

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON: THURSDAY, APRIL 7, 1887.

County court adjourned yesterday till May 16th.

The next examination for school teacher's certificates in this county will be held on the 29th of next June.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church will have a social at Mrs. E. C. Holden's this evening. A general invitation is extended.

The funeral of the late Wm. Walters took place from the residence of his son-in-law, Chas. Granderson, at two o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The Rescuer hose team has organized for the coming tournament. F. L. Parker was re-elected captain. The intention is to shortly begin drill.

The steamship City of Chester will take the place of the lost Mexico on the San Francisco and Puget sound route. She has been lately running between San Francisco and Humboldt.

In the justice court yesterday a jury found Geo. W. Willis guilty of the charge of assaulting his mother-in-law. Justice Cleveland sentenced the defendant to twenty-four days in the county jail.

Articles of incorporation of the Florence Canning company, of Florence, Lane county, have been filed in the office of the secretary of state; incorporators, M. Meyers, Wm. Kyle and Christina Kyle; capital stock, $15,000.

The first carload of new salmon for the season of 1887 arrived here yesterday and will leave to-day on the Northern Pacific, consigned to Austin, Nichols & Co., New York. They were put up at the cannery of Wm. Hume, at Eagle Cliff, W. T. Oregonian, 6.

Since the interstate commerce law went into effect, the Pacific Mail Steamship company has advanced the rates to New York from $6 to $15 a ton; clipper ship rates range from $6 to $10. The rates from New York to the Columbia around the Horn have not varied much from the latter figure and a slight advance is probable.

In a letter to a friend in this city, says the Portland Democrat, Major Hodgkin urges the advisability of the firemen in this city getting up an entertainment of some kind for the tournament. He also states that Worsley is willing to "drop the pool racket," and a source of much dissatisfaction removed. The chances of the next tournament being a success are good.

A communication is received, signed by the paper dealers of San Francisco, saying that "owing to the enormous advance in freight" they have advanced their prices. All right, go right ahead with the advance. We've bought enough in Chicago at bedrock prices to last till the interstate commissioners and the judges knock so many holes in the law that any little railroad in the country can wig through it. The present cinch won't last over six months.

It was ordered that the treasurer advertise for the payment of all county orders presented and not paid for want of funds up to July 1st, 1886, and that the clerk make reports as heretofore in January and July and publish same, and that the reports furnished by the state be dispensed with. MURDER WILL OUT. PORTLAND, April 6. A squaw named Minor, the widow of a negro, died here early this morning. She was the keeper of the notorious "Minor" dive. William Smith and wife were also with the squaw and were sent for, being old and intimate friends. The dying woman said she had a confession to make. She said that she, with others, got Keneally drunk the night he was murdered last November in the Villard rains, and easily took him there. "My daughter Georgia went along," and holding up her right hand she said: "This hand has seen his blood." Holding the left hand up she said: "This had his money." The hag left a request to have all told. The man and woman decline to tell who she said did the cutting. They all held him while one chopped. Before dying she said: "Georgia saw it all, and can talk if she wants to." The police have possession of all the facts. Georgia is in custody. The story is generally credited and causes great excitement.

GOSE TO WORK. WASHINGTON, April 6. Assistant secretary of the treasury Maynard began his duties to-day.

How It Appears in London. The London view of the salmon question is given in the following from the Grocer's Gazette of March 5th: Business throughout the week has been very slow, and few, if any, London members of the trade are disposed to make forward purchases of 1887 pack at the full prices asked. Statistics published in our last show that, after all, there was a full average pack in 1886, and although the product of the Columbia river was reduced, other districts show a large increase in their output. Further, it must be remembered that the bulk of the consumption, in this country at any rate is, among classes of the community with whom economy in prices is an important consideration; and as the quality of the pack of other rivers is generally satisfactory, we do not anticipate scarcity in future supplies, particularly as present prices will induce canners to pack all they are able, so that speculative purchases just now for consumption twelve months ahead seem to us a very risky venture.

The Face. The care of the complexion has become an accomplishment that no lady of refined tastes can afford to ignore, and in leading society circles it claims as much thought as do the fashions. It is an acknowledged fact that the variations of our climate are very severe on the complexion, noticeable by a roughness and dryness of the skin, and to counteract this effect it becomes necessary to call in the aid of art. In the selection of this agent too much care cannot be exercised. It is well known to the chemist that many of the so-called "blooms," "balms," "creams," etc., contain lead and other poisonous substances, the long-continued use of which is dangerous. Wisdom's Robortine is guaranteed under a forfeiture of $1,000, to be absolutely free from poisonous substances. If you have not yet tried it, do so at once, and be one of the hundreds who pronounce it the most delightful toilet article ever produced. Wisdom's Robortine is sold at fifty cents per bottle. Sold by W. E. Dement & Co.

PERSONAL.

J. D. Merryman came down from Hillsboro yesterday afternoon. Danger Larking in the Chimney Top. "Observer," in the St. Louis Mill-er, says: A long experience in burning wood fuel in both heating and cooking stoves has brought out a danger point in this combustion that may throw light on some of the unexplained fires that from time to time occur in both city and country, and especially in the country. Being much annoyed by rain running down inside the flue, I procured a sheet iron cap for one flue and a fire clay T cap for the other. After that time I was every now and then troubled with the flues being on fire, and in several instances the roof took fire outside. After a long experience of this kind the iron cap was removed, and no more fires have been in that flue or on the roof of that building. This led to a close watch over the other building, which had the stove pipe enter into a fire clay pipe of six feet, ending in a T top on the outside. The fire clay flue rises through an attic. The frequency of fires led to very careful examination into all the associated conditions. Thus I find that the colder the weather is, there is not only increased combustion, but increased condensation of the elements of the wood carried up in the smoke, and striking against the top of the cap, is retarded in its emission, and water and a tarry substance containing an inflammable oil is thrown back down the flue, and gathers on the top and around the openings of the top, often dropping on the roof. This substance is easily ignited, and the flue, the top, and the matter on the roof all burn with great force, and is a source of great and constant danger.

Experiments show that angles, bends, or numerous pipes entering the same flue, by retarding or impeding the direct draught, tends to this deposit by favoring condensation. The process is similar in action to the retort. It is the production of an empyreumatic oil by the destructive distillation of wood.

I have tried burning zinc, sulphur, salts, etc., but all fail; direct draught, no obstruction by caps, and frequent troublesome cleanings are the only preventives of the danger. The soot, of itself, has little or no inflammability. Attention to this subject may be of value both to owners and insurance companies, and scientists may find a way to utilize the inflammable products which enter so largely into all our domestic enjoyments.

This whole subject of domestic combustion is worthy of close attention, as being associated with interests and dangers of very great importance.
