ASTORIA, OREGON:

A little colder this morning.

The editor of the Baker City Sage was robbed at the theater in that blooming burg last Wednesday night. He says the robber got $9, but that is improbable on the face of it.

There is a vacancy from Clatsop county in the Eugene state university. Intending applicants can get full information from Dr. Frank Page, county superintendent public instruction.

Two weeks ago the Wells, Fargo express company, of Seattle, received a package from Whatcom containing $550 in coin. Shortly after its receipt it was missed, and though every means have been employed to find the treasure or the man who stole it, the search has been fruitless.

Senator Mitchell has introduced an amendment to house resolution No. 10,772 making appropriation for sundry civil expense to enable the secretary of war to repair the cable at the mouth of the Columbia river, in the sum of $5,000. It is to be hoped should the bill pass that the secretary or his immediate subordinates will not become "dissatisfied" with any one in charge of the work.

The flowers that bloom in the air, tra la, felt lonesome yesterday. The surrounding atmosphere was not suited to blooms. In the early morning a frost was succeeded by hail, which at noon gave place to sleet, followed by brilliant sunshine and rain which was succeeded by snow and some more hail, the wind blowing steadily. The thermometer from nine A. M. to one o'clock this morning, averaged fifty degrees.

A report comes to the Walla Walla Journal that Harry Baer, partner of Jacob Goetz, in rich mining property at Wardner, I. T., was shafted while "on a time" in San Francisco a few days ago, and run on board a ship just setting sail for China; that friends learned of the matter and went out in a tug to secure his release, but were unsuccessful, and that the wealthy Harry is now on the high seas, en route to the flowery kingdom as a common sailor. The experience will do him good.

COULD HAVE SAVED $8000.

EDITOR ASTORIAN:
By the council proceedings published in your paper this morning it seems that there is a deadlock in the selection of police judge.

The charter should be amended and the duties of that office imposed upon the auditor. When the judge was separated from the auditor or recorder in 1876, it was thought the city was going to be second to San Francisco soon, and there would be plenty of work for both, or, if not work enough, there would be at least a style in having the police court presided over by a judge with a clerk.

The auditor is clerk, attends all its sessions and writes up the minutes so that the judge has nothing to do but pronounce sentence and sign his name.

Two men for these positions are useless and an unnecessary expense. The extra and useless money paid out in salary for all this style has cost the city, the last year, about eight thousand dollars, enough money to have paid off one-third of the city's indebtedness. It is time that those who pay the taxes were looking after these matters and economizing wherever it can be done and not creating or supporting useless offices for style, politics or charity.

A New Commander In Alaskan Waters.

The Legislative Committee at The Dalles—General News Notes.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—August Spies, one of the anarchists convicted of murder and conspiracy in connection with the Haymarket massacre, is to be married in jail on Tuesday next, to Miss Nina Clarke VanZandt.

The prospective bride of the condemned anarchist is a daughter of James Van Zandt, a well to do chemist of this city. Both he and Spies confirmed the statement as given above. As related by Spies last night, the circumstances are as follows: During the last days of the trial Miss VanZandt became a regular visitor to the court.

She was not particularly noticeable on any account except her elegant form, and was of an exceptionally blonde type. She was always fashionably dressed. After the conclusion of the trial she visited the jail and was introduced to Spies. They became interested in each other and decided to marry. VanZandt said his daughter was of a gentle, loving nature, but could be firm. On the occasion when he learned her intentions he decided not to oppose her; he believed it would be useless; besides, investigation assured him that Spies' life aside from his connection with socialism, had been admirable. Miss VanZandt is a member of the Seventh Presbyterian church. Judge Gary, being an attendant of that church, insisted on her, among other members, occupying seats on the bench during the trial. VanZandt said that his daughter is the heiress of an aunt living in Pittsburg, whose estate is valued at $300,000.

The *Temp*s protests against the idea of defensive preparations by the French authorities being made with a view to an aggressive movement by France.

LITTLETON, Jan. 15.—The Sun's Washington special says: It is the talk of the navy department today that Lieut. Wm. Emory, recently ordered to command the Thetis, is endeavoring to obtain the necessary authorization to organize an Arctic expedition.

The statement which seemed most reliable was that Lieut. Emory, having got a taste of Arctic life as a member of the Greeley rescue party, has conceived the idea that with the Thetis it would be possible to penetrate further into the Arctic region than any one has done heretofore. It is already announced that Emory has been ordered to take command of the Thetis and proceed to Alaskan waters.

The Pinta has not given satisfaction to the natives of Alaska or the Americans residing there, and many complaints have been made against him. Emory is thought to be a good man to act in a diplomatic capacity, which will certainly be required of a naval officer on duty on those waters. "He would be neither offensive or overbearing," said one of his brother officers; and he is therefore selected for rather a difficult mission, which requires a man of great patience and one who can inspire respect and settle any disputes which naturally arise in our seal fishing industry.

KILLED BY A YOUNG GIRL.

Fatal Ending of a Row at Manhattan.

Peter Gunderson Shot by Emma Friskhorn Last Friday Evening.

Coroner J. C. Ross got a telegram from Clifton yesterday morning that an inquest was needed on the body of a man killed near there the night before. Sheriff W. G. Ross got another dispatch about the same time, as follows: "Two men laid in wait for us in our house. We shot one and the other got away. Can you come and arrest him, or have we to make complaint first?" Henry Friskhorn.

The coroner and sheriff went up on the Favorite, and got to Manhattan, close by Clifton, the scene of the murder, at five o'clock. Coroner Ross held an inquest, the verdict being as follows:

"We, the jury in the case, do find that deceased was a native of Norway, aged 32 years; that he came to his death on the 14th day of January, 1887, from a gunshot wound inflicted by one Emma Friskhorn, F. W. Surprenant, Wm. Dillon, J. W. Brown, J. W. McLean, T. K. Johnson, A. Churchill.

The entire party, composed of a dozen persons, came down on the Favorite to this city, getting here at ten o'clock last night.

From the best sources obtainable the following is learned about the affair:

Some time ago a man and his wife named Friskhorn rented from Mrs. Phalango a house at Manhattan, for four months, agreeing to pay $10 a month. They have two daughters, Minnie, aged 22, and Emma, aged 15.

Boarding in the house were Peter Gunderson, the man killed Friday night, and Julius Oodby, engaged in knitting nets. Gunderson is said to have paid the rent and was taking it out in board for himself and Oodby. Oodby was fond of the younger daughter and wanted her to marry him; Gunderson wanted the older girl to be his wife. Gunderson is said to have been quarrelsome and abusive to the Friskhorns, T. K. Johnson and others.

Last Tuesday night, the older Friskhorn having gone to bed, Gunderson, who was sitting in the lower room with the girls, asked Emma to withdraw. When they were alone he asked Minnie if she would marry him. She refused. He asked her why. She said she had been told he was cruel, and that he had already a wife and children. He denied it and asked her why she said so; was it her father? She finally told him it was her mother who had warned her. He became angry, but on the younger girl returning he went away to bed.

The next day he was very abusive to the old folks. On Thursday the whole Friskhorn family were invited to a dance at Thompson's, over on the island. The girls went, and shortly afterward Gunderson came in and drove the old folks out of the house. They fled in great fear to the Friskhorns, T. K. Johnson, and others.

On Friday night the Friskhorn family came back with friends from Thompson's, and entered their house at the west door. Oodby was sitting in the northeast corner, playing an accordion, and Gunderson was standing at one of the east windows. He said "Who brought all these sons of—here?" He started for the table in the center of the room and picked up a knife. The father stood in the door, the mother went toward a door at the northwest, the older girl walked toward where Gunderson stood at the table with the knife in his hand, and began to talk to him. Oodby went to an upper room, got a pistol and went back to his corner. The younger girl had on Monday, loaded a double barreled gun to shoot a shag, but the shag was too far away and she put the gun back in the closet, and taking out the shells, put them on the shelf.

When, on returning Friday night with her father, mother and sister, and seeing Gunderson advance and pick up the knife, she slipped into the closet, put the shells in the gun and stood in the door. Minnie tried to get him to put the knife down, when he suddenly turned, motioned to Oodby and made a dash at Minnie; as he did, Oodby fired. As he fired, Emma fired at him and missed him, the shots imbedding in the window frame. Then wheeling, she fired at Gunderson, the charge striking him in the top of his head. He fell with his head under the west window and almost immediately died. The older daughter and the father and mother ran out and down to the wharf. Oodby ran also. The concussion of the shots BLEW THE TWO LIGHTS OUT.

Emma made a dash in the dark for the north door, and finding it barricaded wrenched it open and ran to the wharf, white and trembling, and after being quieted down, the horror-stricken party went over to Thompson's, returning yesterday morning. The father, mother, two sisters, Oodby, the dead man in the coffin, and the others came down on the Favorite last night. The Friskhorn family are stopping at the Parker House. The body of Gunderson will be buried to-morrow.

THE TESTIMONY.
At the coroner's inquest Julius Oodby testified as follows: "Last night Pete and I came up from Smith's at seven o'clock. I set in the corner and played the accordion. In came Friskhorn and the two girls and the old woman, and Geo. Nicholson and Alex. Mitchell, and Jno. Foster. Pete went up and talked to the old folks. He ran over and took this knife and told them to get out. Pete stood in the door and waved the knife and told them to get out. He said if they didn't get out he would kill the whole lot of them. Just then every body was talking, and the shot was fired and the lights went out, and I couldn't see who had the gun. I lit the lamp and saw Pete lying on the floor."

John Foster sworn. "Yesterday I saw the Friskhorns at Negley's. The old lady complained she had no clothes on her, that she had been run out from the house. I went back with her, went before her and spoke to Pete, asked him to make no trouble as they only wanted to get some clothes and would go away again. He promised there would be no trouble. When they were landing at the steps Pete came out and asked where his ——— was. There was some loud talk and Pete took a knife and ordered them all out of the house. Then I saw the girl have the gun and shoot, and saw the man fall. I went outside, got a light, saw he was dead. I stood beside him when he fell."

N. Johnson sworn. "I was standing in the door when the shots were fired. They rent the house from Smith."

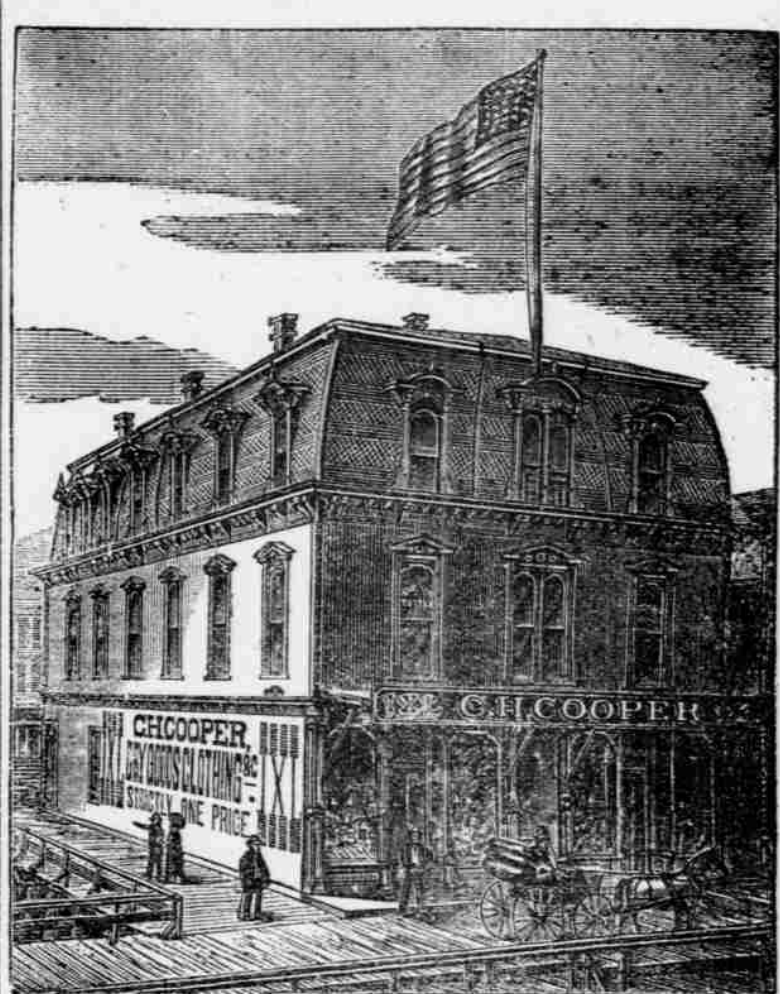

Bertha Friskhorn sworn. "I came home about 7:30 last night. Gunderson says 'Where is Minnie?' He offered to help her up from the boat. She said 'I have nothing to say to you.' He said 'Why are all those men here?' She said, 'These men will stay here till I get my clothes.' Gunderson said 'Where is my ———? I am the boss here and will show you. Get out from here.' Mrs. Smith told us we could move in here. She said the rent would be $10 for four months."

Emma Friskhorn sworn: "When I came in, Julius (Oodby) went up stairs and came down and took off his coat. I went into the closet. I saw Julius point his pistol toward my papa, and when I saw that and heard Pete tell Minnie that he was going to stab her and Geo. Nicholson then I took the gun and fired at Julius, but mamma was in the way and I could not hit him. Then I fired at Pete. He was looking around with a bulls-eye lantern when I fired at him. Then all the lamps went out and I was alone. I stood in the closet a few moments and heard a noise. Then I went out into that room to the big door, got the door open and went to the scow."

Sheriff Ross arrested Oodby and detained Foster as a witness. The girl was not arrested, but the matter will be brought before the grand jury, which is still in session, to-morrow morning. It looks like a clear case and it does not seem at all likely that the girl will be detained, as she appears to have been justified in doing what she did. Oodby will probably have a little hearing of his own before the grand jury.
