Old Time Superstitions of Sailors.

There is no class of the population more superstitious, perhaps, than sailors are. It is not difficult to understand this, isolated and alone in a vast world of air and water, surrounded by strange sights and mysterious powers, of which even science gives but imperfect knowledge, their minds and imaginations are worked upon by a constant succession of miracles, engendering awe or exciting terror, with vague ideas of things strongly suggested although quite unknown. Ancient authors, writing of times when navigation was in its infancy, and every great power in nature was individualized as a kind of deified man, are full of wonders and mysteries, and people of the world of air and water with all kinds of imaginary beings and monsters good or evil.

Sunshine indicated the glorified presence of Apollo, darkness was the attribute of angry and vengeful demons, and as they were hopeful and gay, full of courage and daring in the one, in the other vague terrors haunted them, giving horrible significance to the most harmless indications of changeable weather. The ghostly Dutchman's phantom ship, or demon frigate, foretold storm and darkness; lightning playing upon the mast, spars and cordage gave signs of danger or safety according to the forms it assumed; whistling would, it was believed, excite the anger of storm demons; and among French sailors it was once a common custom to fasten some unlucky midshipman to the mast and flog him to please the spirits of the tempest and keep them good-natured.

But ghost-haunted ships were of all things those which the sailor regarded with most terror; and it is not many years since that an account was published of some sailors who refused to serve on board a British man-of-war because, as they said, there was a ghost aboard. When pressed to give a reason for their belief, they said they smelled him! One night, however, in a state of genuine terror, they said they had not only smelled but seen the ghost—aye, and heard it, too, behind some beer barrels; and they would rather swim than remain aboard. The captain, however, ordered them to be put in irons until they were well out at sea and then flogged. After that he heard nothing more of the ghost.

Ships thus haunted were not only doomed to perish, in the belief of sailors, but their very presence brought danger to all who looked upon them. The decayed hulls of vessels reputed to be haunted would drive the fisher folk on some of the Scotch and Irish coasts from the most promising bays, and no one would venture even to bathe near them, such wild, unreasonable terror did they provoke.—London Telegraph.

A Common Cold

Is often the beginning of serious affections of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes, and Lungs. Therefore, the importance of early and effective treatment cannot be overestimated. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral may always be relied upon for the speedy cure of a Cold or Cough.

Last January I was attacked with a severe Cold, which by neglect and frequent exposures, became worse, finally settling on my lungs. A terrible cough soon followed, accompanied by pains in the chest, from which I suffered intensely. After trying various remedies, without obtaining relief, I commenced taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was Speedily Cured.

I am satisfied that this remedy saved my life.—Jno. Webster, Pawtucket, R. I. I contracted a severe cold, which suddenly developed into Pneumonia, presenting dangerous and obstinate symptoms. My physician ordered the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. His instructions were followed, and the result was a rapid and permanent cure.—H. E. Stimpson, Rogers Prairie, Tex.

Two years ago I suffered from a severe Cold, which settled on my Lungs. I consulted various physicians, and took the medicines they prescribed, but received only temporary relief. A friend induced me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking two bottles of this medicine I was cured. Since then I have given the Pectoral to my children, and consider it The Best Remedy for Colds, Coughs, and all Throat and Lung diseases, ever used in my family.—Robert Vanderpool, Meadville, Pa.

Some time ago I took a slight Cold, which, being neglected, grew worse, and settled on my Lungs. I had a hacking cough, and was very weak. Those who know me best consider my life to be in great danger. I continued to suffer until I commenced using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Less than one bottle of this valuable medicine cured me, and I feel that I owe the preservation of my life to its curative powers.—Mrs. Ann Lockwood, Akron, New York.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is considered, here, the one great remedy for all diseases of the throat and lungs, and is more in demand than any other medicine of its class.—J. F. Roberts, Magnolia, Ark. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.
