A queer wedding is reported from Jeffersonville, Ind., where W. D. Knox, a wealthy young cattle trader from Colorado, was united in marriage to Lizzie D. Miller. The ceremony was performed in the county clerk's office by Squire Strobel, and the courtship was peculiar. The story is that Knox came here a day or two ago, and yesterday morning got into a carriage on Jefferson street and told the hackman to drive him where he eguld see a pretty girl. The hackman started up town, and on turning the corner of Jackson and Jefferson streets spied Lizzie Miller. The hackman hailed her and introduced ber to Knox, who was greatly pleased with her good looks and invited her into the carriage, after which he instructed the backman to drive over to Jeffersonville. There the license was obtained and the wedding solemnized. Knox pulled out an immense roll of bills when he paid the justice. The newly made wife asked him where he was going, and he said back to Colorado. "Am I going with you?" she

"No," he said, "I've no further use for you."

Knox is still in town, and is having a raging time of it in his honeymoon.-Cinn. Inquirer.
