....SEPTEMBER 18, 188

The British four-masted ship Van duara arrived in from San Pedro

The workmen in the two ends of the big Siskiyou tunnel expected to meet yesterday.

The ffanchise has been granted and Seattle is to have a cable road

The regular meeting of the chamber of commerce will be held to morrow evening at 8 o'clock.

From 150,000 to 200,000 feet of logs per day are taken out over the Puget Sound and Gray's Harbor railroad. The bright weather yesterday forenoon gave place to a cloudy sky in the afternoon and by evening a light rain was falling. A good many teams are kept busy these days delivering the winter's supply of wood and coal to the provi-dent and far-seeing. The receipts of the Resene club trom various sources is stated to be more than sufficient to cancel the indebtedness incurred.

The subject of the morning sermon in the Baptist church will be "Chris-tian Education;" in the evening, "The Gospel of Radicalism."

Mrs. Leland Stanford last Friday gave five hundred dollars each to the Children's Home and the Boys and Girls Aid society of Portland.

Wouldn't it be a good plan for senstor Stanford to have a line of railroad built down this way so that he could then visit the seaport of Oregon in his private coach? If he will let us know when he is coming we'll make him a present of the finest salmon that can be taken from the Columbia river, and there are some mighty fine fish in that stream.

A writer says, there should be no pleasure in dwelling upon the details of wretched lives and squalid homes, but we who live in comfort should know of the miseries of others, not only by way of learning to be thankful for our own greater blessings, but that we may feel inspired to give from the store that has been given us for the relief of the destitute who are, probably, as much the children of God as we are.

The mate of the ship Blue Jacket, at Seattle, had a close call a few days since. They were loading coal and the hatches having run, he got upon the coal to close the chute. The coal passers were beneath him, and pulling away the coal. This allowed him to slide down into the hold, and the coal came pouring in and buried him save only his head. The chute was closed just in time or else he must have been buried entire. He was dug out considerably bruised.

The Gen. Miles arrived in last evening eight hours from Gray's harbor. She brought over 1,925 cases of salmon. The fish are reported running well and of extra large size. The troubles between the canneries with young and old, rich and poor as and fishermen have quieted down, and fishermen have quieted down, they passed in a continuous proces-but there are but few fishermen out sion before him. The approaches to and the traps are disabled so that the supply of fish is short. In conse- with people, some of whom had been quence of the reduced number of on the ground since before daylight. boats those that do go out get a good number to the boat, and are doing well. Some of the canners hope for and colors to celebrate the last day of a peaceful settlement of the trouble the centennial. that will enable them to take advantage of the fine run of fish, while oth ers have about abandoned all hope of profitable work this season, and intend shortly to shut up their mess houses. Several fishermen came over on the Miles yesterday.

Perilons Trip.

The little steamer Rowena, which left here some time since for Shoal water bay, had a rather perilous trip from Astoria around. Those on board were warned of the danger of attempting to cross the bar in such a frail craft. After two failures a third attempt was made. The little craft had no sooner got out among the breakers than all on board wished themselves ashore, but the pilot said it was impossible to turn about and the water being too deep to wade they proceeded. They dared not turn the boat's head to the north, as it would have brought her into the trough of the sea, when she would have been immediately swamped. So she was kept head to the sea, and they had to run out for thirty miles before they dared to head her for Shoalwater. The engineer had his hands full, bailing with one and firing with the other, and they managed to get inside just as the fog shut down, and with only three sticks of wood left. If that crew have to bring that boat back they will carry be up the beach and launch her at Ilwaco. One fellow went round in the Rowena just for the fun, and he go his satisfy.—Oregonian, 17.

Natural Gas in 1827.

In 1827 there lived in Washington county, Pa., a farmer by the name of McCook, an uncle, says the Pittsburg Times, of the famous Gen. Anson G. McCook, the present secretary of the United States senate. McCook's farm was situated on the old national pike, eight or ten miles out of Brownsville. In attempting to dig a well a short distance back from the pike he struck a large flow of natural gas. This by ac-cident became ignited, and the flame it gave forth scared the horses passing on the pike, and many runaways occurred. This went on for some time, until the authorities in that section passed an ordinance stigmatizing it as a nuisance, and compelling McCook to suppress it as such, which he did. Thus what the citizens of Pittsburg now consider the greatest discovery of the nineteenth century, just half a century ago the citizens of Washington county con sidered the greatest nuisance.
