Same Man.
Some time ago a confidential clerk in the employ of a firm in Indiana skipped the gutter with several thousand dollars in ready cash. While it was determined to hunt him down at all hazards, the firm did not feel like wasting a great deal of money in so doing. A one-horse country detective was therefore employed, and after a while he traced his man to Detroit. The detective didn't propose to share any of the glory with the Detroit officers, and he hid around for a week before he learned that his man was in Windsor. Then he went over there, still working on the quiet, and a nice young man at one of the hotels informed him that the defaulter had just gone to Toronto, but would be back in a few days. The pair became fast friends, and the nice young man had his daily drinks and cigars, at the detective's expense. The two came over to Detroit, and attended the theater, and had good times, and it was the opinion of the officer, that he never met such a nice young man. Finally, a night or two ago, as they landed from the boat on the other side, the detective inquired:—
"You must be an agent of some sort?"
"Oh, no," was the reply, "I am simply traveling for pleasure."
"Where do you live when at home?"
"In Indiana."
"Why, I'm from Indiana!"
"Yes, you told me so the first day."
"Whereabouts in Indiana?"
"Vincennes."
"Good gracious! but my home is only three miles from Vincennes."
"Yes, I know."
"What did you do in Vincennes?"
"Clerked for Lath & Shingles."
"What! Why, that is the very firm that was robbed!"
"Yes, I know," was the placid reply.
"And your name is—what?" queried the detective.
"William Green!"
"Great Scott! but you are the chap who stole the money!" howled the officer.
"Yes, certainly! What are you going to do about it?" calmly replied the nice young man, as he lighted another fifteen cent. —[Detroit Free Press.

Pre-Raphaelite.
Some of our greatest painters never went abroad. A study of the old masters is of value and assistance to aspiring young artists. Whatever the result may be, it will do no harm, and to some few it will be a revelation and a guide to great success. The student has a chance to mould a style of his own after he has become familiar with that of the old masters. Without a style the originality of a painter loses much of its force. The pre-Raphaelite painters always put in a picture what they thought ought to be there. For instance, in a perspective view, if a tree was actually indistinct and the leaves shadowy and uncertain, the pre-Raphaelite put it in distinctly in every detail any way. After Raphael came the school of impressionists. Its members pursued the opposite plan and put in a picture only what was actually seen. In other words, a fidelity to nature as instructed by the eyes. This is considered the true method now, and will, in my opinion, continue to be until the end of time.

PARIS, July 4.—Le Figaro asserts that the heir of a great kingdom, meaning crown prince Frederick William of Prussia, has visited the count of Paris at Sheenhouse, for the purpose of warning him that the Flouquet-Boulangier ministry would mean war between France and Germany within a month after their taking office, and that the policy adopted by the monarchy party should be based on that warning.

Safety from Malaria.
The most vigorous constitution, and the strongest physique, are not proof against a disease, the germ of which impregnates the air we breathe and the water we drink. The true preventative, the surest defense, is to fortify the system with a medicine which possesses specific virtues as a safeguard and remedy. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is precisely this article—proved by conclusive tests to be so. Not only on this continent, wherever malaria gives birth to the malarial infection, but in the tropics, where fever and ague assumes its most malignant types, this incomparable, popular and deserving medicine has, for over a third of a century, shown its efficacy. Chills and fever, dumb ague, bilious remittent, alike yield to its influence and are prevented by it. The word "fail" has no place in the lexicon of possibilities when this peerless article is used. It tones the stomach, arouses the liver when sluggish, and promotes healthful activity of the kidneys and bladder.

The Olives Tasted Good.
On the 9th of last month Dr. E. E. Beeman, of Cleveland, O., heard a friend say that it was impossible for a man to eat thirty quails in thirty consecutive days. The doctor said it is a popular error, and that there is no reason why a man may not eat quail every day as well as beef. He said he could eat two quails a day for thirty days. The end of this friendly dispute was a small wager, and Dr. Beeman began the task of eating sixty quails in thirty days, a pair a day, one for dinner, one for supper.
Last evening the thirty days ended. A reporter found Dr. Beeman in McKean & Buckley's restaurant making preparations to eat the last quail. The doctor said:—
"I have eaten fifty-nine quails and I feel good. People have said that it could not be done. I merely wish to prove the fallacy of this statement and I think I have done so. I like quail now just as well as I did a month ago when I began to eat them. I could eat forty more in twenty days, and I'll bet $500 on it."
The waiter announced that the last quail was ready and the doctor entered the dining-room and sat down at a small table. On a plate, resting on two pieces of toast, was a broiled quail. On the table was a dish of olives, a dish of pickles and some crackers. The doctor did not begin to eat immediately. He took the bird in his fingers and broke off a leg, but laid it on the plate. He ate a large olive and then swallowed a mouthful of quail.
"I relish that," said he, and hurriedly ate two more olives.
He finally finished the quail, and the referee declared him the winner.
The stakes were trifling and were presented by Dr. Beeman to the cook who served the quail.
The meat on sixty quails weighs about five and a half pounds.

The Onions of Prevention.
The satisfaction of feeling safe from catching any disease from drinking water, from impure air, from a sick person, from contact with foul clothing, infection or contagion from any source, is complete and all anxiety allayed by the use of Darby's Prophylactic Fluid. A bottle will give more safety, comfort and confidence than all the doctoring in the world.
The Southern Oregon Packing Co.'s cannery is being crowded to completion so as to be ready for work, says the Coos Bay Mail. The next Arago will bring fishing boats—the same kind as is used on the Columbia river; machinery for the work of canning, and nets, etc. It is expected everything will be in readiness by the 1st of August.

Boston, July 4.—A London cablegram to the Herald is as follows: "Rumors are again afloat to the effect that Gladstone intends to make a visit to America, and coupled with these are hints that the chief object of Blaine's trip to London is to induce the venerable English statesman to cross to America."

Babies That are fretful, peevish, cross, or troubled with Windy Colic, Teething Pains, or Stomach Disorders, can be relieved at once by using Acker's Baby Soother. It contains no Opium or Morphine, hence is safe. Price 25 cents. Sold by

Men's and Boy's White Shirts.
I desire to call your attention to one of the best fitting, most improved, and best value in Men's and Boy's unadorned White Shirts ever offered to the trade, they are made with pure linen bosoms and cuffs bands, reinforced (double cloth) from the bosoms to the side seams, and are made with the patent continuous strip in the back enabling the wearer to put on a shirt without the possibility of tearing it down the back, also protecting the garment in the process of laundering.
The sales of this make of Shirts was unprecedentedly great from the period of their introduction, and the fact that these improvements do not add to the selling price, so much increased the demand that the Manufacturers were compelled to double the size and capacity of their factory.
These unadorned white shirts I am now offering are as follows:
Men's (Sizes 14 1-2 to 17) 75 cents each.
Boys' (Sizes 11 1-2 to 14) 50 cents each.
