There are no Kickers There.

I hope to go to realms above, when I lie down and die, I hope that choirs all clad in white will greet my wandering eye. I know that I'll be filled with joy, in regions free from care, for angels tell me in my sleep, there are no kickers there. Though rugged be the jasper pave, no soul will dare complain; though sunlight shines the ages through, no spirit calls for rain; though crowns be half a size too small, no seraphs tear their hair, and all is joy above because there are no kickers there. The music may be out of tune, no one will hold his ears; the robes may not be tailor made, there'll be no moans or tears; the sandals may be often worn, none ask a better pair, for glory to the Lord of Hosts, there are no kickers there. And when celestial councils call for paving on the street, the man who gets the contract may work onward swift and fleet; no spirit will injunctions bring nor cranks and loafers swear; the realms above are free from chumps, there are no kickers there. Then take me from this vale of tears, where cranks come to the front, where men who never work or toil, still lie down and grunt; I long to wear celestial robes and climb the golden stair; for well I know that in those lands, there'll be no kickers there.

And who e'er his wondrous frame doth scan, ponder and device to cure an ill, whether by device, fruit or pill, an equal benefactor is he; and we haste, the inventor of a Cathartic of delicious taste, to do him honor. Who remembers not how the distressed mother, her child's entreaties tries to smother, that she insist not the horrid dose be taken, the remembrance e'en now does nausea awaken, and fond father, to be witness of his child's torture, would rather, to he witness of his child's torture, would rather pay high price, if money could purchase Cathartic nice. We have't now! And great De Paar's name, appears upon the scroll of Escuispian fame, for after long study what woull suit, has hit upon delicious fruit to cure our ills. Away at once with draughts and pills; for whether it be indigestion, liver complaint or constipation, or any disease to which flesh is heir, he here with pride does boldly declare, and on the assertion will wager hig, that it can be cured by a STORAGE OF ALL KINDS.
