THE TARIFF ON TIN PLATE.

The abuses of protection are innumerable and its greatest abuses are in pretended protection of articles not produced at all, or to a very limited extent in our country. The tariff on tin plate (one and four-tenths cents per pound, equal to about 30 per cent.) is one of many cases where the protective principle is applied where there is nothing to protect, and where the result is in reality a limitation upon manufacture. There is no tin plate industry worthy of the name in the United States, so the effect of the revenue is to add 30 per cent. to the cost of tin, without any corresponding benefit whatever. The aggregate of this 30 per cent. increase is shown by the customs reports to be about $4,500,000 per year.

The magnitude of the tin plate importation is due largely to the necessity American farmers, fruit growers, fishermen, etc., are under of preserving their products. The canning industry provides a means whereby many articles, perishable under ordinary methods of packing, may be preserved permanently. It provides a means whereby producers of perishable produce can reach distant markets and have the demand for the commodities that they have for sale extended through the twelve months of the year. This great canning industry, one of the most important in the country, affected a wide range of independent industries, is, in the aggregate, taxed to the extent of the tin-plate tariff, to "protect" an industry which has no existence in fact, and only a small chance of existence in the future. How severe a tax the advanced price of tin is, the salmon cannerymen on the Columbia river and the fruit cannerymen at East Portland are able to testify. Their verdict will be found unanimous against it as a limitation upon the canning industry. It is hardly necessary to say that the millions which the government annually derives from this source of revenue, are altogether needless since the government has more money than it knows what to do with.

Congress ought, by all means, to put tin on the free list. By so doing it would cut out four and a half millions from the revenue at a single stroke, save the consumers of the country a corresponding amount and promote an industry whose benefits are universal—Oregonian 20th.

Tonic, Alterative and Cathartic.
Simmons' Liver Regulator cures malaria, biliousness, dyspepsia, headache, constipation and piles. It is most effective in starting the secretions of the liver, causing the bile to act as a purge. When there is an excess of bile in the stomach, the Regulator is an active purge; after the removal of the bile it will regulate the bowels and impart vigor and health to the whole system.

For Surveys in Oregon.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Representative Hermann, in the house Thursday, made a spirited and forcible speech, in which he rebuked the appropriations committee for entirely ignoring Oregon in the items in the urgent deficiency bill, providing for the salaries of clerks in the surveyor-general's office. Nearly every one of these offices in the nation was provided for. Hermann demanded the reason for this discrimination against Oregon. The chairman of the sub-committee (Mr. Burns, of Missouri,) could give none. He was asked if the interior department had not included Oregon in the recommendation for other states, and was answered that it had. Then Hermann moved an amendment so as to include the surveyor-general's office of Oregon, when Gov. Sayres of Georgia reminded him that Oregon already had 20,000,000 acres surveyed and undisposed of, and hence there was no occasion for the deficiency asked for.

Hermann then appealed to the house for justice to his state, asserting the urgent necessity which exists there for increased surveys, so as to accommodate the marvelous incoming tide of immigration to that state, and that titles might be obtained after the home-seeker has complied with the law. He said that much of the surveyed land was included in land grants. He referred to the immense domain there still remaining unsurveyed, amounting to 20,000,000 acres, and complainingly said that for some reason the appropriations committee seemed determined to ignore these facts, as last year they reduced the lawful maximum salary of the surveyor-general, $2,500, to the beggarly sum of $1,800, and this in spite of his earnest protests.

Cannon, of Illinois, who was filibustering against allowances to any of the surveyors general moved to strike all out. He remarked rather sarcastically that he was glad the surveyor-general of Oregon and its representative were such good friends.

The house finally adopted Mr. Hermann's amendment, so Oregon is now included in the appropriations.
