The Daily Astorian
ASTORIA, OREGON.
FRIDAY, JULY 6, 1888.

Some people in this world are good because they have to be good, and they are good enough, and there is no higher virtue for the race of man than virtue for virtue's sake. Perhaps this is why the quality of goodness is so rare in men, and why the people who possess it are so loved and admired. It is a rare and precious quality, and it is something that we should all strive to achieve.
