

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON: THURSDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1883.

Where rolls the Oregon? The Dolphin arrived in salmon laden, from Tillamook yesterday afternoon.

There is one solitary occupant in the county jail—J. F. Patterson, serving out a $50 fine.

As high as $2.50 a cord has been paid to Chinamen this fall to saw and split wood and carry it under cover.

In the police court yesterday afternoon the "salvationists" trial was concluded. Judge Jewett fined them each $2.

The latest reported additions to the railroad subsidy are M. Studzinski, $50, S. Glasser, $25; J. C. Davis, $5; A. J. Sackett, $5.

At present the Tonquin, A. B. Field, Dolphin and Rosie Olsen, all steam vessels, are plying between here and Tillamook.

Mrs. G. W. Rucker yesterday received a letter containing the sad news of the death of her mother, Mrs. J. A. Lane, at Carthage, Ill., on the 2d inst.

The State arrived in yesterday from San Francisco; the Audora, Nith and Pearl sailed; the Walla Walla also crossed out; the Monzanita went to Tillamook rock.

The Manzanita came in yesterday afternoon from Tillamook rock. Among other things was a sack of mussels "with the compliments of the light house keepers." Thanks.

The Karluck Packing company, located at Karluck, Kodiak island, Alaska, is reported to have canned between the 1st of last June and the 22d of September, 72,000 cases of salmon.

The Philadelphia Press of the 2d claims "good authority for stating that Mr. Villard will shortly retire from the Northern Pacific board. He will probably be succeeded by Hon. John C. Bullitt, of this city." Doubtful.

For sometime past W. C. Craig, an old gentleman aged 76 years, has suffered with gangrene in his right foot and leg, and in the hopes of saving his life the operation of amputating the leg was yesterday performed at the hospital by Dr. J. F. Page.

Young people who are contemplating a course in book-keeping or shorthand will find the best facilities at the Holmes Business College, Portland, Or. Students are entering every day from all parts of Oregon and Washington territory. All kinds of short-hand and typewriting is done to order for business men. This work is done by students, so their training is of a very practical nature.

That terrible north coast is beginning to get in its work rather early this season. The steamers Idaho and Wildwood have come to grief; the former reported helplessly stranded near Laconner. Steamers and sail vessels take terrible risks after they get opposite Cape Flattery going north. The Tacoma Lighter of the 11th has a little slip at the Columbia bar because the Olympian had to leave the Columbia and go on the sound between Tacoma and Seattle. It ought to know better.

"Cards announcing the birth of a son or daughter are fashionable." A good idea! For the benefit of parents who may not understand the game, is given the rules as explained by an expert who acquired his knowledge at great expense in Arkansas. If it's a boy, send the jack; girl, the queen; boy and girl, jack and queen. If before the birth of the new-comer the parents have two boys and two girls, then send a full hand; if they are all of the same complexion, and their ages sum up regularly, then send a straight flush.

They Could Be Raised Here.

Four or five years ago United States fish commissioner Spencer F. Baird conducted an experiment which, although it was then thought a failure, accidentally proved conclusively that the propagation of lobsters on the coast could be managed successfully. A number of lobsters were brought from the east to San Francisco, but on their arrival in that city it was discovered that all but one were dead, and that was apparently kicking his last kick. Without expecting that it would live it was thrown into the bay at a favorable place and no one thought of it again until a year ago, when some Chinamen setting for fish drew up a small army of small lobsters. Their presence could not be accounted for in any other way than by tracing their pedigree back to the half-dead lobster commissioner Baird thrown into the bay five years ago. But it was not believed that lobsters would thrive very well along the coast of California, because of the warm weather. None of any consequence are found along the Atlantic coast south of Boston. But men who are acquainted with the habits and conditions most favorable to the growth of lobsters, say that the few reefs in Puget sound would be famous places for farming lobsters.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

LATEST NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

OMAHA, Oct. 12.—The presidential party has arrived at Omaha, where they were received with great enthusiasm.

TO OBLIGE BENSON. SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—A telegram from James McCord, dated Oct. 12, was read in Judge Sullivan's court this morning, in which he said he would be in the city to-morrow. Judge Sullivan continued McCord's trial on the charge of jury bribery until to-morrow afternoon.

REGRETS OF GEN. BOULANGER. PARIS, Oct. 12.—Gen. Boulanger in an interview denies any complicity in the Kaffar affair. He deprecates the scandal as likely to have a depressing effect on the country just when a revival of patriotism was taking place. He believes Mme. Lemusine sent for him from two different quarters in order to lay a trap for him.

HE MUST BE CRAZY. BALTIMORE, Oct. 12.—Robert Garrett has resigned the presidency of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad company. His resignation has been accepted by the board of directors of the company.

SNOW IN NEW YORK. UTRICA, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Snow began falling here this morning, the first of the season.

IN THE SUPREME COURT. WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Upon the reassembling of the United States supreme court to-day chief justice Morrison Waite announced that the court had decided to grant a writ of habeas corpus in the cases of attorney-general Ayers and two commonwealth attorneys of Virginia, who are now in prison in Richmond for disregarding an order of Judge Bond in the coupon crusher litigation. The writs are made returnable on Monday.

In the Preller murder case, Chief Justice Waite announced that in view of the representations of counsel for the prisoner to the effect that he was unable to pay the costs of prosecuting his appeal to the court, the case may be proceeded with, notwithstanding the non-payment of clerk's fees, such fees being remitted.

PLEAD GUILTY. SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—When Judge Sullivan's court opened this morning to resume the trial of John T. Emerson, charged with embezzlement in attempting to bribe a juror in the "Little Pete" case, Emerson withdrew his plea of not guilty and entered a plea of guilty. The court ordered him to appear Monday for sentence and remanded him to the custody of the sheriff.

PORTLAND NOTES. PORTLAND, Oct. 12.—The American bark Coloma passed safely and easily through the Morrison street bridge draw this morning.

This morning the Farmers Loan & Trust Co. filed papers in the county clerk's office releasing the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co. of an indebtedness of $200,000. In July, 1879, the Trust company took up $600,000 worth of O. R. & N. Co. bonds, upon which the former advanced an unknown sum and which was secured by certain parcels of real estate owned by the borrower. To-morrow is the day fixed for the meeting of the undertakers' convention in this city. That branch of the sombre business will have representatives here from Washington, Idaho and Montana territories. This will be the first convention of the kind ever held in the northwest.

MEXICAN CONGRESSIONAL MATTERS. CITY OF MEXICO, Oct. 12.—Thus far congress has considered no bill of special importance. A bill reforming and regulating diplomatic service was presented, but as it met considerable opposition in the chamber of deputies, it was withdrawn by the committee, and will be presented in a somewhat changed form. Those features which are most strongly opposed will be omitted.

A bill discriminating to the extent of 2 per cent. in duties in favor of goods brought to Mexican ports in vessels belonging to the Spanish or Antonio Lopez line of steamers will doubtless be passed by congress at its present session. A prominent member of the chamber of deputies asserts his belief that there will be passed a general law relieving all goods brought by regular lines of steamers to Mexican ports from 2 per cent. of the duties charged on similar articles imported by other means. If this should be done it will be directly in the interest of Vera Cruz and will be a rather severe blow on the American railroads. It should be stated, however, that the belief that this law will be passed is by no means general. Journals of Mexico are clamoring for relief from the present high duties levied on foreign printing paper, and congress is asked to admit this class of paper free. The fact is the paper manufacturers of the country have been protected so long that they are now very strong, and the paper question in this congress bids fair to be very interesting. An attempt will be made to pull through congress a bill pledging the support of the Mexican government to an international exhibition, to be held in this city in 1892, in commemoration of the discovery of America, but it is believed that it will not be passed, and the exposition project will have to be abandoned.

LAST EVENING'S ENTERTAINMENT.

Mrs. Mary Lathrap spoke for one hour and a half at Liberty hall last evening on the subject of prohibition of the liquor traffic. She has a good presence on the lecture platform, a clear voice, a distinct enunciation and uses language that none of her auditors need have the slightest difficulty in understanding. She has a terse, incisive style, uses usual arguments with unusual force and in a connected way goes on with her discourse to the close.

Her opening proposition was that the prohibition question had nothing to do with Republicanism or Democracy; it drew a dividing line between those who favored and those who opposed prohibition; the question was one that demanded clear understanding of its intent and effect, and from a moral standpoint she thought that prohibition should carry. It was an old question and had always been a trouble to society. The argument that what a man drank was a question of personal liberty and not one that could rightly be legislated upon, she deemed to be a fallacy. She opposed the license system, because, in her judgement, it gave the saloon a right to demand the protection of government.

Four years ago John Sherman told the Ohio legislature that the state should not be divided into saloons, but that all drinking would stop in 24 hours, but she wanted to have the state and the liquor traffic separated. She claimed that license high or low was a failure, arguing that the license paid gave him who paid the license legal status and protection. She asserted that the saloons dominated politics; that politicians were afraid to nominate their best men; that they had to go to the saloons to find out whom to nominate, and charged that the 8,000 saloons of New York city dominated that city's vote and elected the president of the United States every four years.

She wanted to know why Astoria didn't enforce the law that says saloons shall close on Sunday and thought that in great cities saloons subsidized the newspapers, the mayor, the council, the justice court, the police court, and that the license law could not prevail, because it was not in accord with the Divine law. If God had wanted for public opinion, He wouldn't have announced the ten commandments yet.

In place of license she wanted prohibition, not to keep men from getting drunk, because she had seen men that were good for nothing else but to get drunk; but her reason for demanding prohibition was to have government taken out of the criminal docket and placed in the judgment seat.

There was a large audience present, her remarks were frequently applauded, and she was listened to throughout with attention. She will lecture again this evening at Ross' opera house. She believes every word she says, and has the courage of her convictions, and is worth hearing.

THE WAY NOT TO DO IT.

On the 7th inst. Jos. Hume signed an agreement to subscribe $15,000 to the railroad subsidy. Some doubt having been expressed relative thereto, he asserted his deliberate intention of doing so. This $15,000 would be a very material aid to the subsidy and was proffered by a man who is financially able to give that much and a great deal more. Yesterday W. W. Parker, chairman of the committee that has charge of the subscriptions, told Jos. Hume that in a conversation with Judge Bowly it was agreed that he (Hume) be asked to subscribe $2,500, and cancel the agreement to pay the $15,000 which he had signed in Judge Bowly's office last Friday. Hume reiterated his intention of subscribing the amount stated, $15,000, but at the chairman's request the agreement was torn up, and Jos. Hume's signature was affixed to one of the lists for $2,000.

It seems to us that money is what is wanted: some have given generously, and there has been considerable of an effort made to get the sum up to the required limit. If the railroad committee can get men like Hume, perfectly able to give thousands where others can't give dollars, to reduce their subscriptions, they will probably have little difficulty in getting others to do the same thing.

The way to raise this required subsidy is not to cut down any one's contribution, rather to get them to raise it. Jos. Hume can easier give $50,000 than some on the list who are down for $500. In our judgment this is a poor way to do, and we say plainly that if the chairman's action is endorsed by the rest of the committee they can hang up their fiddles and sit down. No one else can consistently be approached to help make up the subsidy without being met by the question "Why didn't you take Joe Hume's $15,000? Isn't his money as good as mine?"

An Unfortunate Child.

The case of Mrs. Isabella Avey against Houghton Avey for the possession of their six-year-old child occupied the attention of Judge Stearns the greater part of the day.

In March, 1883, Mrs. Avey applied for a decree of divorce on the grounds of inhuman treatment. The matter was not hurried through, the referee making no report till May, 1883, but pending the decision of the case, the custody of the child was awarded to the mother.

A year after the suit was brought Mrs. Avey moved to Astoria where she earned her own living and the child's support. While residing there Mr. Avey went down to take possession of the child, and in the struggle between the father and mother the child was jammed against a banister, breaking two of its ribs. The child from that time on has been an invalid. In the court room this morning it was disclosed, and a horrible sight was disclosed. The side on which the ribs were broken is partially covered with a gaping sore, constantly discharging matter, and while it is six years of age it does not appear more than two and a half years old. It is very puny and delicate, constantly manifesting a disposition to fall asleep. Yet the affection Mrs. Avey has for her poor offspring, which cannot live long, from all indications, is touching indeed.—Portland Telegram, 11.

Give Them a Chance! That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air-passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, croup, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throats and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you, you may depend upon this for certain.

Get On to The Trailing Robes.

Did you see the sun set last night? Did you watch his Royal Highness in his fiery chariot roll over the tops of the Olympic mountains on his swift course to greet his western bride, beautiful Queen of the Occident, the fair Pacific? Did you note his trailing robes of purple and gold as they floated and gleamed in the admiring sky, like the tail of a comet, long after the sun himself had crossed the mountains and had greeted his bride? Was it not gorgeous? Such wonderful painting, so complete a commingling of colors into so many a drama of entrancing beauty. From gold to crimson, then lilac, then purple, then all the varied shades of deepest brown, and as night fell over all, the clouds donned deepest black, as if mourning the evanescence of the glory they had witnessed.—Seattle Times.

Their Business Booming. Probably no one thing has caused such a general revival of trade at W. E. Dement & Co.'s Drug Store as their giving away to their customers, by way of free trial bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Their trade is simply enormous in this very valuable article from the fact that it always cures and never disappoints. Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, and all throat and lung diseases quickly cured. You can test it before buying by getting a trial bottle free, large size $1. Every bottle warranted.
