How Women Try on Shoes.

When a woman has a new pair of shoes sent home she performs altogether different from a man. She never shoves her toes into them and hauls until she is red in the face and all out of breath, and then goes stamping and kicking around, but pulls them on part way, carefully, twitches them off again to take a last look, and sees if she has got the right one, pulls them on again, looks at them dreamily, says they are just right, then takes another look, stops suddenly to smooth out a wrinkle, twists around, and surveying them sideways, exclaims:

"Mercy how loose they are," looks at them again square in front, turns her foot around, so they won't hurt so much, takes them off looks at the heel, the bottom and the inside, puts them on again, walks up and down the room once or twice, remarks to her better half that she won't have them at any price, tilts down the mirror so she can see how they look from that way, backs off, steps up again, takes thirty or forty farwell looks, says they make her feet awful big and will never do in the world, puts them on and off three or four times more, asks her husband what he thinks about it and then pays no attention to what he says, goes through it all again, and finally says she will take them. It's very simple.—Kansas City Times.

An old observer tells that one's eye-brows are an infallible guide to his age. No matter, he says, how young looking the person may be, if his eyebrows lack a gloss and do not lie flat and smooth, he is no longer a young man.
