When to Shoot.

try life for a farmer to discharge a shotgun at trespassers, and he seems to be unaware of the fact that he can be convicted of murder in case the shot proves fatal. The same impression, although in a less degree, prevails in the city. There are thousands of shopkeepers who would not scruple to shoot a person caught robbing their till, and as for a housebreaker, there he has no right to shoot in any of the above cases. The law on this point life, and not then unless there is no chance of escape by flight. You may shoot a burg ar or a highwayman because you have a right to infer that the burglar or highwayman is armed and will shoot you, and because you cannot escape. But you have no right to shoot the thief whom you may detect in leaving your hall with your overpocket. The principle upon which the law is founded is obvious. You have a moral and legal right to defend your life or the life of a tellow being, but you have no right to be the judge and executioner in the case of a misdemeanor or felony. The courts exist for the purpose of punishing the crimes of housebreaking, felony, thieving and fruit stealing, and when you presume to punish them you are rightly amenable to the law. sore on my cheek, and the doctors prou it cancer. I have tried a number of physicians but without receiving any permanent benefit. Among the number were one or two specialists, The medicine they applied was like fire to the soro, causing intense pain. I saw a statement in the papers telling what S. S. S. had done for others similarly afflicted. I procured some at once. Before I had used the second bottle the neighbors could notice that my cancer was healing up. My general health had been bad for two or three years-I had a hacking cough and spit blood continually. I had a severe pain in my breast. After taking six bottles of S. S. S. my cough left me and I grew stouter than I had been for several years. My canoar has healed over all but a little spot about the size of a half dime, and it is rapidly disappearing. I would advise every one with cancer to give S. S. S. a fair trial.
