

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON:

THURSDAY, APRIL 23, 1887

"Dr. Mudd is still attending Blaine." Seems as though Blaine had enough of mud in '84.

"The czar of Russia would be a happier man if he had only one true friend," sighs a Boston exchange. Send him a dog.

REFERENCE to the census shows that those rural counties in Michigan which were strongly against prohibition have a large percentage of foreign-born residents.

SWISS capitalists are going to establish snail culture in the United States, and a Chicago paper meekly suggests St. Louis as a proper location for the snailery.

It is said $15,000,000 is being raised by Chicago parties with which to make a "deal" on the 2,306,000 bushels of contract wheat now in store in Chicago and a large amount on the way.

THE drought throughout central Illinois together with the great and continuous heat, is unprecedented. The thermometer registers nearly 90° in the shade daily. The farmers are beginning to plant corn, nearly three weeks ahead of time.

It seems a little early, but fourteen persons have already been killed at a Memphis, Tenn., sociable by eating ice-cream. Spring is evidently on time in the south. Next in order will be the poisoning of a whole family in Louisville, Ky., by eating a can of Carquinez salmon of the vintage of '82.

APRIL 12th a stonecutter began to chisel a fitting inscription on the monument erected long ago at Washington to the memory of Gen. Nathaniel Greene of the Revolutionary army. The resolution authorizing the inscription was passed in 1786, the appropriation for the purpose was passed in 1877, and the work has been begun in 1887.

Down in Kansas the other day, a tailor shot a man for whom he had made two suits of clothes and who had refused to pay him for them, and the townspeople were so pleased that they talk of running the tailor for mayor. It's dollars to dimes that he'd make a good one. Any tendency to establish business on a cash basis should be encouraged.

THE New York Herald thinks it will not do for Mr. Blaine to remain ill a great while. The pressure against him as a candidate for the presidency is becoming serious just in this spring of the year 1887, and it is becoming especially serious in the extent to which organs of his own party, from which he expected different things, are bearing part in it. But it is a long time between now and next year; and, unless this opposition sentiment makes too much headway in its beginning, the late candidate will manage to keep himself in condition. They reckon ill who count him out until further heard from; and yet a course of careful reticence would not be bad policy for Mr. Blaine.

A GIFT for All. In order to give all a chance to test it, and thus be convinced of its wonderful curative powers, Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, will be, for a limited time, given away. This offer is not only liberal, but shows unbounded faith in the merits of this great remedy. All who suffer from Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, or any affection of Throat, Chest, or Lungs, are especially requested to call at W. E. Dement & Co.'s Drug Store, and get a Trial Bottle Free, Large Bottles $1.

Sat on Her Heel and Got Up Again.

When Mrs. Potter was presented last summer, in an informal way at some entertainment, to the Connaughts—the first members of the royal family whom she had met—she greeted them with a cordial extension of her pretty American hands, which greatly horrified the English ladies present, who made haste to apprise her, afterwards, that a low courtesy is the proper salutation to royalty in accordance with the immemorial etiquette. When, therefore, on a similar occasion, Mrs. Potter met the Prince of Wales, she executed an obeisance, remarking sotto voce to a friend as she did so, "You see I have not forgotten my manners this time; I have sat on my heel and got up again." The prince overheard this remark, which, coming from an American, and a pretty one at that, immensely pleased that august personage, who would have undoubtedly been righteously indignant had one of his mother's subjects, be she ever so lovely, dared to take such a liberty. —Boston Globe.

Renews Her Youth. Mrs. Phoebe Chesley, Peterson, Clay Co., Iowa, tells the following story, the truth of which is vouched for by the residents of the town: "I am 73 years old, have been troubled with kidney complaint and lameness for many years; could not dress myself without help. Now I am free from all pain and soreness, and am able to do all my own housework. I owe my thanks to Electric Bitters for having renewed my youth, and removed completely all disease and pain." Try a bottle, only 50c. at W. E. Dement & Co.'s Drug Store.
