TRANSATLANTIC DISCUSSION.

The Letter That the London "Times" Says Parnell Wrote.

LONDON, April 18.—The alleged letter of Parnell, supposed to have been addressed to Egan, relative to the Phoenix Park murderers, which the Times published this morning, has caused an immense excitement among all parties. In an interview to-day, Clancey, Parnell's member for Dublin county, branded this letter as an infamous concoction, and declared that it bears internal evidence of forgery. He said also that suspicion was already directed against a certain person as the forger. Irish members of parliament departed for Dublin this morning to compare the handwriting in the letter attributed to Parnell with that of the person suspected.

The London Globe, commenting on the letter, says: "Until the horrible accusation that Parnell wrote the letter is proved we shall discredit it."

The Pall Mall Gazette says: "Until the authenticity of the letter shall be absolutely proved there will be no need to discuss its contents."

The St. James Gazette says: "The letter is so grave a document that it will not do to regard it as genuine until Parnell shall be heard from concerning it."

The editor of the Times will be summoned to the bar of the house of commons to explain the authorship of the letter.

LONDON, April 18.—Little doubt remains that the alleged letter of Parnell to Egan, which implicates him in the Phoenix Park murder, has been in possession of the Times for days if not weeks, and was saved until to-day so as to give no time to parry the blow before the vote was taken on the second reading of the coercion bill. The case is similar to the famous Morey letter forgery in the Garfield campaign in the United States, where in the Republican candidate was made to show sympathy with Chinese cheap labor and he did not have time to prove the fraud fully before election.

The Times admits it had the alleged letter before the exciting scene in the house of commons last Friday night. The Parnell's own intimate that Sanderson was inspired to make his charge that the home rule leaders were associates of murderers in order to pave a way for the publication of this document. The Irish agitators say they were prepared for Sanderson's assault on them and arranged their own programme in which every one of them was to call Sanderson a "liar" in turn and be suspended, but when Speaker Peel saw their game he stopped it by having Sanderson withdraw the accusation after Healy was suspended. The evening papers here declare Parnell's letter is a very serious matter, but they advise caution until its genuineness is proven.

LONDON, April 19.—The Standard says this morning that Parnell could not do less than repudiate the letter published in the Times as an audacious forgery, and it now remains for the Times to prove its author.

LONDON, April 19.—The Times says: "We pay no attention whatever to Parnell's big words. If he proceeds against us we shall apply only a test by which the truth can be brought plainly before the world. We are quite prepared to meet him."

A Life Made Miserable
By dyspepsia is scarcely worth the living. A capricious appetite, heartburn, puzzling nervous symptoms, increase of action of the heart after eating, sinking in the abdomen between meals, and flatulence after, are among the successive indices of this harassing complaint. Two things only are needed for its removal. A resort to Howe's St. Joseph's Bitters, and persistence in its use. These remedial measures being adopted, a cure is certain. Taken immediately before or after meals, this great stomachic promotes secretion of the gastric juice, the natural solvent of the food. The nervous and bilious symptoms consequent upon chronic indigestion disappear, as the complaint gradually yields to the corrective and invigorating influence of the Bitters. Appetite returns, sleep becomes more refreshing, and as a sequence, the body is efficiently nourished, muscular power increases, and the mind grows sanguine. Use the Bitters for chills and fever, and rheumatism.

Overloading Vessels.

The captain of the schooner Lizzie Williams was seen at Mr. Blair's office, on Market street, this forenoon. He arrived in port last Monday and was glad that his schooner survived the terrible gale that swept the coast last week. He says it was the severest storm that he ever encountered on this coast. For twelve hours the chance of living it through seemed very slight. He inclines to the opinion that the ship St. Stephen went down, and that all on board were lost. Other captains incline to the same view, but all say that there is hope that the ship is only distressed and may come into port, although she is thirteen days out from Seattle.

J. F. Chapman & Co., of this city, the agents of the ship, have yet some hopes that the vessel may come in. They cannot get direct verification of the report that the captain of the Enoch Talbot saw her go down. It is reported that the captain of the Unatilla was told by the captain of the Enoch Talbot that the latter saw her go down. She was a stanch ship, built ten years ago and would naturally survive a gale that the schooners could live in, but she is the only one of the fleet not heard from.

It is the opinion of a captain of thirty years residence on this coast, that the ship went down because she was overladen. There seems to be a rivalry among captains to bring in big cargoes, and the inspectors do not interfere very much with overloading. It was said by one captain that if a master of a ship loaded safely, as the law of buoyancy and the laws of the company require, he would not hold his position long. He gave this as an example. If my ship should come in with 1,800 tons of coal and your ship of equal capacity should bring in 2,100 tons, the owner of my vessel would plainly inform me that your ship's cargo was worth something and would want to know why I didn't carry 2,100 tons.

The reporter asked if the safety of human life was ever considered when loading a ship for sea. The response came that the chance of a smooth voyage was considered. He said every one familiar with shipping on this coast knew that the wheat and coal ships were overladen. In rough weather, when a thousand tons of water would be thrown by an angry sea on the deck of a vessel carrying 2,000 tons of coal, she might not have the buoyancy to recover.

The captain of the Lizzie Williams says that he encountered the heaviest part of the gale when about fifty miles south-west of Cape Flattery.—S. P. Bulletin, 14.
