The First Sign

Of failing health, whether in the form of Night Sweats and Nervousness, or in a sense of General Weariness and Loss of Appetite, should suggest the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This preparation is most effective for giving tone and strength to the enfeebled system, promoting the digestion and assimilation of food, restoring the nervous forces to their normal condition, and for purifying, enriching, and vitalizing the blood.

Failing Health.

Ten years ago my health began to fail. I was troubled with a distressing Cough, Night Sweats, Weakness, and Nervousness. I tried various remedies prescribed by different physicians, but became so weak that I could not go up stairs without stopping to rest. My friends recommended me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which I did, and I am now as healthy and strong as ever.—Mrs. E. L. Williams, Alexandria, Minn.

I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in my family, for Scrofula, and know, if it is taken faithfully, that it will thoroughly eradicate this terrible disease. I have also prescribed it as a tonic, as well as an alternative, and must say that I honestly believe it to be the best blood medicine ever compounded.—W. F. Fowler, M. D., D. D. S., Greenville, Tenn.

Dyspepsia Cured.

It would be impossible for me to describe what I suffered from Indigestion and Headache up to the time I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was under the care of various physicians, and tried a great many kinds of medicines, but never obtained more than temporary relief. After taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for a short time, my headache disappeared, and my stomach performed its duties more perfectly. To-day my health is completely restored.—Mary Harley, Springfield, Mass.

I have been greatly benefited by the prompt use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It tones and invigorates the system, regulates the action of the digestive and assimilative organs, and vitalizes the blood. It is, without doubt, the most reliable blood purifier yet discovered.—H. D. Johnson, 383 Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

THE MAGIC LINE.

A Day May Be Lost or Won According as You Sail.

The first land that the new day dawns upon is Easter island, about 230 miles west of the coast of Chile, South America; that is to say, this 14th of October breaks there within a few hours of the 13th having broken on the American coast to the east, and the two days run on alongside—the 14th in Easter island and places west, the 13th in all places on the American continent. We may, therefore, realize this idea—that 3:32 any afternoon of our lives in Astoria, the next day is commencing on the world, and is to be found at this little island in the Pacific ocean, whence in due course it will travel round to us. But to have thus the start of the world is not an unmitigated advantage of these islanders. Suppose one of them sails east to America, what is the result? He will find they keep the day here under a different date, and he will have to reckon one day in his calendar twice over to put himself right with their notions. On the other hand, if an American crosses from east to west this wonderful magic line where the day begins, he will find the dates in this fresh part of the world are one in advance of him, and he must needs strike a day out of his calendar to keep up with the times. This fact was curiously illustrated in the case of Magellan, the Portuguese captain, who sailed around the world from east to west in 1522, and having crossed the magic line of "day's birth" in his wanderings, his calendar became, of course, a day in the rear. The sailors were completely ignorant of this, and finding, on landing at home, that their Sabbath was falling on a Monday, they accused one another of tampering with the reckoning. It was not for some time that the true explanation was discovered. The converse case is made the hinge of the plot in Jules Verne's "Round the World in Eighty Days," where the author depicts an eccentric Englishman, Phineas Fogg, who made a wager that he would go round the world in eighty days. He accomplished his feat in what he thought was eighty-one days; but on arriving in London, found his friends anxiously expecting him, and discovered he had just won his wager. He had crossed the magic line eastward, and had forgotten to subtract the day he had thus gained.

To put the matter another way: In sailing round the world eastward, the days are each a little less than twenty-four hours, according to the speed of the ship, as the sun is met every morning a little earlier. These little differences added together will amount in the course of the circumnavigation to twenty-four hours, giving the sailors an extra day, not in the imagination, but in sober truth, as they will actually have eaten an extra day's food and consumed an extra day's grog. On the other hand, in sailing westward, the sun is overtaken a little each day, and so each day is rather longer than twenty-four hours, and clock and watches are found to be too fast. This also will amount, in sailing round to the starting point again, to one whole day, by which the reckoning has fallen in arrears. The eastern ship, then, has gained a day, and the western ship has lost one, leading to this apparent paradox, that the former ship has a clear gain of two whole days over the latter, supposing them to have started and returned together.

When your blood is impoverished the remedy is at hand. Take Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Death of Jas. Crammie.
At 7 o'clock last evening, says the News of the 13th, James Crammie, a logger, was brought to St. Vincent's hospital for medical treatment. The unfortunate man came from Cathlamet, where he met with an accident by which both legs were horribly fractured. It was apparent from the moment of his entrance to the hospital that death would result in a short time, as he was sorely hurt. At 12 o'clock Crammie's pains ceased, and he crossed the great divide. Indeed, death to a being in his condition was a mercy.

JOAQUIN MILLER'S SON.

Sketch of the Life of the Young Man Now in Jail.

The case of Hal Miller, who is confined in the county jail at Nevada City, Cal., to await his trial for horse stealing is a peculiar one, considering the intelligence of the young man and the national reputation achieved by his father. The name of Joaquin Miller is known wherever the English language is spoken. There is pretty clear proof of the young man's guilt. He was caught with the horse. He seems to have been knocked around from pillar to post without the influences of a home: Hal Miller was born at Elk river, Curry county, Or., on the 25th of July, 1869. A year after his birth his father, Joaquin Miller, removed to Canyon City, Grant county, where he located a mine, which he afterward sold, and in 1874 went to Lane county, where he established a printing office. Hal was at that time five years old. His mother and father then separated, his mother taking the three children. His father went east, where he has been until the past few years. His mother afterward left Lane county and went to San Francisco, where she delivered lectures and wrote for the papers, trying to earn money enough to give her children an education. Hal was the youngest child. He got very little schooling in San Francisco. When they had been in San Francisco a little over a year, Mrs. Miller's health failed and she took a trip to the east, sending Hal to live with his aunt at Coos bay. His uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Hibborn, lived on a farm three miles from the town of Marshfield. He stayed with them two years, going to school in the winter. The school was three miles from the farm, and so he well earned the little teaching he received. At the end of two years his mother returned from the east and took him to Portland, where she again undertook to earn a living by writing for the press. She struggled through life until her second marriage. Unfortunately she married a man who proved to be a worthless drunkard. Being a woman who was devoted to her children she became worried over her destitute condition and took a second trip to the east, again sending Hal to live with his aunt at Coos bay. He remained with her until the past year. His brother says he is a boy with a very good disposition, and has always heretofore been regarded as an honest and "square" lad.

A Sudden Sensation
Of chilliness invading the back, one, followed by hot flushes and profuse perspiration. We all know these symptoms, if not by experience, from report. What's the best thing on the program? Quinine? A dangerous remedy, truly. Produces caries of the bones, substitute! Assuredly, a potent but safe one—Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a certain, speedy means of expelling from the system every trace of the virus of malaria. Use it promptly, persistently. The result—a cure is certain to follow the use of this beneficent restorative of health. Dyspepsia, liver complaint, nervous ailments, rheumatism and inactivity of the kidneys and bladder, are also among the maladies permanently remediable through the genial aid of this wholesome tonic medicine, recommended by the medical fraternity.

New England railroads pay $30,000 a mile. A western road that pays $7,000 is in luck.

Small-Pox.
"A member of my family was taken down with the Small-pox. I immediately commenced to use Darby's Prophylactic Fluid. It kept the atmosphere of the room pure and fresh. The patient was greatly relieved, and never for a moment delirious; was not pitted, and was about the house again in three weeks, and no others had it."—JAMES PARKINSON, Ed. "The Caterer," Philadelphia.

TAKE

LIVER REGULATOR

For all Diseases of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Spleen.

This purely vegetable preparation, now so celebrated as a Family Medicine, originated in the South in 1824. It acts gently on the Bowels and Kidneys and corrects the action of the Liver, and is, therefore, the best preparatory medicine, whatever the disease may prove to be. In all common diseases it will, unaccompanied by any other medicine, effect a speedy cure.

The Regulator is safe to administer in any condition of the system, and under no circumstances can it do harm. It will invigorate like a glass of wine, but is no intoxicating beverage to lead to intemperance; will promote digestion, dissipate phlegm, and generally tone up the system. The dose is small, not unpleasant, and its virtues undoubted.

No loss of time, no interruption or stoppage of business while taking the Regulator.

Children complaining of Colic, Headache, or Sick Stomach, a teaspoonful or more will give relief.

If taken occasionally by patients exposed to MALARIA, will expel the poison and protect them from attack.

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.
I have been practicing medicine for twenty years, and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons' Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weaken) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system.
