

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON:
SATURDAY, APRIL 21, 1888.

It is seriously alleged in eastern political circles that an attempt will be made this year by both political parties to catch the American vote. The report, however, lacks confirmation.

It is learned at Berlin through reliable sources that emperor Frederick wanted to extend amnesty to all socialists and to recall those who had been banished, but Bismarck dissuaded him from doing so.

A LARGE number of opinions furnished by prominent Republicans in Maine and New England generally are published at Boston. They express the belief that nothing can prevent the nomination of Blaine.

The incessant use of the trawl has depleted the fisheries on the east coast of England to such an extent that the fishermen are in distress and the government is urged to place restrictions on this mode of fishing.

THE New York Sun says: The strikes that have taken place in this country since the beginning of the year 1887 have numbered about 1,000, and of the 400,000 men engaged in them from 25,000 to 50,000 men are still out.

THE Chicago Times gives credence to a rumor that the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul company is behind the proposed Leavenworth and Denver Short Line project to construct a line from Oakland, Cal., to Denver, and thence westward through the mountains to Salt Lake City.

THERE seems to be little doubt that there was an intrigue to prevent the succession of emperor Frederick to the throne. On the death of William, Bismarck telegraphed to Frederick at San Remo that he must come to Berlin immediately or the prince could not answer for the consequences.

BLAINE, Allison, Gresham, Sherman, Hiscock, Harrison, Hawley, Phelps, Reed, Sheridan, Evans and Lincoln, all considered presidential possibilities, were born in the country, and nearly all of them were first advanced by rural constituencies. Come to think of it, there are few men born in the United States before 1830, who are not sons of farmers. There were few large cities that early in our history; none as large as San Francisco is to-day.

THE Chinese have already made preparations to evade the anti-Chinese treaty in case of its passing. A "bureau of convenience" will be started to accommodate Chinamen who wish to return to the United States and whose entrance is denied because they have neither a wife nor $1,000 worth of property here. The bureau will furnish them with temporary wives and $1,000 worth of property for a consideration, and thus enable them to comply with the requirements of the law.

It is a notable backdown which the Dominion government has made with reference to the Manitoba and Canadian Pacific quarrel. Manitoba gets all she asked for, and the Canadian Pacific monopoly for the exclusive construction of railways in Manitoba to the international boundary line is over. The corporation, however, demands over $12,000,000 as compensation for the abridgment of its rights. The Dominion government appears to think that concession, even at this price, is cheaper than revolt.

For First Place.
A great amount of political engineering will be done by friends of candidates to secure for their man the first place on the ticket, and the best man will probably secure the coveted place. Then if endorsed by the majority of the people the election is assured. Electric Bitters has been put to the front, its merits passed upon, has been endorsed, and unanimously given the first place, among remedies peculiarly adapted to the relief and cure of all Diseases of Kidneys, Liver and Stomach. Electric Bitters, being guaranteed, is a safe investment. Price 50c. and $1 per bottle at John C. Dement's drug store.

OUR WOODS AND WATERS.

Land for Home Seekers in Clatsop County. (Partic Express.)

The strip of tidelands surrounding Young's Bay begins near Point Adams and runs the shore, a flat grassy plain, no higher than the level of the highest tide. They vary from one to two miles in width; in their natural condition the spring tides rise upon them every twenty-four hours, and the very high tides occur in the winter, under the influence of the wind or barometric variation, inundating them completely. A heavy, wiry tide grass, tide reeds and rushes cover them with verdure never dry or dead. There are deep sloughs wriggling through these lands, along whose banks grow occasional spruce trees mingled with willow and elder. The trees on such land are low, a limby, mossy specimen, with huge roots lifting the stumps, or butts almost entirely above the ground. The trees are set on top of the ground rather than rooted in it. The soil here is made up of dead grass, rotten wood, leaves and drift, mingled with sand or mud in varying proportions. Near Point Adams it is more mud and drift, with sand, farther up the bay, especially on the streams that fall into it, the soil is composed of very fine, light mud, washed down from the hills. Such land possesses the very highest degree of fertility; a single crop of grain, such as wheat, yields at the expense of the quality of the hay, and the better plan is to keep the land closely pastured until late in the fall, when the hay is cut from a single acre and the hay crop is made. The yields are at the expense of the quality of the hay, and the better plan is to keep the land closely pastured until late in the fall, when the hay is cut from a single acre and the hay crop is made.

The Earth's Motion.

Any one can prove the rotary motion of the earth on its axis by a simple experiment, for making which an educational journal of Frankfort, Germany, gives the following directions: "Take a good sized bowl, fill it nearly full of water, and place it upon the floor of a room which is not exposed to shaking or jarring from the street. Sprinkle over the surface of the water a coating of lycopodium powder—a white substance which is sometimes used for purposes of the toilet, and which can be obtained at almost any apothecary's. Then, upon the surface of this coating of powder, make, with powdered charcoal, a straight, black line, say an inch or two inches in length. Having made this little black mark with the charcoal powder on the surface of the water, the contents of the bowl, lay down upon the floor, close to the bowl, a stick or some other straight object, so that it shall be exactly parallel with the mark. If the line happens to be parallel with a crack in the floor, or with any stationary object in the room, this will serve as well. Leave the bowl undisturbed for a few hours, and then observe the position of the black mark with reference to the object to which it was parallel with. It will be found to have moved about, and to have moved from east to west—that is to say, in that direction opposite to that of the movement on its axis. The earth, in simply revolving, has carried the water and everything else in the bowl around with it, but the powder on the surface has been left behind a little. The line will always be found to have moved from east to west, which is perfectly good proof that everything else has moved the other way."

Big Money On the Clackamas.

The Clackamas was swarming with salmon last week. One night one man caught 100. At the prices ranging, about $1 each, the fishermen are making a small fortune.—Oregon City Courier, 20.

Republican Rally!!

The bottom lands along the stream mentioned, aggregating between 20,000 and 30,000 acres, are all formed of the same sort of soil, timbered with the same sort of timber. The soil is a very fine, light, yellow alluvium. It is soft and slippery to the feel, often called "greasy." It overlies beds of washed gravel, and is from fifteen to three or four feet in depth. It is enormously productive of grass, oats, rye, roots, and vegetables. Clover and peas grow here with a rankness seldom seen elsewhere.

The Kindergarten Founder.

The one hundred and sixth anniversary of the birth of Friedrich Froebel, the founder of the Froebel kindergarten system, was observed by an entertainment at the Portland Unitarian church last evening. Froebel was born at Oberweissbach, Germany, April 21, 1782, where his father was a laborious pastor of several villages. His mother died before his remembrance and his father orphanage had a prevailing influence on his destiny, giving him a very sad childhood, which he manifested by asking strange questions concerning human discords. He was educated at the university of Jena, joined the army, and at the end of his enlistment became tutor to the sons of a Frankfort gentleman. Later, Froebel and Middendorf, an army companion, began a school at Kriehau with six pupils. Karl Froebel, one of these, described this school as a paradise of children, bred and trained during the whole period of his stay, from 1816 to 1826. It was a chronic stay of bankruptcy. The plan was to educate the children by putting them at work, and making nature itself and what they produced artistically by horticulture and their own lands their books. Froebel's first idea was that children until 7 years old should be exclusively educated by their mothers, but later he advised that they be educated between 3 and 7 years of age, as it was impossible for mothers with many children, and family duties to devote time to the development, moral and physical, of each child. Froebel put in the last twelve years of his life starting kindergartens. He died at Rudolstadt, June 21, 1852.
