

Some people in this world are good because it is good to be good. Some are good because they haven't energy enough to be bad.

True, it is not the politest thing to question one's motives, but in this world most motives are questionable.

"The man who concentrates hours by vigorous effort, and an honest aim, at once he draws the sting of life and death."

"SNOBS AND SNOBBERY."

Caste Distinction the Rock That Threatens American Institutions.

Col. L. F. Copeland lectured last evening to a large and intelligent audience on the subject of "Snobs and Snobbery."

Our constitution declares it to be self evident that all men are free and equal, yet Americans have more caste feeling than any people under the sun.

Here in America we make a distinction between the man who sells in the big shop and he who sells in the smaller stores.

In European cities there were fashionable localities, but the locality did not make the people fashionable.

Snobbery was the outcome of pride; pride was the offspring of egotism. The dandy dude or masher, was only one of the family of snobs.

He inveighed against the caste of religion, the snobbery of many fashionable churches, and the canting snob who always intruded his religion and paraded his hypocrisy before the world.
