BEER DISEASES.

How Pasteur Discovered a Remedy for the Malady.

During the terrible days of the supremacy of the Commune in Paris, at the end of the Franco-German war, Pasteur was occupied in the laboratory of M. Ugeux, at Clermont-Ferrand, in studying the diseases of beer with a view to attempt to raise French beer to the higher standard of the German brewers.

Uncertainty of Literature.

Why is it that young writers harp so persistently on minor chords? Where there is one poem on home and sunshine and happy life, there are a dozen which moan over blasted hopes (at 22), twilight by the moaning sea, withered leaves, and other subjects of a more or less melancholy nature.

Very Thoughtful in a Trying Moment.

When the youngster of the household slipped into the hall and saw Adolphus with his arms around Matilda, partaking of a gentle squeeze as a "good-night," he simply yelled, "Oh!" with a big O.

A Brutal Conductor.

"I can't let this girl travel over this road on that half-fare ticket," said the new conductor to the widow Flapjack.

Drunkness.

The inebriate's craving for liquor is caused by a diseased stomach, and the application of an appropriate medical remedy prevents this craving and thus promotes the cause of temperance in an effective and rational manner.
