SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR
FAULTLESS FAMILY MEDICINE

"I have used Simmons Liver Regulator for many years, having made it my only Family Medicine. My mother before me was very partial to it. It is a safe, good and reliable medicine for any disorder of the system, and if used in time is a great preventive of sickness. I often recommend it to my friends, and shall continue to do so."
—Rev. James M. Rollins, "Pastor M. E. Church, So. Fairfield, Va."
TIME AND DOCTORS' BILLS SAVED BY always keeping Simmons Liver Regulator in the house.
"I have found Simmons Liver Regulator the best family medicine I ever used for anything that may happen, have used it in Indigestion, Colic, Diarrhoea, Biliousness, and found it to relieve immediately. After eating a hearty supper, if on going to bed, I take about a teaspoonful, I never feel the effects of the supper eaten."

AMERICA REDISCOVERED.
The London Times has discovered America and seems well pleased with it. The marvellous progress of the republic may well astonish one who is accustomed to think of the virgin forests and unbroken land that have given form to the European idea of this country. The Times has discovered that a great nation fills the wilderness where Cooper's Indians and rangers wandered, and where Daniel Boone and his companions fought the battle of civilization; that the white race has founded great cities in the west, and filled the continent from one shore to the other.

The Times sees three dangers ahead for America. Our free land is gone. A class doomed to poverty has been established in the cities of the east. The influx of many races puts a strain on the assimilating power of the Anglo-American race. These three conditions are the basis of the three problems that, as the Times conceives, are the dangers that must be met and conquered by America. The Times judges by the past, and regards them rather more lightly and hopefully than American thinkers are inclined to do at present.

The last problem is the one that presses for attention first. It has risen to national importance within the past year. It is the natural desire of any nation to form a homogeneous people—to include all of a race and to expel all outside of it. It is this tendency that created the German empire. It made Victor Emmanuel king of United Italy. It makes Pan-Slavism the ruling and popular policy of Russia. The question first appeared in America in reference to the Chinese. It has come up in regard to other peoples. The assimilating power of America seemed until recently to be equal to any strain, but the promiscuous immigration of the last ten or fifteen years has overtaken that power, for the moment at least.

The Times believes that America will be able to deal with the political problems that come from the existing conditions. It will undoubtedly be done, but the means are not clear. Mr. Powderly proposes to relieve the labor situation by shutting out the labor from Europe that is driving American workmen out of so many trades. Many thoughtful Americans endorse his views. If this course is taken, the problem would settle itself. Probably the labor problem, with the most serious competition withdrawn, would take the same course.

The problems are not new to the world, but they have never been presented under the same conditions. The wisdom of the nation, however much we may distrust that of individuals, will be found sufficient to solve them. But the solution is not in sight just now.

A New Occupation.
One of the newest occupations upon which women can enter is that of a "complexionist." Such a person makes a study of the skin, and for a stipend endeavors to improve customers' complexions. Here is a prescription that one them gave to a client, promising that it would clear the skin in a short time: A tablespoonful of sulphur taken every morning for a week, then omitted for three mornings and taken again. A mixture of powdered brimstone or diluted glycerine should be rubbed on the face at night and washed off in the morning with soap and water in which there is a little ammonia.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

Don't Laugh at Nervous People.
Their sufferings are very real, although you, with your vigorous physique and strong nerves, can scarcely believe it. Rather suggest the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters which, in removing every trace of dyspepsia, and regulating the liver and bowels, strikes at and extrudes the most prolific cause of chronic nervous trouble. That nerve-shattering disease, fever and acute, is among the formidable ailments, to the removal of which this genial remedy is specially adapted. Nervous prostration, resulting from prolonged mental or physical effort, is also a state of the system where the intervention of this tonic is very desirable, more particularly as its use is to quiet and relax the tension of overworked nerves. The Bitters are invaluable in rheumatism, neuralgia and kidney troubles. Sleepy no substitute for it.

A Fight to a Finish.
We learn from an observer that a bull was wading along the edge of the Flint river swamp last Monday, nipping cane and keeping cool, when a huge alligator made a dash at his nose, but missed a hold. The bull made fight, and prodded the alligator with his horns. Then commenced a fierce and bloody encounter, in the shallow water that beggars description. The gator struck with his tail and snapped furiously with his huge jaws, tearing the skin and flesh in big strips from the bull. The bull got his horns into the gator's sides, and, lifting his huge carcass, tossed him high and dry on the ground, and, following up with a deep bellow, rushed again upon its foe. The alligator met him with a terrible blow of the tail, knocking off one horn and bringing the bull to his knees. The other horn got in under a fore leg of the gator, and the gator getting a front foot of the bull in its mouth, they became locked, and rolled and tumbled fearfully. They got into the water again, where, after a fierce struggle, both expired. The entrails of the gator were protruding in several places, while the bull was nearly stripped of hide and flesh.—Sunter, Ga., Republican.

Social Customs in Texas.
A gawky, piney woods Texan walked into the palatial home of senator Reagan this morning just as the senator and his family were seating themselves at breakfast. "Won't you sit down and have some breakfast with us?" asked the senator, who saw a probable legislator six years hence. "No, I'm bleeged to yer, ginner," said the Texan, with a broad grin. "Yer see, dad died last night, un' weuns hev all been eatin' an' gwine on all night. I comed over to borrow yer shovel to dig a hole to plant the old man in."

The London Telegraph has a daily circulation of 280,000, and its yearly profits are estimated at $1,500,000. This paper is said by all financial authorities to have a reserve of $6,000,000 invested, producing an income which can be used at any time for an extra expenditure.

The auditor of Spokane county is wrestling with 5-cent squirrel scalps just now. It is reported that the "scalpers" are playing the same game there that is played in some other localities—manufacturing scalps which are hard to detect from the genuine. One hide will make about two dozen scalps.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla will cure your catarrh, and remove that sickening odor of the breath.

Hop picking will begin about September 8, said a hop grower to a Tacoma reporter a few days ago, thus making it later than last year by something over a week. Indians are beginning to arrive from the north, and large numbers are now on the way.

A Remedy for Kidney Complaint.
"My kidneys were so affected I have been compelled to get up as much as ten times in one night. I had pains in my side, back and left shoulder, and when down could hardly rise. I was unable to bend my body without great pain. I tried Simmons Liver Regulator and my condition has improved so much that I hardly ever feel any of my old troubles." W. JOHNSON, Express Agent, Macon, Ga.
