The First Sign

Of failing health, whether in the form of Night Sweats and Nervousness, or in a sense of General Weariness and Loss of Appetite, should suggest the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This preparation is most effective for giving tone and strength to the enfeebled system, promoting the digestion and assimilation of food, restoring the nervous forces to their normal condition, and for purifying, enriching, and vitalizing the blood.

Failing Health.

Ten years ago my health began to fail. I was troubled with a distressing Cough, Night Sweats, Weakness, and Nervousness. I tried various remedies prescribed by different physicians, but became so weak that I could not get up stairs without stopping to rest. My friends recommended me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which I did, and I am now as healthy and strong as ever.—Mrs. E. L. Williams, Alexandria, Minn.

I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla in my family, for Scrofula, and know, if it is taken faithfully, that it will thoroughly eradicate this terrible disease. I have also prescribed it as a tonic, as well as an alterative, and must say that I honestly believe it to be the best blood medicine ever compounded.—W. F. Fowler, M. D., D. D. S., Greenville, Tenn.

Dyspepsia Cured.

It would be impossible for me to describe what I suffered from Indigestion and Headache up to the time I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was under the care of various physicians, and tried a great many kinds of medicines, but never obtained more than temporary relief. After taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for a short time, my headache disappeared, and my stomach performed its duties more perfectly. To-day my health is completely restored.—Mary Harley, Springfield, Mass.

I have been greatly benefited by the prompt use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It tones and invigorates the system, regulates the action of the digestive and assimilative organs, and vitalizes the blood. It is, without doubt, the most reliable blood purifier yet discovered.—H. D. Johnson, 383 Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

HOW TO KILL A TOWN.

Pose as a philosopher. Find the soft side of a dry-goods box and sit and look wise and criticize every effort of energetic public-spirited citizens for the promotion of the general good; impugn their motives, claim that a swindle is contemplated by the promoters, or that the enterprise is impracticable and sure to fail. People will then think that you are a man of deep penetration, and should there happen to be a failure, be sure to say "I told you so;" but should a grand success be the result, your prophecies will be forgotten in the general rejoicings, so that your reputation as a prophet will not suffer. When a stranger comes to town and proposes to establish a manufactory of some kind, as soon as you hear of it slip around quietly and whisper in the ears of those who may listen to you that the party is a fraud, that he has no money of his own, that he contemplates a swindle on the people, and, being a wise man, that it is your duty to warn against approaching danger. But should some of the wide-awake citizens see the benefits to be derived by encouraging the enterprise, and start a movement in that direction, then kick, kick vigorously, and as like attracts like, you may soon surround yourself with a whole army of kickers, and be instrumental in creating and crystallizing a sentiment strong enough to choke the life out of the enterprise, and thereby drive the stranger to a more public-spirited locality. Should you be remonstrated with on your opposition to public enterprises, and your attention called to the rapid advancement of other towns no better situated naturally than your own, reply that there is nothing there to build up a town; that there is nothing substantial about it; that the town is forced up by artificial means, and that a reaction will soon take place. 'Tis true that by so doing you make an assertion that only the future can disprove if ever, and so, from your standpoint, you are in possession of the field. Should a number of your citizens unite in an effort to develop the natural resources of your locality, be on hand with a fund of advice as to how the company should be managed. It is true you may have a paucity of ideas on the subject, but give them a redundancy of words, an article the kicker always has on hand. Be very careful not to take stock in the enterprise, then people will think that all your suggestions are purely disinterested. After the enterprise is on its feet begin to find fault with the managers; should any mistakes occur, magnify them, darkly hint to the smaller stockholders that the big fish will soon eat up the little ones, that the whole thing is a fraud badly managed and run by a few in their own private interests. You may know nothing of the truth of what you say, but that makes no difference, just hammer away at your assertions and in time you may have the satisfaction of seeing your opinions crystallizing into facts in the minds of your hearers. By persistently pursuing this course you may succeed in crippling, if not destroying, an enterprise that would have been of incalculable benefit to your town. The kicker may be in good circumstances and and perfectly satisfied with things as they are, may be apprehensive should a boom strike the town of having a too strong competition to contend with, or the town may be as big a one as he wants to live in, or he may feel that a little more tax will lessen the value of his property, failing entirely of seeing that public prosperity, or he may have none or little pecuniary interest in the town, and only kicks for the pleasure that it gives him. But whatever his motives may be, by following suggestions and many others that may occur to him, and persistently find fault with everything said or done for the public good, find fault with the churches, the preachers, lawyers, doctors, schools, courts, business men, city government, newspapers, water works, gas company, manufactory, and in fact everything connected with the town, and he and his co-workers will soon have the pleasure of seeing the natural result of their labors.
Another way to kill a town is to sympathize and co-operate with those who, having no interest at stake and nothing to lose, are doing all in their power to stir up strife, create dissension, breed discord and engender factional bitterness, which tend to destroy the peace and prosperity of the community.

An Assurance of Health.

Among the assurances of health afforded by the regular discharge of the bodily functions, none is more important and reliable than that which regularity of the bowels gives us. If there is any—even a temporary interruption of this—the liver and the stomach suffer conjointly with inactive organs, and still greater mischief ensues if relief is not speedily obtained. A laxative, above all, capital on the score of mineral composition or violent effect, is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters approved by the medical profession and a most important item of the family materia medica of American households. It is botanical, painless in action, and if persisted in, effectual. The stomach and liver, in no less degree and no less promptly and thoroughly than the bowels, are regulated and toned by it, and it is an admirable defense against malarial and rheumatic ailments, and a benign remedy for kidney complaints, nervousness and debility.

John Seales Jr., who performs the duties of the secretary to the sugar trust at a salary of $25,000 a year, is in Washington with a number of other gentlemen interested in sugar, and they are beginning to lobby for the Mills bill. They fear that sugar may be put on the free list in an opposition bill.

The king of Italy gets $8,000 a day, with time allowance, mileage and rations for one man and two horses. If ever Humbert starts a daily paper to f. a. l. f. w., he'll keep it going three weeks before ever thinking of hypotheating his construction bonds and putting on a second equipment mortgage.

Already they're talking about next winter's ice palace at Sioux City, Iowa, and they are evidently anticipating it with much enthusiasm, as, according to present intentions, the structure is to cost $100,000.

An artesian well that was sunk at Montezuma, Ga., has spouted up some queer things, among them being lumps of coal, the bones and scales of fish, clear amber colored rosen and bits of soft wood.

Additional time has been granted Cramp & Sons to complete the cruisers building at their yard.

A Misunderstanding.

One day last week an old negro man stepped into Glenn & Shaw's clothing store, on Montgomery avenue, in Chattanooga, and approaching Mr. Glenn asked: "Is you got any cotton hoes?" "Oh, yes," replied Mr. Glenn, and walking behind the counter and pulling down two or three boxes began displaying cotton hoes by the wholesale, when the old negro looked up in surprise and asked: "Boss, what did I ax you for?" "Cotton hoes, didn't you?" replied Mr. Glenn. "Yas sir. But dese ain't what we hoes cotton wid in our settlement.—Lafayette Ga. Messenger.
