No One Need Remain A Dyspeptic.

"I have been suffering for over two years with Dyspepsia. For the last year I could not take a drink of cold water nor eat any meat without vomiting it up.

My life was a misery. I had had recommended Simmons' Liver Regulator, of which I am now taking the second bottle, and the fact is that words cannot express the relief I feel.

My appetite is very good, and I digest everything thoroughly. I sleep well now, and I used to be very restless.

I am flushing up fast; good strong food and Simmons' Liver Regulator have done it all. I write this in hopes of benefiting some one who has suffered as I did, and would take oath to these statements if desired."

Some Observations.

He that lives upon hope will die fasting. Humble usefulness is better than learned idleness.

Vices, like misfortunes, seldom if ever, come singly. There is not a single moment in life we can afford to lose.

A brain might as well be stuffed with sawdust as with unused knowledge. It doesn't take an imaginary ill long to become a real one.

Giving is like a fly blister. It is a counter-irritant to self-interest. It never does any good till it hurts.

There are many men whose tongues might govern multitudes if they could but govern themselves.

There are many more shining qualities in the mind of man, but there is none more useful than discretion.

The man to whom virtue is but the ornament to character, something over and above, not essential to it, is not yet a man.

One of the most effectual ways of pleasing and of making one's self beloved is to be cheerful. Joy softens more hearts than tears.

Most men call fretting a minor fault—a foible and not a vice. But there is no vice, except it be drunkenness, which can so utterly destroy the peace and happiness of a home.

Griefs are like the beings that endure them—the little ones are the most clamorous and noisy; those of older growth and greater magnitude are generally tranquil and sometimes silent.

Had the mail service been in the same condition in ancient days that it is now, Paul's epistle to Titus and others would never have been received in time for publication in the Bible.

Mrs. Dart's Triplets.

President Cleveland's Prize for the three best babies at the Amora County Fair, in 1887, was given to these triplets, Nellie, Ida, and Ray, children of Mrs. A. K. Dart, Hamburg, N. Y.

She writes: "Last August the little ones became very sick, and as I could get no other food that would agree with them, I commenced the use of Lactated Food. It helped them immediately, and they were soon as well as ever, and I consider it very largely due to the Food that they are now so well." Lactated Food is the best Food for bottle-fed babies. It keeps them well, and is better than medicine when they are sick. Three sizes: 25c, 50c, $1.00. At drug stores. Cabinet photo of these triplets sent free to the mother of any baby born this year.
