The First Sign

Of failing health, whether in the form of Night Sweats and Nervousness, or in a sense of General Weariness and Loss of Appetite, should suggest the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This preparation is most effective for giving tone and strength to the enfeebled system, promoting the digestion and assimilation of food, restoring the nervous forces to their normal condition, and for purifying, enriching, and vitalizing the blood.

Failing Health.

Ten years ago my health began to fail. I was troubled with a distressing Cough, Night Sweats, Weakness, and Nervousness. I tried various remedies prescribed by different physicians, but became so weak that I could not go up stairs without stopping to rest. My friends recommended me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which I did, and I am now as healthy and strong as ever.—Mrs. E. L. Williams, Alexandria, Minn.

I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in my family, for Scrofula, and know, if it is taken faithfully, that it will thoroughly eradicate this terrible disease. I have also prescribed it as a tonic, as well as an alternative, and must say that I honestly believe it to be the best blood medicine ever compounded.—W. F. Fowler, M. D., D. D. S., Greenville, Tenn.

Dyspepsia Cured.

It would be impossible for me to describe what I suffered from Indigestion and Headache up to the time I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was under the care of various physicians, and tried a great many kinds of medicines, but never obtained more than temporary relief. After taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for a short time, my headache disappeared, and my stomach performed its duties more perfectly. To-day my health is completely restored.—Mary Harley, Springfield, Mass.

I have been greatly benefited by the prompt use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It tones and invigorates the system, regulates the action of the digestive and assimilative organs, and vitalizes the blood. It is, without doubt, the most reliable blood purifier yet discovered.—H. D. Johnson, 383 Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

AN EDUCATED TRAMP.

He Talks Philosophy With a Reporter And is Supported by Fools.

Among the tramps who haunt the shade of Battery Park there is now and then a man of education and philosophic cast of mind. While waiting for the Governor's Island boat recently a reporter fell in with such a man. Instead of giving a sketch of his life or an account of his travels he straightway began to moralize. His name was Merton, or Morton, and he claimed to be a Harvard graduate. He said he was a member of a Boston publishing firm. But there was a hard, brassy look about his countenance that gave the lie to everything he said. His audacity alone commanded respect, and when he assumed his most brazen air the reporter gave him a quarter—just for luck.

When asked if pride did not sometimes make him wish to return to the world and be a man once more, he lifted his lazy eyes languidly and said:
"No; I am happier than most people. Why shouldn't I be? I don't want for anything and never have any trouble to worry about. The ordinary man has business interests and a wife and children to support. For these he toils and denies himself.

"What does it profit him? A thousand to one his ambition will be disappointed, and he grow tired of his wife. Men and women soon fade, and no one can be young forever. Then the children will grow up and begin the battle of life, as their father began it before them. Engrossed with their own cares they become estranged, and the father ends the struggle a worn-out, discontented old man, with nothing to hope for, and nothing to look back upon, except a weary life of hard work. How many succeed? How many are satisfied in having attained their desires? Believe me, it is better to remain as I am. I have no responsibilities, no ambitions and no work.

"How do I manage to live? Thanks. Your action in giving me this quarter is the answer. Why you gave it to me I do not know. It may be that you are generous, or that I have amused you, or that it tickles your self esteem to indulge in these little acts of charity. Whatever motive may have prompted you, there are thousands who for some reason or other are willing to contribute to the support of just such philosophers as I am. In plain words, I am a man who allows his living expenses to be paid by the community. This coin represents just 25 cents worth of work which you have done for me. No man need labor while so many fools are willing to support him."—New York Telegram.

The Opening of the Campaign.
To open the campaign with any hopes of speedy success, attack the enemy, malaria, before it has a chance to intrench. An obstinate foe 'twill prove if you don't go right at it. If you are prudent, too, you will have fortified, upon the first intimation of its presence in your neighborhood. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the medicinal ammunition that you require. Every form of malarial fever yields to this fine preventive and remedy. For constipation, liver complaint, dyspepsia, nervousness and kidney trouble it is no less effective. Residents of malarial localities, and persons sojourning in or bound for the great West, should select this medicine as a means of defence against the frequent visitations of malaria. Those of delicate health, the aged and the enfeebled, should in every instance resort to this signal invigorant. Use it for weak nerves.

For quickness in raising money for business enterprises, Hutchinson, Kans., seems to outrank some of the large cities. They called a meeting out there for such a purpose, and after the hall was filled locked the door. A local paper tells that work then began, and in just one hour and fifteen minutes the sum of $224,000 was subscribed.

Safe and sure to regulate the bowels,—Ayer's Cathartic Pills never fail to give satisfaction. Recommended by eminent physicians.

A French company with a capital of $17,000,000 is said to be waiting permission from the Russian government to begin work on a canal that will unite the Sea of Azof and the Black Sea. The work will take five years.

An Atlanta (Ga.) lady says: "I visited a friend recently and she gave me a glass of wine. It was of a pale amber tint and had all the sparkle and delicacy of flavor of champagne, and when opened popped loudly. It was effective, though mild as a stimulant, and I thought it very fine. I asked what variety of grape it was made from, and my friend told me it was made of rose leaves. 'Take the freshly picked leaves' she said, 'and put into a jar alternately a layer of leaves and sugar and pour over all a little cold water. In four days strain, let it stand a week and then bottle for use.' The wine is a delightful beverage."

The strange habit of an aged Albany (N. Y.) woman of using the Rural Cemetery for a dormitory on special occasions has just come to light. The woman in question is a widow, named Briggs, whose husband died about eight years ago and was buried in the cemetery. For some time she has been in the habit of making two-day pilgrimages to her husband's grave. She always carries with her a sufficient quantity of food to last through her vigil, and blankets to serve as a covering during the night. She claims that she spends the night in converse with her departed spouse.

The Pittsburg Steel Casting company has just shipped to the ordinance department in Washington a one-fourth actual size wooden model of a new gun. The gun is intended to be fired by emmentite, a new explosive recently patented by Dr. Stephen Emmens. It is said to be much superior to both gun-powder and dynamite. The projectile the new gun will throw will, it is expected, do a thousand times more damage than that fired by a powder gun. The company will cast the gun for the emmentite experiments.

If the food is not properly digested it becomes corrupt, and poisons the system it is intended to nourish. This is indigestion.
"My wife has suffered for many years with indigestion. After trying everything else recommended, she tried Simmons' Liver Regulator. In three days after taking it according to directions she was in perfect health; she does not suffer at all and can eat anything she wants without any of her previous symptoms."
W. C. SEEBER, Cambridge, Ga.

At Canton, China, some 250,000 people live continuously upon boats, and many never step foot on shore from one year end to another. The young children have a habit of continually falling overboard and thus cause a great deal of trouble in effecting a rescue, while in many instances this is impossible and a child is drowned. Floats are attached to the male children so that they can be fished out when they tumble into the river. The females are without such protection and are usually left to drown.

A portable electric light has been patented, designed to be used by people desiring to read at night on a railroad train. It is arranged to hang upon a button of one's coat, and with a parabolic reflector to concentrate the light. The storage battery for this lamp weighs only one and one-half pounds.

The attention of the Queen of England is to be drawn to the fact that the woman who made the lining for the superb carriage in which her majesty rode on jubilee day, last year, is on the verge of starvation. The poor creature is a cripple, bent almost double, and has lived and worked in the same room for thirty years. The lining was exquisite work, but the woman was paid only 2 1/2d. per yard, and by working from dawn till midnight she was able to make just six yards.

Every American boy and girl should know how to make the American flag in its proper proportions. The rule in the navy is this: "The flag is thirteen stripes wide and twenty-one stripes long. The union (blue) is seven stripes square. There is one star for each state in the Union." "The bandana" is an imported article, and has no regulation size.

At Springfield, Mo., Tuesday, Lawrence Russell, a laborer, was arrested for mistreating his 10-year-old son. He is accused of tying the boy to a plank, smearing his face with molasses to attract insects, and leaving him in that position for hours at a time, and with other similar cruelties.
