Beaver Farming.

The almost total extinction of the beaver in North America has induced an experiment in Canada at raising these valuable little animals for commercial purposes. The only wonder is that it has not been tried before. The beaver is intelligent and easily tamed, and probably but little difficulty would be found in breeding it and reducing it to a condition of semi-do-AND LIVER MEDICINE. mesticity, in which it would become commercially valuable. There would always be a market for its fine, soft fur, and beaver's tail is a dainty for an epicure.

There is a hirt in this Canadian project for Oregonians. Beavers formerly abounded in this country, and a few survivors of ancient popalous communities still find homes in the coast counties. Some of these localities, which are almost useless for other purposes on account of the cost and difficulty of their reclamation, would afford excellent sites for "beaver farms." The application of silk to hat making, and the rapid disappearance of the beaver before advancing settlement, and the enterprise of hunters and trappers, have combined to make beaver skins a less prominent feature of the fur market than in former years; but there is no doubt that supply and demand would react upon each other to make a good and steady market for this intrinsically valuable fur if furnished in quantities sufficient to establish quotations. It is also probable that under a system of semi-domestication the skins would be profitably marketed at a price less than would compensate a trapper for the precarious result of his arduous pursuit. Some Clatsop county farmer might find it to his int rest to devote some of his spare time to experiments in this direction, and no doubt his boys would be delighted to keep him at

It will be remembered that last winter an immense slice of mountain loosened and slipped into the valley of Rock creek, in this county. The creek was dammed completely, and the road obstructed. A road has just been opened to the farm of Mr. Nash through the slide. It took twenty-five men six weeks to open the road. A bridge 120 feet long had to be made.-Benton Leader.

TRIED

CRUCIBLE

About twenty years ago I discovered a Httle sore on my cheek, and the doctors pronounce it cancer. I have tried a number of physicians, but without receiving any permanent benefit. Among the number were one or two specialists. The medicine they applied was like fire to the sore, causing intense pain. I saw a statement in the papers telling what S. S. S. had done for others similarly afflicted. I procured some at once. Before I had used the second bottle the neighbors could notice that my cancer was healing up. My general health had been bad for two or three years-I had a hacking cough and spit blood continually. I had a severe pain in my breast. After taking six bottles of 3. S. S. my cough left me and I grew stouter than I had been for several years. My cancer has healed over all but a little spot about the size of a half dime, and it is rapidly disappear ing. I would advise every one with causer to give S. S. S. a fair trial.
