The Law Didn't Cover the Case.

A "lost, sfrayed or stolen" dude was arrested in Texas' with a parlor pistol in his pocket, and taken before the judge, a broad-shouldered, bluff sort of a man, who had roughed it on the plains before coming to the

"What's the row?" inquired the court, glowering on the prisoner, who shivered like a man kindling the fire on a winter morning, and looked like he wanted to crawl under the table. 'May it please the court' replied the arresting officer, "the prisoner was carrying this pistol," holding up the weapon. "Well, what of that?" changing front from the prisoner to the officer. "Your honor, the law says that a man who carries deadly weapons shall be fined or imprisoned." "May be it does. It's none of my business to doubt your statement, but "Your honor, the prisoner had it in his pocket." "I don't care where he had it, As long as it was in his possession, it wasn't a deadly weapon; for I'll bet a drove of steers such a looking bud of promise as he is couldn't hit a four story meeting house, with it, five steps. TRIED

CRUCIBLE

About twenty years ago I discovered a little sore on my cheek, and the doctors pros it cancer. I have tried a number of physicians but without receiving any permanent benefit. Among the number were one or two specialists others similarly afflicted. I procured some at once. Before I had used the second bottle the neighbors could notice that my cancer was healing up. My general health had been bad for two or three years—I had a hacking cough and spit blood continually. I had a severe pain in my breast. After taking six bottles of S. S. S. my cough left me and I grew stouter than I had been for several years. My cancer has healed over all but a little spot about the size of a half dime, and it is rapidly disappearing. I would advise overy one with cancer to
