BOB INGERSOLL.
A Good Story About the Famous Orator.
"I served in Bob Ingersoll's command," said a veteran of the Ochiltree club at the panorama of Bull Run in Washington the other day, "and whenever I want to have a good laugh, I recall in my mind the incident connected with his capture in Tennessee. I have seen somewhere a cruel paragraph to the effect that the colonel surrendered very willingly, and I want to brand that falsehood for what it is. A braver man I never saw in five years of service. We were scattered over a good deal of territory, surrounding a village at the time the colonel was taken and cared for by the Johnnies. We were in a skirmish at the time, and the colonel was trying to get to a demoralized wing of his command. As he was passing through a series of cattle-pens, he was surrounded by a lot of confederates and commanded to surrender, but he didn't do it worth a cent. He kept right on running at breakneck speed. He was not so stout then as now, and as a pedestrian he was no slouch. The bullets were flying about him thicker than hail. If he could get to another branch of his command he felt that he could rally the boys and win the fight. A number of his men saw that he was in imminent peril, and that if he did not surrender he would be killed, and they yelled at him at the top of their voices to stop and surrender. He heeded, but I could see that he did so with regret and disgust."
"Here is where the humor began. When the colonel stopped he threw up his hands and shouted out, 'Stop firing! I'll acknowledge your — old confederacy!' The colonel was taken over to a store for safe keeping, and he proved to be a great curiosity. People flocked around him, listened to his stories, laughed, and declared that they were having more fun than they ever had in their lives. That night the colonel sat around the store till a goodly number of rebels came in, and then began to treat and tell yarns. Finally the crowd overflowed the place and blocked the entrance to it. Then the colonel went outside. The boys were all feeling well under the potency of words and drink, and every man, woman and child within the sound of his voice loved him. Directly the colonel was called upon to make a speech. This is what he had been working for, and a minute later he was on a box and addressing a crowd—and it was a right rough crowd, too. No lecture that the great orator had ever delivered contained so much that was good in it. It fairly bubbled over with good will and the milk of human kindness. He pictured how regretfully the north took up arms against the south, reminding his hearers that they had fired the first shot in their assault on Fort Sumpter. Then he went off on slavery, placing the poor whites before him in place of the unfortunate blacks—a people with souls and all the instincts of the whites, but down-trodden for no other reason than that they were black. He pictured the scene when those who had held human souls in bondage were called before the judgment throne to answer for deeds done in the flesh. It was a touching appeal, and brought forth streams of tears and storms of applause from every man who had but a few hours before shot at and captured him.
"At the moment when the most pathetic passages in his speech were being delivered, General Forrest, the confederate cavalryman whose command had made the capture, rushed into the crowd, all aglow with excitement, but not angry, and exclaimed: 'Here, Ingersoll, stop that speech and I'll exchange you for a government mule.' A short time afterward Colonel Ingersoll was paroled. He was demoralizing the whole of that command, and would have had it revolting against its commander had he been allowed to go on for two or three days as he had on the first day."

Useful and Harmful Medicines.
There is a certain class of remedies for constipation absolutely useless. These are boluses and pills made in great part of poppy-balls, aloes, rhubarb, gamboge, and other worthless ingredients. The damage they do to the stomachs of those who use them is incalculable. They evacuate the bowels, it is true, but always do so violently and profusely, and besides, gripe the bowels. Their effect is to weaken both them and the stomach. Better far to use the reliable and salutary aperient, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The laxative effect of which is never preceded by pain, or accompanied by a convulsive, violent action of the bowels. On the contrary, it invigorates those organs, the stomach and the entire system. As a means of curing and preventing malarial fevers, no medicine can compare with it, and it remedies nervous debility, rheumatism, kidney and bladder inactivity, and other inorganic ailments.

New York, Feb. 28.—The Central Labor Union adopted last night, without a dissenting voice, resolutions denouncing T. V. Powderly for his refusal to countenance any of the official expressions of sympathy for the eight anarchists, now under sentence of death in Chicago.

A Good Nurse.
Should not hesitate to wait upon those ill with such diseases as Small-pox, Cholera or Scarlet Fever. There is little to be feared by persons waiting on the sick if they will use Dary's Hygienic Fluid freely. In sick-rooms it should be exposed on a plate or saucer, and the patient sponged off with the Fluid diluted. For safety, cleanliness and comfort in the sick-room the Fluid is indispensable.

IN THE U. S. CONGRESS.
SENATE.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The presiding officer of the senate presented a message from the president in response to a resolution of the senate, in reference to the seizure and sale of the American schooner Rebecca at Tampico, and relating to the resignation of the late minister of Mexico, Jackson, and stating that he did not deem it compatible with the peaceful interests of both countries to communicate the correspondence in either case at present.

Brown submitted remarks on the subject of the message and stated the facts in connection with the seizure of the Rebecca in 1884. The claim for indemnity had dragged its slow course through three years of diplomatic correspondence without our getting redress. It was time the American minister should make earnest and vigorous demands for restitution. That was the view taken on the subject by the late minister, Jackson, and he intimated that had been one of the causes of Jackson's resignation. Jackson believed that American citizens had been arrested, imprisoned and shamefully robbed of their property in Mexican ports, that robbery had been committed with the aid of and by the pretended purity of the local Mexican courts.

The presiding officer having presented the naval appropriation bill, its second reading was objected to by Edmunds, who stated his reasons for doing so. He complained of the great unwarranted delay on the part of the committee in sending to the senate reports of the great appropriation bills, and announced a settled determination not to have them railroaded through the senate.
