TWO TIMBER DECISIONS.

Two cases of the United States vs. Weidler & Ordway came up in the United States circuit court on the 7th, says the Oregonian, on demurrer to the defense.

The first case was brought to recover $72,000 for timber cut on the lands of the United States and brought to Portland and converted into lumber. The second was to recover $7,500 for timber cut on the same lands and made into cord wood. The defendants set up two defenses—one that the land was the property of the Northern Pacific railway company, being a part of the grant of the government to that company on the route of its road between Portland and Wallula Junction and that they cut the timber thereon by the leave and consent of said company.

The second defense was that, however it may be as to whose the land is, they cut the timber in good faith, believing that the land belonged to the company, and therefore, not being willful trespassers, they ought not to pay any more than the value of the timber in the tree.

There was a demurrer to these defenses by the plaintiff. The demurrer was sustained as to the first defense on the ground that the company had no such right or interest in any section of the land included in its grant prior to the construction of the road opposite thereto as authorized it to waste or despoil it by disposing of the timber thereon. It was overruled as to the second defense on the ground that if the parties acted in good faith, as they alleged, they were not liable for any more than the value of the timber in the standing tree.

This will cut the damages down to about $3,000.

Wretched, Indeed.
Are those whom a confirmed tendency to biliousness, subject to the various and changeful symptoms indicative of liver complaint. Nausea, sick headache, constipation, furred tongue, an unpleasant breath, a dull or sharp pain in the neighborhood of the affected organ, impurity of the blood and loss of appetite, signalize it as one of the most distressing, as it is one of the most common, of maladies. There is, however, a benign specific for the disease and all its unpleasant manifestations. It is the concentrated testimony of the public and the medical profession, that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a medicine which achieves results speedily felt, thorough and benign. Besides rectifying liver disorders, it invigorates the feeble, conquers kidney and bladder complaints, and hastens the convalescence of those recovering from infectious diseases. Moreover, it is the grand specific for fever and ague.

The Interstate Commission.
NEW YORK, March 7.—A Washington dispatch says: It can be said on high authority that three members of the interstate commerce commission are absolutely decided upon. The president is in doubt regarding the two remaining selections. William R. Morrison has accepted the tender of the commission, and probably will be the chairman of the commission. Judge Cooley, of Michigan, receiver of the Wabash system, and General Bragg, of Alabama, will also be commissioners. The former is a Republican, and one of the ablest jurists of the country. The latter will represent the south.

When baby was sick, we gave her Castoria, When she was a child she cried for Castoria, When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria, When she had children, she gave them Castoria.

Although pressure has been brought to bear upon the president to induce him to approve the river and harbor bill, and strong arguments have been made and cases cited to establish authority for the executive to sign any bill within ten days after the adjournment of congress, it is authoritatively stated that the president will not approve the bill.

Distress After Eating.
This result of indigestion will no longer be experienced if Simmons' Liver Regulator is taken after each meal. It is such a good digester, and so mild and pleasant in its effect that it is used by many, after a hearty meal, to insure digestion. The Regulator does not nauseate or irritate the stomach, but corrects acidity, dispels foul gases, allays irritation, and assists the stomach in its digestion.

But He Won't Do It.

It seems a reasonable construction that the constitution gives the president ten days in every case to consider all bills before acting on them, and this without reference to whether congress continues in session or not. It also gives congress the right to override the veto if he makes it in the ten days, but congress may waive that right by an earlier adjournment. They thereby simply leave the fate of the law in the president's hands. They cannot by adjournment waive the president's right, however, to ten days' consideration. The president is always in session. He never adjourns—even to take a drink now-a-days. The constitution provides that all the granted legislative powers shall be vested in the congress of the United States. It provides thereby that their concurrence makes a law after the president signs it. The only condition is that the president shall consider it ten days. If he approve it he shall sign it. It would seem a reasonable construction, therefore, to hold that if the president sign it within the ten days (even after adjournment) it will be a law. It would be a law after the ten days in that case also without his signature, were it not for the express inhibition of the constitution that in the last named case it should not be a law.—Democrat.

SALEM, March 7.—G. W. Walker, of Pendleton, was to-night appointed by the governor to the second judgeship in the sixth judicial district, created by an act of the last legislature.

How's Your Liver?

In the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons' Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.
As a general family remedy for Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced. It seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.
