A Word About Catarrh.

A Word About Catarrh.

"It is the mucous membrane, that wonderful semi-fluid enveloes surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passage, that Catarrh makes its stronghol." Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long drawn breath of misery and disease, dulling the sense of he ring, trammelling the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tinting the breath, and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by ere eping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membraneous lining and envelope the bones, enting through the delicate coats and causing inflammation, sloughing and death. Authing short of total era ica on will secure health to the patient, and all allevin tives are simply procra-tinated sufferings, leading to the fatal termination. S. as ponth's stable 1.
