Eastern cattle cars have brought eastern gad flies into Oregon.

Something new—The Telephone restaurant will after this date, be open all night.

The British ship Maiden City cleared for Queenstown yesterday afternoon with 22,500 bbls. flour, worth $78,750.

Travel hitherwards from the interior has begun, and during the next 60 days thousands will come to enjoy the delightful air.

The Portland Coast Transportation company's steamer Alliance leaves for Gray's harbor with freight and passengers this morning.

There will be a baseball match at Alderbrook at one o'clock this afternoon between the Unknowns of Astoria and an upper town nine.

The excursion of Grace church guild to Cathlamet on the S. G. Reed, which had been postponed, will take place on Thursday the 12th inst.

The Gen. Canby will make her usual Sunday excursion to the forts and Ilwaco to-day, leaving Gray's dock at 9 A. M. and returning at 4 P. M.

Uniform Bank K. of P., will hold an adjourned meeting at eight o'clock to-morrow evening, the 9th inst.

The Jas. Drummond, American ship may take salmon as a part of her foreign cargo, the only vessel leaving the Columbia river this season direct that will.

This has been a good year for the trap and seine men, and a poor one for gill nets. The absence of even usual high water has also worked against the boats.

A Chinese missionary is the latest in the matter of saving souls. The headquarters for the Chinese Salvation army barracks is at Sit Que's old stand on Main street.

Livingston Stone is now in charge of the salmon hatchery at the Clackamas, the state fish commissioners having turned the institution over to the control of the government last Monday.

The members of the church and ladies aid society of the Presbyterian church are invited to meet at the residence of Mrs. J. Hobson on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, as important business is to be transacted.

The ladies are interested in the statement that at C. H. Cooper's on to-morrow and Tuesday will be found over 500 different samples of cloaks, of fine material, and tailor make. The ladies are invited to call and see those fine goods.

The officers elect of Sesside Lodge No. 12, A. O. U. W., were duly installed last evening as follows: P. M. W., M. Johns; M. W., G. W. Raeker; F., Sam'l Freeman; O. G., W. Howarter; Recorder, W. B. Ross; Finance, S. T. McKean; Receiver, John Bryce; G., J. E. LaForce; I. W., S. H. Willet; O. W., H. A. Meyer.

It can be abundantly demonstrated that the cost of lorage and lighterage to Astoria will cost the Union Pacific less money than the excess of cost the Northern Pacific will be to, to get an equal amount of grain across the heavy grade of the Cascade mountains to Tacoma, over and above the cost by the O. R. & N. lines to Portland. So even from a financial view, for president Adams to fulfil his promise would not give any advantage to the Northern Pacific as to cost of carriage from the interior to sea.—Portland letter to East Oregonian.

By a decision of the supreme court in the case of James Terwilliger against the city of Portland, the city is confirmed in possession of ten acres of land now inside the city limits, and worth $8,000 per acre. Thirteen years ago the land was deeded to the city for cemetery purposes but when the city surrounded the tract it was abandoned for burial purposes and the dead removed. Then the grantor, James Terwilliger, began suit to recover possession of the land. He won the suit in the circuit court, and the city appealed to the supreme court, where the decree of the lower court was reversed.

The Columbia will arrive from San Francisco to-day with the following passengers: P. Joseph, E. Raechert, S. Danziger, W. B. Given and wife, F. S. Given, J. M. Paine, P. J. Keeler and wife, Mollie Franklin, C. B. Allard, P. Allan, J. J. Astor and son, H. E. Adams, E. A. Stronbridge and mother, Mrs. Allan, E. Berhore, F. A. Fales, O. Bancamp, J. Martin, G. E. Hart, A. L. Lorenzen and wife, E. Kinnane, P. W. Charles, B. Watson, C. Cameron, W. Loungley, Mrs. Cartwright, L. E. Ellsworth, Miss B. Crellen, Miss Parson, Mrs. Gregory, Mrs. C. W. Brooks, Mrs. J. A. Venable, Geo. C. Cartwright, H. G. Brown and wife, Mrs. Hathway, Mrs. W. M. McKown, Mrs. Paine.

Rescue No. 2; have been figuring up their accounts as to the horses, and find that the figures are about as follows: Paid for the horses, $428; harness $208; electric unbitchers, $119; salary of driver, $233; feed for horses, $235; making a total of $1,223. They have collected by subscription $635, leaving a balance paid by the company up to the first inst., of $588. To-morrow, a committee consisting of Messrs. Barry, Clinton, Stockton, and McCrosky will start out with a petition for the council to grant the $75 a month and a remonstrance against, and give all whom they call on their choice to sign; the petition or their remonstrance.

Fresh from the government printing office is received a bulky volume, the report of the U. S. fish commission, a long account of the fishery industries of the United States. Though just issued, the usefulness of the book is somewhat marred by the fact that the report is for the year 1880—eight years ago. It is believed that in the course of the next year the government printing office will have in type and ready for printing a report of the crucifixion of Christ, from original manuscript furnished by eye-witnesses of that historic scene. That will be about as enterprising as to send THE ASTORIAN in the first days of the fiscal year of 1889 a report of the fish commission of 1880. In this finely printed work, which is on the desk before us, are pages upon pages of description of how they used to catch fish in Massachusetts in 1623, and the Columbia river salmon fisheries are dismissed with—32 lines. It is of the utmost importance that the Cocasset Indians and the exploits of Massasoit and how things were done in Maine and Nova Scotia in the year sixteen hundred and fast asleep, should have any amount of space, but so trivial an industry as that of the Columbia river salmon fisheries in the year of our Lord 1880, only needs 32 lines. The book is well printed on good paper and nicely bound, with pretty gilt letters on the back.

PERSONAL MENTION.
Hon. J. F. Caples is in the city. Messrs. Watson, Curtis and Selig have returned from Seattle. The remainder of the delegation will arrive to-day.

May Try It On Here.

PORT TOWNSEND, July 5.—Ah Ying, Ah Ho Lam, Ring He and two other Celestial maidens were returned to Victoria on the Elder yesterday after an unsuccessful attempt to pass through the custom house under the plea that their husbands are living in this country, although their own evidence was all they adduced to establish the fact. It would not work, and they were returned. They tried the same dodge three weeks ago. They will probably try to get through at Astoria.

A Warning.
The modes of death's approach are various, and statistics show conclusively that more persons die from diseases of the Throat and Lungs than any other. It is probable that everyone, without exception, receives vast numbers of Tubercle Germs into the system and where these germs fall upon suitable soil they start into life and develop, at first slowly and is shown by a slight tickling sensation in the throat and if allowed to continue their ravages they extend to the lungs producing Consumption and to the head, causing Catarrh. Now all this is dangerous and if allowed to proceed will in time cause death. At the onset you must act with promptness; allowing a cold to go without your attention is dangerous and may lose you your life. As soon as you feel that something is wrong with your Throat, Lungs or Nostrils, obtain a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. It will give you immediate relief.

Underestimated His Friends.
A candidate for office near Salem was elected by a small majority in a small poll. His supporters called on him, agreeably to a general invitation, to tender their congratulations. He employed a caterer to serve a lunch, instructing him to provide for a number equal to all the votes he received. About four times as many came, and in his speech of welcome he said: "Gentlemen, I had an idea that my election was a mighty tight fit, but I should judge from the number present that I was chosen unanimously!"—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

One Day at a Time.
One day at a time! That's all can be; No faster than that is the hardest fate; And days have their limits, however we begin them too early and stretch them too late.—Helen Hunt Jackson.

A Woman's Discovery.
"Another wonderful discovery has been made and that too by a lady in this county. Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She bought of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night and with one bottle has been miraculously cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus write W. C. Herriek & Co. of Shelbyville, N. C.—Get a free trial bottle at W. E. Dement & Co.'s Drug Store.

LAST NIGHT'S DISPATCHES.

A Destructive Storm In The Northwest.

General News Notes From The East.

(SPECIAL TO THE ASTORIAN.)

St. Paul, July 7.—A great storm passed over western and central Minnesota and eastern Dakota yesterday. The wind reached a velocity of a hurricane. At Shakopee, Minn., the great building of the Wainpack furniture works was badly wrecked. The Cooper building was demolished and Kohl & Behren's store unroofed. Several frame residences and barns were blown away and trees and fences torn up and thrown across the highways in such a way as to prevent travel. At Redwood Falls, Minn., several buildings topped over and some burned by lightning. Much damage to fences and crops is reported. At St. Peter the lightning burned three buildings, one barn containing several horses; many hundreds of acres of corn were destroyed by hail many buildings blown down in the vicinity of Bowler Dak., where the storm swept a wide strip of country.

FOREPAUGH'S BAD LUCK.
FALL RIVER, Mass., July 7.—Forepaugh's stock train leaving here this morning about two o'clock for Newport and had just cleared the tunnel on the old Colony road under Central street when the wheel of the third car from the engine broke overturning that car and the next and tore up the track. In the three cars were four men and eight horses; three of the men got out uninjured but one who had to be dug out through the top of the car was severely hurt. Four of the horses were injured so much they had to be shot, one of them was the famous trapeze pony Eclipse and one black stallion educated horse Bloodin was killed outright by the accident.

ASSAULTED WITH STONES.
CHICAGO, July 7.—Passenger train No. 17 on the Burlington road here leaving last evening had a rock through the cab window on the engine narrowly missing the engineer and fireman at Riverside and again at Naperville the engine was bombarded at a farm place a storm of stones were thrown battering the side of the engine and breaking glass. At Naperville the fireman was struck on the head with a flying missile inflicting a scalp wound but he is not seriously injured.

SIGNING THE SCALE.
PITTSBURG, July 7.—The Amalgamated association received notice this morning that the Linden Steel Co. of this city and the Newport Iron Co. of Newport Kentucky, had signed the scale and would resume operation next week. Two of the largest firms in this city. The manufacturers however still assert that the lockout is not broken and that a majority will stand firm until the workmen accept the proposed reduction.

A FATAL FIRE.
SAULT ST. MARIE, July 7.—The farm house belonging to George Dobbs, located about seven miles from here on the Canada side of the river, was burned yesterday causing the death of four inmates. Mrs. Dobbs, 70 years of age, made her escape, but was badly burned; there is little hope of her recovery.

SMALLPOX ON BOARD.
NEW YORK, July 7.—W. D. Hartner, a saloon passenger on the steamer Celtic, which arrived here to-day from Liverpool, was taken down with smallpox during the passage and detained at quarantine this afternoon.

KILLED TWO MEN.
LONG ISLAND CITY, N. J. July 7.—A crowd of drunken roughs tried to force an entrance into the saloon of Thomas Tierney at 2 o'clock this morning for the purpose of getting liquor. Tierney appeared on the scene, and in defense of his property fired into the crowd, killing Richard Owens and fatally wounding Cornelius Wallace.

HAULED OFF.
CHRISTIANA, July 7.—The United States steamer Enterprise, which was ashore at Irobak, has been hauled off by a Norwegian ironclad and arrived here yesterday. She will probably be docked for examination.

GOING TO MINUTY.
NEW YORK, July 7.—Gen. Sheridan passed a good night. The war ship Scutabar bore him away this morning from New York up Long Island Sound, bound for Minutty.

MORTON TO BE NOTIFIED.
NEW YORK, July 7.—The members of the committee to officially notify Levi P. Morton of his nomination for the vice-presidency were assembling this morning. Judge M. M. Estep of California, chairman of the committee, receiving visitors in the parlors of the Murray Hill hotel at 7 o'clock. Secretary Dougherty worked most of the night and looked weary this morning. He went to the Grand Central depot at 9 and when he returned to the committee parlor he found half a dozen delegates awaiting him. As they strolled in Capt. Dougherty had each affix his signature to an address which was to be presented to Mr. Morton. The document is brief and general in its terms, filling less than a single page of parchment paper. Delegates Hendricks, Root and Carson, the colored contingent, did not meet the party at the hotel and were not at the depot when the committee entered the special drawing room car at 10:30. Ex-Gov. Charles Foster of Ohio, did not accompany the committee. The other gentlemen composing the committee were all left, as well as the substitutes from the other states.

STORIES OF SONG.

Reminiscences of Old and Favorite Melodies.

"The Swanee River" Under Peculiar Circumstances—"Old Black Joe"—"Aransas Bay" a Favorite of the Mexican Veterans.

"The song that made the greatest and most lasting impression on me," said a delegate from the south to the Democratic convention, "was one that I had heard often, and had become familiar with. It was not so much the song that impressed me, but the combination of circumstances—the time, place and manner of its singing. It happened this way: We were down on a little semi-tropical river known as the St. Marks in Florida. The waters are dark and heavy, and the stream winds through an impenetrable jungle of palmettos, live oaks and cypress trees filled in with a dense underbrush that nothing but snakes can get through. It was a good while after dark when we were on the river about two miles from the little steam launch which we had come up the coast in. Those on the boat felt a little uneasy at our late return, and decided to send out some men to call us home. A heavy sloop-boat was manned with six stalwart negroes who were instructed to row up a couple of miles and shout for us. We were pulling leisurely down stream when we heard the negroes far away singing as they rowed along, 'Swanee River' was the air, but the way those negroes sang it I will never forget. One with a shrill, waiting voice carried the air, while the other six, with voices ranging down to the deepest bass, would join in every few seconds with matches of the song. We just dropped our oars and listened until they caught sight of us, when the singing came to an abrupt end, and nothing could induce them to repeat the song."

"OLD BLACK JOE."
When Central Turner Hall was ringing with German volks lieder and the strains of Wagnerian marches, when the ho! ho! of enthusiasm mingled with the crash of the frothy beer, a hand marched into the hall at the head of a column of singers playing with all its energy the ancient negro melody, "Old Black Joe." "I see comin'" shrilled the cornet, "I see comin'" shrieked the tuba, and then all wind and reed combined, "For my head is bending low." Back came memories of the days when Billy Emerson and "Happy as a Big Sunflower" were young; when there was a girl who wore "A Dark Dress Trimmed With Green" when Captain Jinks commanded the Horse Marines, and every one was "Sweet Sixteen."

"What is that song?" asked a German singer in German non-Astorian youth in the hall. For answer the wild youth sang it, and he had not gotten beyond the second bar before half the men in the hall were singing "Old Black Joe."

"ARANSAS BAY."
"A song that is now nearly forgotten, but which in its day was extremely popular," said A. G. Whitney, "is the one called 'Aransas Bay.' This song was written at the outbreak of the Mexican war and had a great run in the army. As one of our vessels, carrying a battalion of Texas troops, was drawing near the Texas coast and entering Aransas Bay, the officers asked the captain when he would make land. 'If this wind holds,' he said, 'we will be there to-night.' On hearing this news the officers prepared for landing, and a great bowl of punch was brewed and placed on the cabin table. Lieutenant Allen of the regular army was walking the deck, and suddenly thought that the festivities of the evening would be increased by an original song. Taking out his pencil, he jotted down a few verses on the backs of some envelopes he had in his pocket, went down to the cabin and, in a fine tenor voice, sang the song. It was received with great applause, spread like wildfire through the army and was sung at every campfire from the Gulf to the City of Mexico. I can only remember the first verse, which runs as follows: Come, crowd round the bowl, the punch shines bright. The wild campaign's begun, my boys. If the wind holds fair we'll be there to-night. And to-morrow we'll fight if we can, my boys."

"There were some six or eight verses, all of which were known throughout the army, and to this day the Mexican veterans love to sing to all others."

"IL TROVATORE."
I'll never forget a little thing that occurred a few years ago in Ottawa, Canada, where I was living at the time," said Dr. H. F. James, the veterinary surgeon, the other day. "In those days I was somewhat of a singer and had a thrilling barytone voice. One evening I was at a social gathering and by request sang a little selection from 'Trovatore.' There was nothing particularly brilliant about the music, beyond the usual sweetness of voice, but I sang it with more feeling than usually melting on that evening, but just as the last words died away a lady who was present fell into hysterics and we could not revive her for some time. I was not over-complimented, I can assure you, at the effect of the performance, which, were it not for the gravity of the cause, might have been construed into something akin to the 'Trovatore' of the opera. However, ever, that the effect was not at all occasioned by any harshness in the song or the rendition, but that it was due to the fact that the young lady's husband had, two years previously, dropped dead of 'the disease' was a shocker just at the moment the barytone had finished the air I had sung. She was devotedly in love with the young man and could never after hear the music of 'Trovatore' without pain. We all felt sorry for her, but the mischief had been done, I vowed then never to sing again and I've kept my oath."

Thomas E. Garrett, who was for years dramatic editor of the Missouri Republican, wrote one of the prettiest and most popular negro melodies ever sung. It was called "Belle Brandon" and had a run for years, every negro minstrel in the country singing it. This was before the war, but even to-day the old-timers can sometimes be heard whistling the air as they stroll along the street.

"COAL-BLACK ROSE."
"Among the first popular songs I remember," remarked Judge Charles F. Cady, "were 'Coal-Black Rose' and 'Jim Crow,' which were sung by old Tom Rice, the father of negro minstrelsy. Then followed the 'Long-Tail Blue' and 'Zip Coon,' written and sung by George Washington Dixon. These were all way back in the thirties. Dixon was quite a minstrel and really had a streak of negro in him, although it was not generally known. He passed for white and associated only with whites. He published a sentimental paper in New York called the Polyanthus and served two terms on Blackwells Island for it—once for a libel on Thomas Hamlin and another time for a libel either on Bishop Hawk or some other 'Bishop.'—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.
