No One Need Remain A Dyspeptic.

"I have been suffering for over two years with Dyspepsia. For the last year I could not take a drink of cold water nor eat any meat without vomiting it up. My life was a misery. I had had recommended Simmons Liver Regulator, of which I am now taking the second bottle, and the fact is that words cannot express the relief I feel. My appetite is very good, and I digest everything thoroughly. I sleep well now, and I used to be very restless. I am fleshing up fast; good strong food and Simmons Liver Regulator have done it all. I write this in hopes of benefiting some one who has suffered as I did, and would take oath to these statements if desired."

Mother.

Don't call your mother "old woman." Let her always be "mother." "Old lady" is bad enough, but "old woman" applied to her who gave you life and nursed you in infancy is rude and unkind.

Once it was "Mother, I'm very hungry;" "Mother, mend my jacket;" "Mother, put up my dinner," and then mother, with her loving hands, would spread the bread with butter and stow away the luncheon, and so on the great patch, her heart brimming with affection for the impetuous curly little pate that caused her so many a sleepless night.

Now she is the "old woman" but she did not think it would ever come to that. She looked on through the future years, and saw her boy to manhood grown, and he stood transfixed in the light of her own beautiful love. Never was there a more noble son than he, honored of the world, and the staff of her declining years.

Ay, he was her support even then but she did not know it. She never realized that it was her little boy that gave her strength for her daily toil, that his slender form was all that upheld her over the brink of a dark despair.

She only knew that she loved the child, and felt that among the mists of age his love would bear her gently through its infirmities to the dark hall that leads to the life beyond.

But the son has forgotten the tender ministrations now. Adrift from the tender moorings of home, he is cold, selfish and heartless. "Mother" has no sacred meaning to the prodigal. She is the "old woman," wrinkled and gray, lame and blind. Pity her, oh grave, and dry those tears that run down those furrowed cheeks! Have compassion on her sensitive heart and offer it thy quiet rest, that it may forget how much it longed to be "dear mother" to the boy it nursed through a careless childhood, who, in return for all this kindness, has only given back reproach. Dear reader, are you guilty of like ingratitude?

For Animals. Mange, Distemper, Diarrhoea and Worms in dogs quickly cured. Scabies, Sores, Galls, Bruises, Cuts or Wounds of any kind, quickly and permanently healed by washing with the Fluid. Dr. J.
