And don't you forget that every egg bought from the above parties is guaranteed by this to be fresh. S. K. STANLEY.

Of all the pleasant things said of Mrs. Cleveland this winter the truest is that no one has yet heard from her the slightest suggestion of gossip. Innumerable and as irresistible as are the opportunities here to a quick-witted woman to comment on people and things, she never made the simplest remark which might be construed as unkind. Perhaps no lady in her position was ever a keener reader of what others say of her in print than Mrs. Cleveland, and naturally much of her knowledge of the social doings of others comes to her only through that medium. She expresses herself as being thoroughly appreciative of the kind things said to and of her, particularly of the success which has followed her career as hostess of the White house, and in that capacity has charmed the most critical of Washington's cultured resident and foreign circles. - Washington Letter.

C. B. Allen, of Fort Canby, has a billiard table, that is surrounded with more than ordinary interest. At one end of the table are engraved the words, "Washoe Club." The table at one time belonged to this celebrated club, at Virginia City, in the good old days when Belcher paid her heavy dividends and Gould and Curry was worth $1,700 a share. The memories associated with this table will recall many departed fancies of the time when such men as John P. Jones, Senator Sharon, J. W. Mackey, G. C. Stevenson and J. G. Fair were active members. The Washoe club was the most celebrated club on the coast in those days. - Pacific Journal.
