A SCIENTIST'S WARNING.

Synopsis of a Remarkable Lecture Delivered by Dr. H. E. Hammond Before the National Scientists Convention.

"We call this an 'age of progress,' and so in many respects it is, but I do not hesitate to declare most emphatically that in many things that constitute true happiness we are simply children. Let us see: We are startled constantly by the sudden death of some man who seemed the picture of health. He thought he was well. Occasionally his appetite was poor, but then in a few days afterward it was ravenous. He felt strange pains shooting through his body, but as they did not stay long he forgot them. His head pained him periodically, he was somewhat paler than common, and was unaccountably tired, but he felt comparatively well and vigorous.

And yet he suddenly died! It is a shame to our boasted civilization. Dr. Hammond then instanced a number of persons well known to him who had died in great agony, although they had experienced few symptoms and little pain, and continued: "Why is it that so many little children are to-day stunted, and apparently blighted for life? Because those early and inevitable diseases, measles, scarlatina, etc., have so weakened certain organs that nature cannot do her work, and the child languishes, perhaps dies. Look at the list of women who die in childbirth, and why is it? Simply because their maternal organs have been so weakened by the most terrible of all diseases that they cannot withstand the fearful sudden strain that is brought to bear upon them. How many women escape monthly agonies? And yet nature never intended that pain or inconvenience should attend the operation of her natural law. The solemn and terrible fact is that men and women drag along, die, and are buried, and their friends and the doctors say heart disease, apoplexy, pneumonia, congestion, convulsions, when the cause lay far back of these things and was Bright's disease of the kidneys. That was the inward cause; these are the outward manifestations. Every disease must have a root, just as certainly as every plant. Kidney disease is the great root from which most modern diseases, no matter what their name may be, actually spring.

"But because the kidneys are so important, so delicate, and so powerful, they require the greatest care in treatment. Ever since the day when Dr. Bright discovered the connection between morbid outward symptoms and internal decay, physicians, scientists, and chemists have sought for a pure and powerful relief. It has been a difficult, often a fruitless search. Many remedies are now before the public, but so far as I have been able to learn by chemical analysis and actual test, only one possesses absolute merit and power. I have seen a number of cases, and learned from unques- tionable sources of many others, where the preparation Hunt's Remedy has been almost remarkable in its results. One case in particular was that of a prominent banker residing in New York, whose family physicians, assisted by the best counsel that city could produce, declared his case to be hopeless, and who was afterward restored to perfect health by the means I have named. I have not hesitated to use it freely among my patients, and from the results I have secured, I shall continue to do so.

The doctor explained how men and women should live in order to meet this terrible malady, and instanced several additional cures which had followed the use of the remedy before referred to. In concluding, he said: "If men and women could only be aroused to a realization of their actual danger; to a sense of what is before them unless they take prompt and proper action, and then by a correct course of life and the use of just the right means seek to prolong their lives, most of the present suffering and untimely deaths might and would be avoided."

THE OLD SPANISH NAVIGATORS.

An Incident on the Coast of Washington Territory.

In searching the old Spanish narratives, of which some are yet unpublished, of the exploration of the Pacific coast, Prof. Davidson has lately located the exact spot where Bodega lost seven of his men on the coast of Washington territory. Believing that the traditions of the Indians would verify some of the statements of Bodega and Maurelle, he solicited the cooperation of Capt. Charles Willoughby, an old sailing master of the coast survey who has been for years at the Indian reservation, between Cape Flattery and Gray's Harbor. The Indians are very reticent about murders of white people committed by their tribe, no matter how long ago, and the last letter from Capt. Willoughby reveals the tradition of another massacre on that coast that relates neither to Bodega's nor to Duncan's. The former took place abreast the Quinault river, three miles north of Point Grenville, and the latter in the Guillihute river. This region has a list of ominous names marking several massacres. He writes: "I have obtained the following account of a massacre from 'Capitan,' one of the oldest members of the Quinault tribe. He has heard his grandfather frequently speak of a ship called by the Indians 'the Spanish ship.' It was wrecked about four miles south of Quillihute, on the long point of Pinnacle Rock, making out from the shore to the westward. [This places the locality between Destruction Island and the Quillihute, to the north-westward.] The Indians killed all the crew excepting ten. One of those allowed to live was a woman; but I cannot ascertain how many persons were on board the vessel. After a time some of the up-river tribes took away the captive white men from the coast tribes, brought them down the beach and gave them their liberty. I had previously heard about the wreck from an old Indian woman belonging to Quillihute, but could never learn the name of the ship. When I would ask the name she gave but one reply—'Capitan, Capitan.'"

"Capitan's grandfather derived his name in some way from his connection with the ship, as the name 'Capitan' belonged to the grandfather, the father and himself. I am unable to obtain any information of the loss of Bodega's men."

This is one incident in the early history of the early navigation upon this coast, and it may prompt some one of the old Hudson Bay people to refresh their memories, and give us information which they must possess of interest.

These Indians are now all settled on reservations and are peaceable, but as late as 1852 they compelled Davidson and his party, at Cape Flattery, to make their observations behind a breastwork, and to keep night-watch for three months.

Is Confident of Success.
NEW YORK, August 8.—The World's Boston special says ex-Gov. St. John said this evening: "I came to Massachusetts to deliver three addresses at Mr. Hall's prohibition camp meeting, and when that mission is accomplished I shall then go to New York and Pennsylvania, where I am engaged to deliver several more. After that I intend to proceed to California. The prohibition party, which cast 151,000 votes in 1884, and over 300,000 in 1888. It is marching on to victory and will become the majority party before many years. I believe the Republican and Democratic parties must break to pieces before that time. We are fighting the Republican party now, and by its death we will build up a party of principle on its ruins. I think Gen. Fisk of New Jersey, will be the prohibition candidate for president in 1888."

"My dear old friend, how were you able to acquire such an immense fortune?" "By a very simple method. When I was poor I made out that I was rich, and when I got rich I made out that I was poor."

Abe Lincoln's First Fight.

There does not live in the United States to-day one who was so actively associated with the martyred Lincoln as John White, who lives down the Bishop branch, town of Viroqua. While in the Censor office Friday Mr. White related many amusing incidents of his boyhood days in Illinois, when he and Lincoln were fast friends, split rails, did surveying and went to husking-bees together. Lincoln was his senior by a number of years, and for that reason the every act of the lamented president remains fresh in the memory of Mr. White.

"I remember well," said he, "when the bully of Sangamon county, induced by some good-natured wag, came to the spot where we were chopping rails and challenged Abe to a prize fight. The great, brawny, awkward boy laughed and drawled out: 'I reckon, stranger, you're arter the wrong man. I never fit in my whole life.' But the bully made for Abe and in the first fall Lincoln came down on top of the heap. The champion was bruising and causing blood to flow down Lincoln's face, when a happy mode of warfare entered his original brain. He quickly thrust his hands into a convenient bunch of smartweed and rubbed the same into the eyes of his opponent, who almost instantly begged for mercy. He was released, but his sight, for the time being, was extinct. No member of the trio possessed a pocket handkerchief, so Lincoln, with usual originality, tore from his own shirt front the surplus cloth, washed and bandaged the fellow's optics and sent him home. I was also present at the first lawsuit he ever conducted in the justice court. Here served him well the inexhaustible supply of original ideas and ways, which characterized his past and future life. In his boyhood days he was as true to his friends as his great career proved him to be to his country.—Viroqua, Wis., Censor.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING
That dyspepsia comes from torpid liver and constipation.
That you cannot digest your food well unless your bowels and liver act properly.
That your bowels require thorough cleansing when they do not do their duty by your digestion.
That your torpid liver needs stimulating in order that it may act as nature intended it should.
That BRANDRETH'S PILLS taken in doses of one or two at night for, say, ten days, will regulate the bowels, stimulate the liver, improve the digestion and drive away dyspepsia.
Major Clagett of Lexington, Mo., says he has seen eleven presidents, and expects to add one more to the number when president Cleveland visits St. Louis. The major is eighty-five years old.

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.
As a general family remedy for Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced. It seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.
