Sore Eyes

The eyes are always in sympathy with the body, and afford an excellent index of its condition. When the eyes become weak, and the lids inflamed and sore, it is an evidence that the system has become disordered by Scrofula, for which Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best known remedy.

Scrofula, which produced a painful inflammation in my eyes, caused me much suffering for a number of years. By the advice of a physician I commenced taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After using this medicine a short time I was completely

Cured

My eyes are now in a splendid condition, and I am as well and strong as ever.—Mrs. William Gage, Concord, N. H.
For a number of years I was troubled with a humor in my eyes, and was unable to obtain any relief in any eye.—Kendall T. Bowen, Sugar Tree Ridge, Ohio.
This medicine has effected a complete cure, and I believe it to be the best of blood purifiers.—C. E. Upton, Nashua, N. H.

From childhood, and until with a few months, I have been afflicted with Weak and Sore Eyes. I have used for these complaints, with beneficial results, Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and consider it a great blood purifier.—Mrs. C. Phillips, Glover, Vt.

I suffered for a year with inflammation in my left eye. Three ulcers formed on the ball, depriving me of sight, and causing great pain. After trying many other remedies, to no purpose, I was finally induced to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

By Taking

three bottles of this medicine I have been entirely cured. My sight has been restored, and there is no sign of inflammation, sore, or ulcer in my eye.—Kendall T. Bowen, Sugar Tree Ridge, Ohio.

My daughter, ten years old, was afflicted with Scrofulous Sore Eyes. During the last two years she never saw light of any kind. Physicians of the highest standing exerted their skill, but with no permanent success. On the recommendation of a friend I purchased a bottle of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which my daughter commenced taking. Before she had used the third bottle her sight was restored. Her cure is complete.—W. E. Sutherland, Evangelist, Shelby City, Ky.

TRAVELS OF THE PRESIDENTS.

Monroe's Journey to Ohio—Andrew Jackson's Trip From Nashville to Washington.

The custom of taking long excursions through the country by the presidents is much older than is generally believed. Washington had seen pretty much all of the Union north of the Carolinas before he became president, and both John Adams and his son John Quincy Adams were great travelers for their time. Mr. Jefferson and Mr. Madison, however, seldom were long away from the capital, and their longest trips were those made to their country seats in Virginia.

President Monroe was the first to conceive the idea of making an extensive journey through the states while president, and he undertook, during one of the long vacations, to travel northward through New England and then westward as far as Ohio. It was a tedious journey to make, far more so than an excursion to Oregon would now be. Steamboats were just beginning to ply some of the rivers, and most of the turnpikes were badly kept. Mr. Monroe traveled in his own coach in a very simple manner. No special invitations were extended to him, but he was cordially received everywhere, and was the first president that a great majority of the American people ever saw. The sight of a live president was far rarer at that time than it is now. Wherever Mr. Monroe stopped great crowds gathered from miles around to see him, and his summer journey was the great sensation of that year.

Andrew Jackson was driven in his own carriage over the fine national road, or Cumberland road as it was called, from Nashville to Washington, some 600 miles, when he went to assume the presidency. He was exceedingly fond of driving, and kept a fine stud. When he proposed to take a summer jaunt into New England, the nameless opposition—for the term Whig had not then been adopted—raised a great cry, which seemed only the more firmly to determine Old Hickory to go. He had never been in New England, indeed, anywhere in the north. The report that he was to visit those portions of the country created the greatest excitement everywhere, and great preparations were made to receive him. He rode in fine style in his own coach, and, it is said, on several occasions six horses were attached to it. All along the country roads people gathered, many of them waiting patiently to see him pass.

Andy Johnson was the first of recent presidents to make a long journey through the country. This was not because of any special invitation, but of his own wish. Whether the speeches that he delivered during that trip from the open carriage in which he was driven through many large towns were in contemplation when he quitted Washington or not is not known. But they were delivered upon the slightest opportunity, and were so personal and so freely discussed public affairs as to excite the widest attention. A thing like this had never been done before and never since. Johnson turned his back on the unwritten law of the White House that requires whatever communication presidents have to make to the people to be guardedly and most dignifiedly done in writing. Johnson's excursion was not a pure pleasure trip. He meant business. He wished to explain his policy, though his method of doing it was against the advice of his best friends.

Grant was a great traveler. He was passionately fond of traveling, and he was most democratic in his manner of traveling. After the war and during the incumbency of the presidency, he visited almost every part of the Union. The Pullman parlor car was just beginning to be used on the railroads, and Grant's favorite place was in the rear near the window, from which he was accustomed to look upon the country with a most observant eye. Receptions were a bore to him, and once, when on a visit to New Haven, it was with considerable difficulty that he could be induced to leave a seat under a tree in the yard of the late Henry Farnham, where he was smoking a cigar and chatting with delightful informality, to attend a grand reception, where many thousands were waiting for him.

"At all events," said he, "let me smoke another cigar before I go."

Hayes was a good deal of a traveler, and except Grant was the only president to visit the Pacific slope.

Gen. Arthur was fond of travel, but abhorred public receptions. His two prolonged trips, one into the wilds of Florida and the other into the Yellowstone park, were made as privately as it were possible to do it. And he greatly enjoyed the freedom from conventional restraints of dress and customs.

Mr. Cleveland, in the little traveling he has done, finds the confinement even of the palace car irksome, and whenever he can do so, he travels at night. He is the soundest of sleepers in a car, but has a queer habit of getting up as soon as dawn lightens up the window. When traveling in the daytime he frequently sits for hours, neither looking to the right nor left, but calmly staring ahead, as though his mind was busy with other things than those naturally suggested by travel.

No president, except Grant, ever received such a delegation as that which recently came from St. Louis and Kansas City to invite Mr. Cleveland to visit those places, or which is to come from St. Paul.

COLES, Cal., Sept. 22.—Connection was made in the big Siskiyou tunnel on the California & Oregon this morning, and it will be ready for track laying in five days. In a short time the grading will be finished from the summit to Ashland.

TRUE ESTIMATE OF VALUE.
Remember that when we assert the value of BRADBETH'S PILLS we at the same time refer you to the thousands of testimonials we have published supporting all and even more than we claim. The best evidence of their value lies in these testimonials. The PILLS have been in use in this country for over fifty years and in that time have surely never been tested. We never heard complaint of them. They are harmless, being vegetable, and always do their work well.

When Mr. and Mrs. Brown of Beaver valley, awoke on Monday morning last they were horrified to find that their two-months-old child had in some unaccountable manner been smothered in the bed during the night.

Ayer's Hair Vigor keeps the hair fresh and bright. It restores a natural color to faded and gray hair, and renders it pliant and glossy.

Two sons of D. M. West, who resided on the north fork of Lewis river, were accidentally drowned by being tipped from a boat while crossing the river on Saturday evening last.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla contains no harmful ingredients, and is the best blood purifier.

Personal.
Dear Bro. Meek, Ed. The Central Methodist, Catskills, Ky.: I see in the last Central that you want a sick-headache remedy. I suffered from sick-headache almost from infancy, and tried every remedy I could get, but never found anything to do me good until I used Simmons' Liver Regulator. I feel for anyone that suffers with that terrible disease, and I hope you will give it a trial.—C. S. Morris, Brownsville, W. Va.

No One Need Remain A Dyspeptic.

"I have been suffering for over two years with Dyspepsia. For the last year I could not take a drink of cold water nor eat any meat without vomiting it up. My life was a misery. I had heard recommended Simmons' Liver Regulator, of which I am now taking the second bottle, and the fact is that words cannot express the relief I feel. My appetite is very good, and I digest everything thoroughly. I sleep well now, and I used to be very restless. I am fleshing up fast; good strong food and Simmons' Liver Regulator have done it all. I write this in hopes of benefiting some one who has suffered as I did, and would take oath to these statements if desired."
