At The Photographer's.
"Do I look all right, Mame?"
"Yes, splendid."
"I just know I'll laugh right out."
"No, you mustn't; that would spoil everything."
"Oh, I think it horrid to have one's photo taken. I'd rather have a tooth pulled any day."
"So would I."
"I never do take a good picture."
"Nor I; mine are horrid affairs."
"If these are not good I'll never sit again. How does my hair look?"
"Ever so nice."
"I'm so nervous. I just know I'll spoil everything."
"No; you mustn't; you'd just have to sit again."
"Don't you dare look at me, Mame, or I'll giggle right out."
"Oh, I'm going to get behind the screen and point my finger at you all the time."
"O, if you do!"
"See if I don't."
"You shan't even stay in the room."
"I will too. It'll be such fun."
"Oh, you mean thing! Do you think this dress will take well?"
"Yes, indeed."
"I do hope the jet trimmings will show well. I can't decide what position to assume."
"I'd have a side view."
"Would you? But I'm so long faced."
"No you're not."
"Oh, but I am; and—oh, they're ready for me. I dread it so."
"Pshaw? I wouldn't mind it a bit."
"Yes you would. Now don't you dare look at me."
"I will too."
"Mame!"
"Oh, I will!"
"I'll laugh right out, sure."
And she does. She spoils two or three plates by "giggling right out," and she goes away declaring that she "just knows" she'll look too perfectly awful for anything in the picture.
It is living through such scenes as these daily that causes photographers to have a worn and faded look, and makes them old before their time. Many of them break down under the strain and die young.

Pine Bark as a Diet.
One article of subsistence sometimes resorted to by the Indians is driven to great straits by hunger. Around many of the watering places in the pine forests of Oregon and California the trees of the pinus ponderosa may be seen stripped of their bark for the space of three or four feet, near the base of the trunk. This has been accomplished by cutting with a hatchet a line around the tree as high up as one could conveniently reach, and another lower down, so that the bark, severed above and below, could be removed in strips. At certain seasons of the year a mucilaginous film (the liburnum) separates the bark from the wood of the trunk. Part of this film adheres to each surface and may be scraped off. The resulting mixture of mucilage cells and half formed wood is nutritious and not unpalatable, so that, as a last resort it may be used as a defense against starvation. The frequency with which signs of its having been resorted to are met with is a striking indication of the uncertainties and irregularities of the supply department among savages.—Popular Science Monthly for November.

The Origin of The Word "Boodle"
The word "boodle" has gone into the United States language. Eastern newspapers, even those of Boston, use it without quotation remarks. We believe the word originally appeared in the Commercial Gazette in a report of the great American express robbery in Cincinnati a few years ago. One Sunday afternoon a one-horse wagon was driven up to the office on Race street, a small iron traveling safe loaded on and taken across the river into Kentucky and rifled. Larry Hazen, the famous old detective, was employed by the express company to work up the case, and he succeeded in recovering most of the money. When met by a reporter at the station, after the lucky capture, Hazen threw up his hands and exclaimed, "We've got the boodle!" The word was afterwards used to denote money used for dishonest purposes in local politics, and disreputable politicians in the city and state came to be known as "boodlers," and their party as the "boodle party." The word spread in usage and is now common throughout the country.
THINGS WORTH REMEMBERING.
When you feel a kind of giveness about the stomach it is a sign that your food does not sit well and that you are about to have a fit of indigestion.
When you begin to feel nervous and are unable to sit still comfortably; when your clothes suddenly seem to lose their fit and become too tight in places the fit of indigestion is surely upon you.
When this fit of indigestion is repeated from day to day it finally resolves itself into dyspepsia.
Chronic dyspepsia will surely make the happiest life a hell upon earth.
Remember that three to ten of BRANDRETH'S PILLS will cure the worst case of indigestion or dyspepsia, or both, and that a regular course of them, say two every night for a week or ten days will act as a preventative of either complaint.
Shiloh's Vitalizer is what you need for Constipation, Loss of Appetite, Dizziness and all symptoms of Dyspepsia. Price 10 and 75 cents per bottle. Sold by W. E. Dement.
Will you suffer with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint? Shiloh's Vitalizer is guaranteed to cure you. Sold by W. E. Dement & Co.
