THE FISHERIES QUESTION.

The attempt of the Canadian cruiser Vigilant to seize the American schooner Hattie Maud on the 20th of April, her chase of the schooner and her firing upon the fishermen, have aroused a new interest in the fishery question, and the action of Canada has excited much comment.

The difficulty, says the Chronicle, grows out of the construction of the three-mile limit, and arises in this way: Canada insists that in defining the three-mile limit, within which it is unlawful for the fishermen of the United States to fish, the line should be drawn from a point three miles from a cape or the next headland, while our fishermen contend that the line should follow the meanders of the shore, and that if at any time they are more than three miles from the shore on a line drawn at right angles to the coast line at that point, they are not violating the law or the treaty. If any one will make for himself a rough diagram of a coast indented with bay and harbors and inlets, it will be apparent that the Canadian interpretation of the three-mile limit includes a great deal of fishing ground which our fishermen's construction of the law would leave open to them.

The whole coast of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia is of this character, being ragged and irregular, broken up along its whole length with inlets. Grand Manan island, near which the attack of the Vigilant took place, is an island off the coast of Maine, belonging to New Brunswick. It is in the entrance to the Bay of Fundy, and its vicinity has been a noted fishing ground for many years for the Gloucester and other Massachusetts fishermen.

It is not necessary at this time to review the various treaties affecting the fishing question, from the treaty of peace between Great Britain and the United States, negotiated in 1783, down to the treaty of Washington, signed and ratified in 1817. Suffice it to say that under this last treaty the privilege of inshore fishing—that is within the three-mile limit—was thrown open for twelve years, and this term was extended to July 1, 1855, by mutual agreement. It was for this twelve-year concession that we paid Great Britain, under the remarkable decision of the fishery commission, the sum of $5,500,000.

But now that this treaty has expired by limitation, and we are obliged to fall back on the treaty of 1818, difficulties are constantly arising, most of them growing out of the three-mile limit. It must be conceded that vessels of the United States, fishing within three miles of the nearest portion of the Canadian shore, are properly liable to seizure, as would Canadian vessels be if fishing within three miles of the Maine shore; but the question continually recurs, what is the three-mile limit?

The retaliation act of the last congress was based upon another phase of the fishing question. Under the treaty of 1818, above referred to, vessels of the United States were permitted to go into Canadian harbors to purchase supplies; but in 1886 the Dominion parliament passed an act providing that the Canadian customs officers might bring any vessel being within any harbor in Canada, or hovering in British waters within three marine miles of the shore, into port, and search her cargo and examine the master on oath touching the cargo and the voyage; and any foreign vessel entering such waters for any purpose not permitted by treaty or by the law of Canada should be forfeited. Under that act numerous seizures were made, many of them, it is claimed, unlawfully, and many of them under circumstances of great hardship to the vessels and their masters and crews.

To put a stop to that, congress passed what is called the retaliation act, providing, in brief, that whenever the president of the United States should be satisfied that our fishing vessels had been unjustly vexed or harassed by Canada, he might, by proclamation, exclude Canadian vessels from ports of the United States, and might also deny entry into any port of the United States of Canadian fish.

Here, then, is where the matter stands, and it will be seen at once that there are so many points of possible friction that serious difficulty may arise at any time. A great deal of hard feeling has been already excited, and while it is true that Canada will suffer more from the retaliation act than we shall from their act, yet that fact will only serve to keep up unpleasant feelings and semi-hostile relations.

The whole matter should be settled by opening the inshore fisheries to our fishermen, upon payment, perhaps, of a reasonable sum to the Canadian government, and by a genuine effort on the part of both Canada and the United States, to restore and maintain amicable relations.

Greatly Regretted By Geo'y. Endicott.

The present state of work presents a most dilapidated and forlorn aspect. After ten years of waste and incompetency, nothing better can be expected as to results. Nor does the future under the present control promise anything more satisfactory. To-day there are only about fifty men employed in excavating here and there a pit that the summer floods will in all probability fill up again; the lower half is under water and another month will submerge the canal from end to end, suspending operations during the summer. Thus between high water in the summer, the storms of winter and designing enemies all the year, the present degeneration have no particular interest in the Cascade locks, and our children will be gray headed when the first boat passes up to our city.—Dalles Paper.

To Dislodge the Enemy.

When it takes the form of disease of the kidneys or bladder, is a task well nigh impossible of accomplishment. Remedial medicals are more obtinate than any others. Counteract, therefore, the early indications of inactivity of the many organs with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which possesses, among other excellent qualities, those of an efficient diuretic. The degree of stimulation apparent from its use reaches, but never goes beyond the bounds of safety. It invigorates always, never irritates. Bright's disease, diabetes, catarrh of the bladder, are diseases successfully combated in their incipency with this benign medicinal stimulus and tonic. It cures the inoperable and regulates the kidneys and bladder, the Bitters is a specific for fever and ague, constipation and dyspepsia.

Gladstone visited the Buffalo Bill show in London last Thursday.

When baby was sick, we gave her Castoria, When she was a Child she cried for Castoria, When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria, When she had Children, she gave them Castoria

The federal government has now on hand, but not on tap, two hundred tons of silver and forty-eight tons of gold. That makes the European mouth water.

If you would enjoy your dinner and are prevented by Dyspepsia, use Acker's Dyspepsia Tablets. They are a positive cure for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Flatulency and Constipation. We guarantee them. 25 and 50 cents.

A New Jersey man has invented the coming political slang. He says: "We have no second choice. Blaine is our best girl."

Old and reliable Medicines are the best to depend upon. Acker's Blood Elixir has been prescribed for years for all Impurities of the Blood. In every form of Scrofulous, Syphilitic or Mercurial Diseases it is invaluable. For Rheumatism, has no equal.

The more you puff a cigar the smaller it becomes. And that is the case with some men.

At Night Always have Acker's Baby Soother at hand. It is the only safe medicine yet made that will remove all infantile disorders. It contains no Opium or Morphine, but gives the child natural ease from pain. Price 25 cents.

TAKE SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

For all Diseases of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Spleen.

This purely vegetable preparation, now so celebrated as a Family Medicine, originated in the South in 1828. It acts gently on the Bowels and Kidneys and corrects the action of the Liver, and is, therefore, the best preparatory medicine, whatever the ailment may prove to be. In all common diseases it will, unassisted by any other medicine, effect a speedy cure.

The Regulator is safe to administer in any condition of the system, and under no circumstances can it do harm. It will invigorate like a glass of wine, but is so innocuous a beverage as to lead to intemperance; will promote digestion, dissipate headache, and generally tone up the system. The dose is small, not unpleasant, and its virtues undoubted.

No loss of time, no interruption or stoppage of business while taking the Regulator.

Children complaining of Colic, Headache, or Sick Stomach, a teaspoonful or more will give relief.

If taken occasionally by patients exposed to MALARIA, it will expel the poison and protect them from attack.

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.
I have been practicing medicine for twenty years, and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system.
