

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON: SATURDAY, APRIL 9, 1887

The members of the immigration board, including the secretary, have resigned. They suggest to the governor the advisability of continuing the organization, which is a state necessity.

The statement of county finances, published elsewhere is a matter of interest to every taxpayer in the county. There is now a balance in the general fund of $23,694.91, which is to be paid out on the redemption of county warrants issued prior to July 1st, 1886.

We are not always consistent in the treatment of nuisances. The person who dumps garbage on your premises, or is responsible for a condition of things which is prejudicial to the public health, is amenable to law; but the man who thrusts a newspaper reeking with the purient details of crime into the family circle, is not molested.

The New York Commercial Advertiser says: "Between Americans born here and Americans born abroad, there should be no unnecessary distinctions, so long as both are really and truly Americans; but the doctrine that America is for Americans—native and naturalized—is sound doctrine, and it should be enforced by all the power there is in sentiment and law."

The following from the Seattle Times is eminently correct: "No journal has a right to invade the sanctity of the home of any man, be he private citizen or public officer. No journalist has a right to use the columns of a newspaper to attack the honor of a family or heap disgrace upon the heads of defenceless women and children. It is without the pale of decency, beyond the toleration of conservatism, a cowardly, criminal wrong. He who thus prostitutes the columns he controls, who thus abuses the wanted and necessary 'liberty of the press' should be held personally accountable therefor."

The faculty of hope is sometimes treated as if it were an airy, visionary apartment in the brain, of little practical value to people who walk on the solid earth. But there is no faculty which people who walk on the solid earth find of more value in helping them over its ups and downs. The sanguine man is the man who expects success. The great majority of people have little heart to work for things which they do not expect to see realized. The hope stimulates the will power. It diffuses its geniality over the whole man. It is a light which warms as well as cheers.

SAYS the Telegram: The railroads are taking every possible advantage of the interstate commerce law. Even employes find it much harder to obtain passes over the roads for which they work than formerly, and in some instances they do not get them at all. The O. R. & N. company have taken to issuing their employes half rate checks for tickets and other roads will probably do likewise. One employe who grumbled at this was told that under a strict interpretation of the law the officers themselves would have to buy tickets over their own roads. A large sized grain of salt goes with this story, however. Drummers and theatrical people are the ones who will fare the worst under the provisions of the new law. It had become quite customary for all roads and transportation lines to grant these people not only special rates but also to permit them to carry a large excess of baggage over the usual amount allowed, thus saving another big item of expense. This is no longer permitted. Large companies of actors will, however, probably be able to obtain rates under the section of the law which provides for excursion parties.

They Will Probably Come Back Again. SALEM, April 7.—At the regular meeting of Capital Engine company, held to-night, it was, upon motion, decided after a warm discussion to withdraw from the state firemen's association. The attendance at the meeting was very large, and the motion was carried by a majority of two. A protest against the action of the company was entered on the minutes by some of those voting in the minority. The Capitals were for three seasons champions in the hose race, which is the contest in which the principal interest centers during a tournament. The bad feeling which was engendered over the races of last tournament is the cause of the withdrawal of the company.
