and improvements, and will start up next Tuesday.

J. C. Ross, of the Pioneer restaurant, is in the field and ready to accommodate his patrons and the public generally.

As there will be Swedish service in the forenoon the Norwegian service will be at 2:30 p. m., in the Lutheran church, upper Astoria.

It is reported that the Oregon & California railroad will be turned over to the Central Pacific railroad Co., on the 1st of July.

Shute & Co. have sold their cigar and tobacco store to Mr. B. F. Stevens, who will in future carry on the business at the old stand.

There will be divine service on board the ship Gor. Tilley lying at the O. R. & N. Co.'s dock, at two o'clock, Rev. J. McCormack officiating.

Judge S. A. Moreland, an old and esteemed resident of Portland, died of heart disease in that city last Friday night, in the 50th year of his age.

The sale of the Vincent property, 140 acres tide land on Young's river, was made at the court house yesterday afternoon. Thos. Dealey was the purchaser, paying $685 therefor.

Capt. Steve Babbidge is in charge of the Mountaineer. This favorite craft will begin the season's business next Tuesday, the 23rd inst., and will ply between here, Cathlamet, Westport and way ports. See advt.

There will be a special meeting of the Vestry of Grace church to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock. This meeting is called for the purpose of accepting the new church and settling accounts growing out of its construction.

Mr. Jas. Bell, postmaster at upper Astoria, says he has received a part of his official furniture; that the O. R. & N. boats have signified their intention to stop with the mail whenever so instructed by the department, that his commission has been duly received, and that so far the route has not been officially established.

The low rate of fares east is sending a good many back to see the home spot. Any one intending to go can get tickets from F. E. Shute at the O. R. & N. Co.'s office just as good terms as in Portland, and can have the additional convenience of having their baggage checked from Astoria to their journey's end.

In the case of the state vs. Harris & Wright, a test suit regarding the constitutionality of the Keedy liquor law, notice of appeal was yesterday served on Fulton Bros., counsel for respondents and defendants. District Attorney McBride and Judge E. C. Bronough will argue the case on behalf of the state. The matter will come before the supreme court for final adjudication this term.

It is Mr. Leinenweber's intention to place the A. B. Field on the Nestucca and Tillamook route as soon as the work of refitting and improvement is completed. She will probably make her first trip about Saturday next. That vessel and such as her do much to extend and hold coast trade, a trade on which much of this city's business prosperity depends, and which should receive substantial encouragement.

I. Cohen is a passenger on the incoming steamer.

Col. S. W. Blaisdel arrives on the Columbia to-day.

Mr. Ben Young starts to-morrow for Frazer river where he anticipates a successful season. He will have charge of two canneries, the British American and British Columbia, and expects to pack 35,000 cases salmon.

The Firemen's Tournament.

The fire boys here are beginning to make a good many inquiries about the proposed date of the next firemen's tournament, and why a meeting of the executive board of the state association has not been called to consider this matter. The board meeting must be held three months before the date of the tournament; and the time is way past now for holding it on the regular date in June. The boys in the valley would like to hold the tournament and its association before harvest begins, if possible, and before every body leaves town. They are perfectly willing to allow the Astoria companies all the favor possible, but the Astoria companies can get here by the first of July, and the tournament should not be held later than that date to suit the people of Salem.—Salem Statesman, 19.

Card of Thanks.

The ladies of the Methodist congregation who appealed to Mayor Trullinger the other day for a donation of lumber with which to make some needed repairs on their church property, are joined by their many friends in expressions of gratitude for the mayor's kindly and generous help.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 20.—The house committee on public lands to-day reported the bill previously agreed upon, to repeal the timber culture, pre-emption and desert land laws.

The motion was carried to report favorably the bill to repeal the pre-emption law. It was then moved to report favorably the bill to repeal the timber culture law. The committee decided to refer the matter to the commissioner of the general land office before reaching final conclusion.

Under special order a limited debate on the adverse report of the free coinage bill was begun to-day, and the floor was taken by James of New York, in opposition to the bill.

ST. LOUIS, Mar. 20.—The men employed in the Washab yards at St. Louis, to-day presented a list of their grievances to the officers of that road, which they desire to have remedied. They also presented a demand that their wages be raised to equal the amounts paid in Chicago, and request that the officials send them an answer before six o'clock this evening.

DYING. LONDON, Mar. 20.—Marie Heilbron, the prima donna, is dying.

THE PORTLAND BOARD OF TRADE. PORTLAND, Mar. 20.—The Board of Trade met in special meeting to-day at 3 o'clock. There was a large attendance. No resolutions were passed. The sense of the meeting was that there was too much agitation, pro and anti. A resolution was introduced protesting against the use of the name of the board at the recent mass meeting; also a resolution that the board sustain and protect the Chinese under treaty obligations. Both were referred to a committee of five to report at next regular meeting.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION. PORTLAND, Mar. 20.—The Democratic central committee met to-day. R. L. Jeffery was elected chairman and P. H. Darcy secretary. Tillamook and Curry were the only counties not represented. It was decided that the state convention be held in Portland, May 4th, at 11 a. m. The basis of representation was fixed on the vote at the last congressional election.

CONCERNING THE "CORWIN." The revenue cutter Corwin, which has been in the river for the past week, yesterday received telegraphic orders from Washington to return to San Francisco, in answer to a telegram for instructions sent here to Washington by Capt. Healy last Friday afternoon.

A few remarks are in order. The Corwin was ordered north from San Francisco on a cruise about two weeks ago. There is very little for her to do in San Francisco—nothing in fact—and to retain her with three others who have a little to keep them moving, an order was obtained some time ago placing the Corwin at the service of the San Francisco post office department rather than, but yet it served every purpose.

The Corwin was built on the Columbia, intended for this service, by right belongs here and work could be found for her. On his arrival here Capt. Healy reported to Collector Hobson and further on to Collector Shurtlett at Portland. There appearing no effort to regain or retain the presence of the cutter, she goes back.

The necessity of such a branch of governmental service is now even greater on the lower Columbia and adjacent coast than it was at the time the Corwin was built for use in these waters. For obvious reasons the vessel should be ordered here with headquarters at Astoria. It is the belief of The Astorian that prompt representation of this matter to the government through the proper channels will place the vessel where she should be. There is no favor about the thing. It is a matter of business, an act of delayed necessity and public attention is directed to the existing state of facts.

Every Lady Her Own Dress-maker. Mrs. M. Graham, of Chicago, is stopping for the present at Mrs. Rucker's where she is teaching the Tailor System of Dress Cutting. All patterns cut out of muslin and fitted to the form. Ladies will do well to call soon as she remains but a short time.

THE SALE OF THE "SHUBRICK."

Per advertisement in THE ASTORIAN, the lighthouse tender Shubrick was offered at public auction at Main street wharf at noon yesterday. A large crowd had gathered and at a few minutes past noon E. C. Holden, the auctioneer, read the conditions of the sale, substantially that the right was reserved to reject any or all bids; that the bidder to whom she was knocked down was to deposit twenty per cent. of the purchase money that day; that the government officials at Washington were to determine whether the vessel was to be turned over to the highest bidder or not; that in case she was the purchaser would be placed in possession; if not, the deposit would be returned to him, and that the vessel was sold just as she lay.

The sale was started by Martin Ford with a bid of $1,000 and went by 250s and 100s to $4,300, bid by C. Dourbrow, of San Francisco. Another party who had participated in the bidding was at this juncture supposed to have bid $4,400 and at this price the vessel was cried for a short space of time, when it being about to be knocked down to him he disclaimed the bid and refused to have it appear as his.

Some discussion ensued, when the auctioneer started the sale again; this time the bids started at $2,500 and went by slow degrees to $3,200 at which figure the vessel was sold to C. Dourbrow. That gentleman stated that if the sale was confirmed she would be taken to San Francisco, and that he had bought her for himself.

An official report of the sale was telegraphed to Washington yesterday afternoon, and an answer will probably be received to-morrow regarding the acceptance or rejection of the bid.

The general expression is that the vessel "went very cheap." It is believed that should the sale be confirmed the vessel will be immediately annexed to the steamship line of Goodall, Perkins & Co., in the Pacific Coast Steamship Co.

THE NEW MAJOR GENERAL.

President Cleveland has nominated Brig. General O. O. Howard commanding the department of the Platte, to succeed Maj. General Pope as commandant of the division of the Pacific coast.

Oliver Owsen, who was born in the year 1830. At 20 years of age he was graduated at Bowdoin college. Soon after he was admitted to West Point where he graduated in 1854. His first appointment subsequently was in field duty, in the Indian war then in progress in the state of Florida. He returned to the academy where he served as assistant professor of mathematics.

In June, 1861, he was made a colonel of volunteers, and fought at the battle of Bull Run as commander of a brigade. He was promoted to be a Brig. General the same year. Continuing in active service he was in the Virginia campaign, and lost an arm at the battle of Fair Oaks. He was made a Major-General of volunteers in November, 1862, and commanded the second army corps at the battles of Chancellorsville and Gettysburg. His brilliant generalship in this engagement was honored with recognition by congress which passed resolutions of thanks to General Meade and him for the victory. By subsequent vote the name of General Hancock was included in the resolutions. In 1863 Howard's command was in Tennessee, where he participated in the battles of Lookout Mountain and Mission Ridge. The next year he was in command of the fourth corps in the army of the Cumberland, and took part in the engagements fought at Dalton, Resaca and Kennesaw Mountain. Subsequently he assisted in the siege of Atlanta, and commanded under Sherman in the historic march to the sea.

After the termination of the war he acted as commissioner of the freedmen's bureau, an office which he held until 1872. His next appointment was as special commissioner of Indian affairs. In December, 1868 he was made a Brigadier-General in the regular army, and the next year brevet Major-General.

From 1873 to 1881 he was engaged on the Indian frontier, his key force campaign in 1878, being productive of considerable energetic criticism on the part of civilians.

After Many Days. Richard Carruthers, while searching among the drift wood on the ocean beach a short distance south of Leabatter point, on Monday last, found a portion of a bureau. Upon breaking it open he found a tin box containing a number of papers, some of which are in the Norwegian or Swedish language. Among the papers is an act of naturalization from the 19th district court of California to Jorgen Christensen. There is a letter and commission from J. Pinet, San Francisco, to Capt. Jorg Christensen directing him to assume command of the schooner Morning Cloud at Humboldt. The letter is dated October 28, 1882, more than three and one-half years ago. No one about here has heard of the wrecking of a schooner Morning Cloud. Any one interested in these papers can have same upon applying to Richard Carruthers, Oysterville, W. T.—Pacific Journal, 19.

PRESENT PRICE OF SALMON.

ASTORIA, March 19, '86. EDITOR ASTORIAN: I have been hunting the man that is to get such high figures for his pack and he can't be found; he does not exist.

The principal houses east write here that they will not buy till the end of the season. There is old salmon of last year in the warehouses on the Columbia river unsold; salmon also in New York, and then talk about bare markets!

Why, the California Grocer is owned or manipulated by that speculator who is trying to unload his hasty purchases.

It is about time these publishers were giving the public something like fair statements of markets, and supply and demand instead of these one-sided stories gotten up by speculators.

Street corner talk on the salmon market is about this: That not one of the sales named in the recent article in the California Grocer was for a higher price than $1.07 1/2 per dozen, and the rest from that down to $1.00.

There are other packs than those therein named which have been sold at one dollar, and some reported as low as 97 1/2 cents. What can be the object of such newspaper reports, except that a certain house undertook sometime ago to control the market and bought the greater part of the salmon that has been sold. It now finds itself with contracts to purchase nearly 200,000 cases at one dollar, and one dollar and seven cents per dozen, and has become frightened and wants to unload. So captures the California Grocer and blows these great fish stories right in the face of truth and common sense. People out of work east, thousands starving in the old countries, bread very cheap and then talk of salmon being high at the beginning of a season that purposes to put up the largest pack ever known.

THE REPORT CONFIRMED.

MARSHFIELD, Or., March 19.—The steamer Beda, Healey, owned by Simpson Bros., sprung a leak about forty miles off Cape Perpetua, on the 15th, and was abandoned by the crew. She was loaded with railroad iron, and undoubtedly went to the bottom. When it was ascertained that water was gaining in the hold, it was decided to abandon the vessel. The captain and five of the crew got into one boat, and the first mate and six of the crew into another. Two of the men from the mate's boat were brought here in the tug Fearless, just arrived from the Umpqua. These men are Louis Lancelotti, sailor, and John Thrawl, fireman, only survivors of the mate's boat. They report that the second engineer and cabin boy died from exposure in the boat, and the mate and two men were drowned in trying to reach shore through the surf. They claim that having remained at the pumps so long, they were unable to take food or blankets before leaving the vessel. Their feet are much swollen, and it is certain they would have died from cold and want of food had they not attempted to reach shore through the breakers, on the open beach.

TRAGIC DEATH OF A BRUTE.

A brutal creature named Stephen J. Klumpt ended his miserable life on Thursday, March 11th, by blowing his head to pieces with his shot gun. He lived six miles below this city on Chenoweth creek, and has been notorious for his cruelty to his hard working wife and children of which he had five: a boy 15, a girl 12, and three younger. The family lived in a cabin with no fire place and no beds for the older children. He had made the oldest boy and girl sleep in the barn all winter, and the girl had her face frost bitten in one of the bitter cold nights, and when the inquest was taken by Coroner Phillips the boys still slept in the barn. Klumpt often beat his wife unmercifully, and she, it is well known, had to cut wood and load, and haul it to town to get supplies, while he was hunting about or drunk if he could get liquor. Five days after the birth of one of her children he made her get up and drive a load of wood into town to sell, and at another time she started to carry a bag of flour on her shoulder from town to the cabin, a distance of six miles, but was helped by some neighbor going home. His last act of cruelty was to strike his wife on the head, on Sunday, with an oak grub 3 feet long and as big as a man's wrist, which was used as a fire poker. A complaint was entered and he was put under $40 bonds on Monday for appearance for trial on Tuesday, the 9th, but he felt sure that his conduct would be open to the public and coward-like he blew the top of his skull off; having written a letter to County Judge Liebe and one to Sheriff Crossen that when they received them he should be dead. Not appearing at the time of trial, Deputy Sheriff Geo. Herbert went after him. His neighbors, Thomas and Marquis, had found him in the edge of an old field, where he had stuck a handkerchief onto a post with his knife, and his hat onto another post, and had laid down and placed the muzzle of his gun to his mouth and discharged it with the ramrod which he held in his hand. A piece of his skull as big as his hand was blown 60 feet. Coroner Phillips summoned a jury composed of Z. E. Byers, Lawrence Nolan, P. Ruffner, C. Neighbourger, Geo. Herbert and L. Snipes, who returned a verdict of suicide. The neighbors will now be disposed to help the poor woman and her family.—Wasco Co. Sun, 17.
