THE GREAT REGULATOR
SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR
PURELY VEGETABLE.

Are You Bilious?
The Regulator never fails to cure. I most cheerfully recommend it to all who suffer from Bilious Attacks or any Disease caused by a disarranged state of the Liver.

Do You Want Good Digestion?
I suffered intensely with Pain Stomach, Headache, etc. A neighbor, who had taken Simmons' Liver Regulator, told me it was a sure cure for my trouble. The first dose I took relieved me very much, and in one week I was as strong and hearty as I ever was. It is the best medicine I ever took for Dyspepsia.

Do You Suffer from Constipation?
Testimony of HIRSH WARDEN, Chief Justice of the County of My Bowels, caused by a temporary derangement of the Liver, for the last three or four years, and always with decided benefit.

Have You Malaria?
I have had experience with Simmons' Liver Regulator since 1865, and regard it as the greatest medicine of the times for diseases peculiar to malarial regions. So good a medicine deserves universal commendation.

Safer and Better than Calomel!
I have been subject to severe spells of Congestion of the Liver, and have been in the habit of taking from six to eight grains of calomel, which generally laid me up for three or four days. Lately I have been taking Simmons' Liver Regulator, which gave me relief, without any interruption to my business.

CLOSING THE WAR.
The Last Charge Was on a Brandy Barrel and the Last Shot Was Over It.

The man who claims to have ordered the last shot fired on the Confederate side during the late unpleasantness is A. B. Faircloth, of Camilla, Ga., a gentleman as modest as he is brave. The incident was told us by Capt. D. H. Sanders, an old comrade-in-arms of Mr. Faircloth, and forms an unique feature in the unwritten history of the great struggle. Mr. Faircloth belonged to Company "C," Second Georgia Cavalry. This regiment was for some time associated with Terry's famous Texas Rangers, whose exploits are among the most highly prized traditions of the war. The intimacy that grew up between these two commands was very close and tender, and remained unbroken to the end. A Ranger would succeed a Second Georgia Cavalryman in distress as quick as he would his own brother. They fought together, bivouacked together, and together went on many a wild, adventurous raid.

Lee had surrendered. Johnston had surrendered. Only Kirby Smith remained at the head of an armed resistance. The Confederacy was in its death throes. Wheeler determined not to surrender his men, but to force his way across the country to join Smith west of the Mississippi. To this end he procured the removal of his command from Johnson's army, and started upon one of the most hazardous retreats in the annals of the war. While everywhere Confederate troops were grounding their arms, taking the oath of allegiance to the United States government, and returning to their homes, this little band under their gallant leader refused to lower the stars and bars.

Wheeler's bold movement was kept a profound secret, known only to his own men and General Johnston. All thought the war was over. The Federals came freely into the lines of their late foes, and there was a general intermingling of the "blue and gray." It fell to the lot of Company "C" to guard Wheeler's rear. A barrel of brandy was discovered just inside the reserve picket line, and these old veterans, with true soldierly instinct, soon tapped it, and were fast getting into a hilarious condition. The lieutenant in command of the picket guards was in a short time unable to distinguish a confederate from a "Yank," and was relieved by Mr. Faircloth, the orderly sergeant. The aroma of that brandy was wafted to the olfactories of the Union soldiers, and soon a troop of cavalry was seen coming at a headlong charge upon that barrel. Sergeant Faircloth obeyed the orders of his chief, and the dashing squadron was received from their picket line. They were dumbfounded, and without returning the fire showed a white flag. The sergeant advanced to parley with the bearer of the flag of truce.

"What the deuce did you fire for? Don't you know the war is over?" This was jerked out by the spokesman on the other side.

"I obeyed orders," calmly replied the sergeant. "No troops can pass my line."

"But, man, Johnston has surrendered, and the war is over. Come, let us pass; we want to taste that brandy over there."

"I must carry out my orders," stoutly maintained sergeant Faircloth, "and if your men advance they will be fired upon. But," he said, "I am expecting orders calling in my men every minute, and if you will wait perhaps you may get a drop of the brandy."

Strange to say the troop waited and the order came. Then there was a grand rush for the barrel—when "Johnny Red" and "Yank" got on a drunk together.

This was the last shot fired in the late war, and the incident, now published for the first time, will be read with interest by those who participated in the novel scene, as well as the general public. To complete the story it only remains to tell that, acting under the advice of Johnston, Wheeler gave over his darling attempt, and, turning over his men to the brigade, regimental and company commanders to act as they saw fit, gathered about him a few bold spirits, and started to join the head of the confederacy in his effort to escape his pursuers.—Greensboro Herald.

To Build the Railroad.
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—The Central Pacific railroad company has filed a document in the recorder's office which mortgages all the visible property of that company, which has been done, it is thought, for the purpose of raising money to complete the Oregon road. The property deeded in trust goes to secure the payment of interest and principal of 16,000 $1,000 bonds, redeemable fifty years from October 1, 1886, and drawing 6 per cent. interest per annum, payable semi-annually. The main fact disclosed is that $10,000,000 of the bonds were authorized to be issued in January, 1885, to pay the floating debts, the bonds to run for thirty years, and five million were issued. Another $10,000,000 were authorized to be placed on the market, half of which were issued to redeem outstanding bonds of a previous issue. Then comes the present agreement, to issue 16,000 bonds of $1,000 each, to mature in fifty years hence. Frank S. Doucety and W. E. Brown are trustees for all the property. Provision is made that the trustees may reserve lands for depot grounds and from incomes of lands received and profitable privileges redeem and cancel outstanding bonds.

Don't Laugh at Nervous People.
Their sufferings are very real, although you, with your vigorous physique and strong nerves, can scarcely believe it. Rather suggest the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters which, in removing every trace of dyspepsia, and regulating the liver and bowels, strikes at and extricates the most prolific cause of chronic nervous trouble. That nerve-shattering disease, fever and ague, is among the formidable ailments, to the removal of which this genial remedy is specially adapted. Nervous prostration, resulting from prolonged mental or physical effort, is also a state of the system where the intervention of this tonic is very desirable, more particularly as its use is to quiet and relax the tension of overworked nerves. The Bitters are invaluable in rheumatism, neuralgia and kidney troubles. Employ no substitute for it.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The sloops Puritan, Priscilla and Atlantic have withdrawn from participation in the trial races. The contest for selection in the competition with the Thistle has narrowed down to the Volunteer and Majflower.

A Big Sale.
NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—An official announcement was made by the president of the United States Express company that the plant, franchise and business of the Baltimore & Ohio express had been sold to the United States company for a period of thirty years. The agreement was consummated last week and the transfer will take place to-morrow. Negotiations for the sale have been pending for about a month, having been begun with president Garrett before his departure for Europe. It is stated on Wall street to-day that the price paid was $2,500,000, of which $1,000,000 was paid in cash and $1,500,000 in United States express stock. The president of the United States express denies the correctness of the figures, but declines to state the terms on which the property was purchased, saying that the matter is private. No change will be made in the management or name of the company.

The Anarchists Must Hang.
CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Information was received in this city to-day through a reliable source that the supreme court, when it meets next Monday, will affirm the sentence of the seven anarchists condemned to death. Justice Magruder is reported as saying that there will be no dissenting opinions. Chief of police Ebershold and sheriff Watson have already received intimation of what is coming, and they have been making active preparations to meet any emergency that may arise. An official who has watched the sheriff closely said last night that Watson had not been to the jail for a week or more, which is a most unusual thing. It is no secret that he has looked ahead to the decision of the supreme court with a kind of terror. No wonder he feels as he does, for upon him will fall the duty of hanging the seven condemned men.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The statement is made by Henry Villard that an agreement has been entered into between the Oregon & Transcontinental company and a foreign syndicate headed by the Deutsche bank of Berlin, in pursuance of which almost the entire floating debt of the Oregon & Transcontinental company will be paid off immediately, and $6,000,000 is already provided for this purpose.

Le Pays, of Paris, claims that an agreement has been reached on the New Hebrides question, and is only waiting the signatures of the proper officials. Our flag, it says will be hauled down and our troops evacuate the ports of Sandwich and Port Hobannah in obedience to the yelling of the Australian colonies.

The British government has made an arrangement with the Peninsular and Oriental Steamship company by which the company holds three new steamers and seven others ready for use as armed cruisers. For this service the government will pay the steamship company £3,500 annually.

Some of the eastern steamship companies are already booking passengers who do not intend crossing the Atlantic until next season, and the travel to Europe next season promises to be immense.
