The chamber of commerce will have a meeting next Monday night.

Praise and prayer service at the Methodist church at 7 o'clock this evening.

The Mistletoe Social Club had a pleasant dance at Pythian castle hall last evening.

The regular wreck is reported from the Sound, this time by the Seattle Press which learns that the Alki is sunk at Ulsalady.

The drift of new salmon cannery operations is toward Alaska this season, which, under the circumstances is not to be wondered at.

This evening Mr. Day will hold his class in vocal music in the main hall of the Y. M. C. A. building.

The ordinance passed by the city council last Wednesday evening provides for ten electric lights to cost $16 a month, each except the one at the West Shore Mills, which is to cost $8 a month.

The telegraph line was working badly all yesterday, and about the time the press report was due it went to pieces, as usual.

The Portland G. A. R. will have a campfire on the 22nd inst. The Woman's Relief Corps will also have a convention on that date.

The tin box and music box stolen from Chas. Gunderson's residence last Monday night, were picked up last Wednesday from the mud flats under the new piece of street running east from Olney.

The San Francisco collector of customs is going to send to Washington for permission to have the Richard Rush repaired.

When the incorporators of the organization to put in tangible shape Wm. A. Grondahl's invention to overcome obstacles to navigation in the Columbia river, filed their articles of incorporation, they overlooked the fact that the company which owns the Telephone designate themselves as the "Columbia Transportation Company."

The steamer Quickstep, says the Tacoma News, while operating a trawl for codfish in the sound near Brown's point, caught a shark which measured nine feet in length, and must have weighed between 400 and 500 pounds.

The Oregonian draws another map of the cell puzzle to prove that it can't be done and says Portland is vastly stirred, yet, thrilled over the obnoxious diagram.

A squirrel is clinging to a tree-trunk; a man points a pistol at that squirrel's back; the squirrel begins to go round and round the tree, so likewise the man always covering the squirrel with his pistol.

For enterprise, push and a desire to get such goods as will give the trade satisfaction, J. W. Coun the Druggist leads all competition.

THE MEETING AT THE COURT HOUSE.

Resolutions of Protest Against the Present Water System of the City.

Pursuant to call a meeting was held at the court house last evening to protest against the water system and service of the city.

The chairman of the meeting was N. Clinton; the secretary, A. A. Cleveland. Remarks were made by Messrs. Clinton, Cleveland, Campbell, Stockton, Dealey, Allen and others.

The following resolutions were adopted: Resolved, That we, the citizens, taxpayers and water consumers of the city of Astoria, assembled for the purpose of taking some action in regard to the management of the water supply of this city, condemn the management of the present superintendent, and in self protection demand that he be removed and some competent person be appointed in his stead, and be it further:

Resolved, That we, the citizens, taxpayers and water consumers of the city of Astoria, assembled for the purpose of taking some action in regard to the management of the water supply of this city, condemn the management of the present superintendent, and in self protection demand that he be removed and some competent person be appointed in his stead, and be it further:

Resolved, That we respectfully request the editor of THE ASTORIAN to publish the full text of the franchise granted to Mr. D. P. Thompson by the city of Astoria that they, the citizens, may judge whether or not the conditions of the franchise have been complied with.

Resolved, By the meeting, that we submit to the mayor and common council of the city of Astoria our grievances, which are as follows:

Since the cold weather set in the people of this city have suffered for want of water through the inefficiency of the present system, the head of water on the mains not being sufficient, and the pipes through the city being mostly frozen; we would respectfully request that your honorable body would take such action as would insure to the people of the city a sufficient supply, and adopt such legislation as lies within your power to that end.

It was moved and carried that copies of these resolutions be sent to THE DAILY ASTORIAN, the common council and Mr. D. P. Thompson.

Attest: A. A. CLEVELAND, Secretary. The meeting then adjourned, to meet at the call of the president and secretary.

Important to Ladies.

Read what Jennie Winston, Portland's favorite prima donna, says of Wisdom's Robotine:

Portland, Dec. 22, 1886. To Mr. W. M. Wisdom:—The "Robotine" you so kindly sent me is excellent. It is the finest preparation I have ever used, and is a decided acquisition to a lady's toilet.

The above is published in order to settle all double and disputes as to the existence of such an endorsement, and as evidence of the high esteem in which Wisdom's Robotine is held. This preparation has been before the public but a short time, yet the sale has been extraordinary. Wisdom's Robotine is for sale by all the leading druggists.

Notice.

All city water mains are in good order. All consumers not getting water must remember that it is on account of breaks in their own pipes. But I am compelled to shut the water off until I get the reservoir full, for fear of a break in the main line from Bear creek.

Unnecessary Misery. Probably as much misery comes from habitual constipation as from any derangement of the functions of the body, and it is difficult to cure, for the reason that no one likes to take the medicines usually prescribed.

On board the Empire both men were given every attention, which was highly appreciated by them. When picked up they were completely exhausted and could hardly crawl. Both men are still in very bad condition physically although recovering rapidly. It will be several weeks before they will be able to resume work.

GEO. HARMON'S STORY.

Starving and Suffering Till Picked Up.

In addition to what appeared in yesterday's dispatch regarding the safe arrival of Church and Harmon at San Francisco, and the abandonment of the Dawn, the following, from the Oregonian, will be read with interest:

George Harmon, engineer of the Dawn, relates the story of hardships endured by himself and Capt. Church as follows: The Dawn was owned by Capt. A. H. Church and myself. We were the only ones on board. The Dawn cost $2,400, and expected a dollar that we owned was invested in her. We feel hard about the matter, because had our signals been heeded we would not have gone to sea and lost our vessel. On the morning of February 3d, Thursday, we lay at the wharf of the North Shore Packing company, and left there at 8 o'clock that morning.

When we were about half way across the bay one of the steam pipes burst, which prevented us using our pumps for the boiler. Steam was stopped. We anchored with a chain anchor for a short time. Then the anchor chain broke, and we threw out small anchors, but they would not hold. It was rough, with a strong northeast wind blowing, and an ebb tide running strong. We drifted toward Sand Island, when we saw the steamer Gen. Conby, Thomas Parker, master, and signaled her, but he did not come to our relief, and paid no attention to our signals. We had about forty pounds of steam left, and blew the whistle four or five times.

We drifted by Sand Island, and tried to make in by the wreck of the Great Republic, but couldn't get there because of the ebb tide and the wind, and also because of lack of steam. We had then only the choice to go in the breaker or out over the bar. We chose the bar, expecting that we would be picked up outside by a tug. When we were outside the bar we shut down steam and started to repair the steam pipe, and we had the pipe repaired that evening. There was no tug in sight. The wind was still easterly and strong. Next morning we were out of sight of land.

We started to steam and steamed four hours, when all our fuel gave out, and we had then nothing to rely on except our sails, which would help us only with a fair wind, for they were small. The wind continued off shore, and blew us off three days. On the fourth day it became calm. We saw land then, which we supposed to be Shoalwater bay, but it was really Cape Fair-weather. We had lost our bearings, and thought we had been going north instead of south. We drifted off shore for twenty-four hours, when we sighted the steamer Empire, which had previously sighted two steamers, but they had not seen us. The Empire noticed our signals, and gave us provisions and took us in tow. We sighted the Empire about thirty miles off shore, and about seventy-five miles south of Columbia bar.

When we left port we had no provisions, except half a loaf of bread and a ham bone with very little meat on it. We made soup of the ham bone, and by adding water it got to be very thin soup, but we managed to live on it till we sighted the Empire, when we had some of the soup left. The Empire took hold of us at 2 P. M. Saturday, and towed us to Coos bay, and we lay off Coos bay all day Sunday. Men came out from the life-saving service station, and told us that there was no tug there, and it was so rough we could not get in. The crew took us off the Dawn and put us on board the Empire, and we started for San Francisco, the Dawn being in tow of the Empire. About midnight, when it was very dark and rough, the hawser broke and the Dawn went adrift. This was about Cape Blaceo light. The Dawn was used for freighting. She was 54 feet 4 inches long, 18 feet beam, and 4 feet hold.

On board the Empire both men were given every attention, which was highly appreciated by them. When picked up they were completely exhausted and could hardly crawl. Both men are still in very bad condition physically although recovering rapidly. It will be several weeks before they will be able to resume work.

Church has a wife and two children at Astoria, who had mourned for him as dead. While at sea and several tugs left harbor to search for the Dawn, intending to earn some salvage if possible.

The crew of the Empire, when paid off yesterday, made up a generous purse for the relief of the rescued men. The castaways will probably be supplied with passes and leave for home on the steamer State of California, which sails for Astoria and Portland Friday.

THE NEW LAW

Regarding the Terms of Court in the Fifth Judicial District.

An Act to provide for the times of holding the term of the Circuit Court in the Fifth Judicial District.

Section 1. The terms of the Circuit court shall be held annually at the county seat of the respective counties of the fifth district as follows:

In the county of Clatsop on the third Monday in February, June and September.

In the county of Washington on the third Monday of March, and the third Monday of July, and fourth Monday in November.

In the county of Clackamas on the third Monday of April and first Monday in November.

In the county of Columbia on the first Tuesday after second Monday in May and first Tuesday after second Monday in October.

Section 2. That at the June term of the court in Clatsop county, and the July term in Washington county hereinbefore provided for, no jury shall be summoned unless the judge of the said court shall at least twenty days before said term file with the clerk of the court an order directing that a panel shall be drawn.

Section 3. All acts in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

Section 4. Inasmuch as the terms in said district are inconveniently arranged at present, this act shall take effect immediately upon its approval by the Governor. Passed by the Senate Jan. 31, 1887.

President of the Senate. Passed by the House Feb. 11, 1887. Speaker of the House.
