The East Oregonian correctly thinks $19 a ton for coal is a pretty stiff price.

The latest architectural caper is said to be a house with a Queen Anne front and a Mary Anne back.

The funeral of the late W. L. McEwen will be from Grace Episcopal church at 11 A. M. to-day.

Representative Hahn's bill to amend the city charter has been referred to the committee on corporations.

On the latest trip of the steamer Columbia to San Francisco she brought down 800 boxes clay pipes.

The sloop Venture is at Seattle, having her rigging altered to that of a schooner preparatory to her sealing trip north.

A petrified doughnut from an eastern Oregon railroad restaurant, is the latest addition to THE ASTORIAN'S cabinet of curiosities.

In the legislature last Tuesday, Representative Hahn introduced a bill to authorize L. R. Abercrombie to make a boom across the Necanicum.

With justified fear and trembling the Pendleton papers announce the advent of the salvation army bummers, and piteously ask, "What have we done?"

In the absence of Milton Bozorth, occasioned by sickness, E. A. Noyes is doing duty at the ticket office of the O. R. & N. Co., in addition to his other work.

Engineer Habersham and assistants went over yesterday to resume construction of the Ilwaco Railroad from its present terminus toward Shoalwater bay.

On account of the funeral of the late Mr. McEwan the ladies' meeting at Grace church, which was to have been held this afternoon, will be postponed till next week.

The Boston Comedy Co. have made arrangements with Mr. Selig that will insure the services of a good orchestra during the rest of this week's entertainments.

In the legislature last Tuesday Representative Parker introduced a bill to authorize the Astoria & South Coast Railway Co. to construct a bridge across Young's bay.

The steamer Julia H. Ray is a total wreck at South Spit, Coos bay, whither she was bound from San Francisco in ballast. The crew was saved. The vessel was valued at $60,000.

City assessment tax blanks are being distributed, and soon the man who wants to work the "indebtedness" racket to escape paying taxes on his property, will be getting in his fine work.

A private dispatch from Salem states that the House commerce committee will have a conference meeting with the board of trade in Portland, on Saturday to consider the pilot and boarding house bills.

The American ship C. S. Hulbert arrived in yesterday afternoon, 180 days from New York. There was a lively race between the pilots to board her, pilot Gunderson making the riffle, the ship at the time being well in toward the bar.

A dispatch from Shamokin, Pennsylvania, says that a man named Bungswicker has been arrested for burning the Douty house down. Let him go. If our name was Bungswicker, and we lived in a town called Shamokin, and there was a house in it called the Douty house, hanged if we wouldn't burn it down.

From a Clatsop plains correspondent it is learned that the Astoria and South Coast Railway company is going ahead in the work of securing right of way. It appears that some want a station in their front yard, a life pass over the road and sundry freight privileges; concessions that the directors of the road find it difficult to grant.

The Chinese were making the most noise of anybody yesterday. The freedom of the city seems to have been accorded to them, and they kept up a barbaric din from rosy morn to dewy eve, aided and abetted by delighted crowds of juvenile Caucasions who leaped boldly into heaps of exploding fire crackers to secure some for private use.

In the U. S. senate, last Tuesday, senator Mitchell introduced a bill to create an additional land district in Washington territory, the third proposed district to be called the Montesano district. It is to be composed of Pacific, Chehalis and Mason counties, and all of Lewis and Thurston counties west of range 3 west, and all of that part of Jefferson county lying west of the range line, northwest of Willamette meridian.

The Behring Sea Packing company yesterday filed articles of incorporation in the county clerk's office. Peter Wikander, Frank Lindstrom, Martin Carlson, Chas. Lundberg, Capt. C. Johnson and Gus Moberg are the incorporators. The purpose is to pack and can fish, fruit and other articles, in Alaska, British Columbia, Washington, Oregon and California; principal office at Astoria, amount of capital stock $15,000, divided into 150 shares of $100 each.

The Chinook Improvement Co., filed articles of incorporation in the county clerk's office yesterday. The incorporators are P. J. McGowan, J. W. McGowan, U. K. Johnson and Chas. Bernsdetet; duration, ten years; principal office, Astoria. The object is to clear the beach and seine for fish on the shore of the Columbia river in front of the Washington Hall donation land claim, to borrow money, lease and hold real estate and catch and dispose of fish; capital stock $2,000, divided into 20 shares of $100 each.

The Canadian Pacific Navigation company has brought suit against the town of Vancouver for $40,000 damages. The company's steamer Premier, on her last trip to Vancouver, had a case of smallpox on board, and was consequently placed in quarantine. She was thoroughly cleaned and fumigated and detained in the Royal Roads quarantine ground for a week, at the end of which time she was released, the case having been a very mild one. Captain O'Brien got up steam and proceeded Vancouver, but the police and a mob of citizens were at the wharf and refused to allow the passengers to land. They were placed on board the steamer Islander, but the Vancouver people would not permit her to land. Captain O'Brien became incensed at this conduct, and taking his passengers back on his own steamer went again up to the wharf and told the crowd assembled there that he did not propose to submit to their treatment any longer, and that he intended to put his passengers on shore. His speech was greeted with yells of defiance; but these were soon changed to yells of another nature when captain O'Brien wheeled out the steamer's big hose and turned a stream of hot water on the obstructionists. It is hardly necessary to say that the passengers were landed.

OUR ILWACO LETTER.

ILWACO, Jan. 29.

The weather is so clear and fine that the Telephone whistle was distinctly heard this afternoon.

J. E. Graham and family, and Mrs. O. P. Graham, returned to-day from a four months visit in Wisconsin.

A mining expert has discovered a ledge of gold bearing quartz, within two miles of town.

There are four dwelling houses being built here at present.

Preparations for pound net fishing this coming season, are occupying the time of the majority of our people. N. G.

Two Five-masted Schooners.

There is a five-masted schooner—the Louis—on the Pacific coast; at present in the Columbia river. There is also one—the Gov. Ames—on the Atlantic coast; at present at Boston. The Louis was the first built. Regarding the Ames, under date of January 19th, Mr. Bates, of Boston, writes to his son, F. S. Bates, of Ilwaco, W. T.: "Regarding this famous five-masted schooner (the Ames), she sailed her first voyage on the eve of the great storm here; was caught in it a few miles out, dismasted and is now at the dock refitting. I was aboard Sunday. Then there is one just launched at Bath, Me., five-masted (larger); but they do not pay—built only as experiments. I should say they are hard to manage in an Atlantic coast trade. If you have a five-master it is not known here."

It Might Have Been Worse.

Snoggins (of the "Fly-by-Night Dramatic Company")—The same bad luck as before financially, but otherwise we had a wonderful success on the road. In Jayville we paralyzed the audience; at Grangeburg we knocked 'em silly, and in Squashtown we literally tore 'em to pieces.

Tompkins (of the Solid Combination"—What line of drama did you give them?

Snoggins—Comedy of course!

Tompkins—And you did all this with comedy? Great heavens! what devastation you would have wrought had it been tragedy you presented.

"A MERE GENERALITY."

The British bark Ariadne, now on her way down, was loaded to 17 feet, 9 inches, but detained in Portland five days so that she could be loaded more. After five days' detention she was allowed to start, being loaded to 19 feet, and taking her chance of "sticking," somewhere up the creek. Say she loads fifteen tons to the inch: the increased fifteen inches between 17 ft., 9 in, and 19 ft., would give 225 tons more than the vessels five additional days' detention at Portland enabled her to load: call the 225 tons, 250 short tons: this, at 50 cents a ton, represents $125. To "save" this $125 the charterers of the Ariadne kept the vessel waiting at Portland five days for a tide high enough to justify her starting drawing 19 feet. Saving nothing of demurrage—4d per ton per day—but only placing the ship's expense at the moderate sum of £8—$40—a day, it appears that it cost the ship $200 to save $125—and to enable Portland to get a name for being a deep sea port.

This is not "a mere generality." It is an actual occurrence, a specific statement of a fact.

It is not an isolated case. It occurs right along. It is one of the things that makes the Columbia river an expensive place to come to, and is one of the "restrictions to commerce" regarding which the Oregonian grows spasmodically eloquent.

The remedy for this, that is the real, radical avoidance of this, is to load the ships at Astoria; to that it must come. Portland cannot compete with the Sound. Astoria can. If Portland; if the Oregonian; if the shippers of that pleasant inland city are sincere in their professions of amity and desire of cooperation, let them recognize this, for "to this complexion must it come at last."

A HAUNTED MAINTOP.

Talking about ghosts, our chief mate once told me that on board a ship in which he had served, the mate on duty ordered one of the youths to reef the maintopsail. When he first got up he heard a strange voice saying, "It blows hard!" The lad waited for no more; he was down in a trice and told his adventure. A second immediately ascended, laughing at the folly of his companion, but returned even more quickly, declaring that he was quite sure that a voice, not of this world, had cried in his ear, "It blows hard!" Another went, and another, but each came back with the same tale.

At length the mate, having sent up the whole watch, ran up the shrouds himself, and when he reached the haunted spot heard the dreadful words distinctly uttered in his ear:

"It blows hard!"

"Ay, ay, old one; but, blow it ever so hard, we must ease the earrings for all that," replied the mate undauntedly, and, looking round, he saw a fine parrot perched on one of the clews—the thoughtless author of the false alarms—which had probably escaped from some other vessel to take refuge on this.

Another of our officers mentioned that on one of his voyages he remembered a boy having been sent to clear a rope which had got foul above the mizzentop. Presently, however, he came back trembling, and almost tumbling to the bottom, declaring that he had seen "Old Davy" aft the crosstrees. Moreover, that the evil one had a huge head and face, with prickears and eyes as bright as fire. Two or three others were sent up in succession, to all of whom the apparition glared forth, and was identified by each to be "Old Davy" sure enough.

The mate, in a rage, at length mounted himself, when resolutely, as in the former case, searching for the bugbear, he soon ascertained the innocent cause of so much terror to be a large horned owl, so lodged as to be out of sight to those who ascended on the other side of the vessel, but which, when any one approached the crosstrees, popped up his portentious visage to see what was coming. The mate brought him down in triumph, and "Old Davy" the owl, became a very peaceful shipmate among the crew, who were no longer scared by his horns and eyes, for sailors turn their back on nothing when they know what it is.

Had the birds in these two instances departed as they came, of course they would have been deemed supernatural visitants to the respective ships by all who had heard the one and seen the other.

Who is Your Best Friend?

Your stomach of course. Why? Because if it is out of order you are one of the most miserable creatures living. Give it a fair, honorable chance and see if it is not the best friend you have in the end. Don't smoke in the morning. Don't drink in the morning. If you must smoke and drink wait until your stomach is through with breakfast. You can drink more and smoke more in the evening and it will tell on you less. If your food ferments and does not digest right,—if you are troubled with Heartburn, Dizziness of the head, coming up of the food after eating, Biliousness, Indigestion, or any other trouble of the stomach, you had best use Green's August Flower, as no person can use it without immediate relief.

A Generous Nation.

The name "Winona," to be given to south Dakota, is that which pertains to the first born female infant of a chief of the Dakotans. We stole this continent from the Indians, but we generously honor them in our national nomenclature. Shall Dakota be excluded? "Why-no-no!"—New York World.

TELEGRAPHIC REPORT.

DENVER, Jan. 30.—Word is received here from a very high railroad authority to the effect that Charles Francis Adams will retire from the presidency of the Union Pacific railway on March 1st. The report says that Adams feels the work he was selected to perform has been as nearly accomplished as possible, and that there is nothing further he can do. Although he has not been entirely successful in settling the government trouble, he has brought the finances of the road to an excellent point, and his offer of the presidency of the new president's association evidently from the report strikes him as a good opportunity to resign the presidency of the Union Pacific.

BRITISH SEAL PIRATES.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The evidence given before the congressional committee investigating government affairs at the seal islands of Alaska created considerable comment in certain circles that have taken a live interest in the investigation, particularly the statement of Capt. Shepherd of the revenue cutter Rush. A significant feature of his testimony is the statement that in the season of 1888 he made no seizures because of confidential instructions from the secretary of the treasury not to interfere with illegal sealers. He testified that these marauders must have taken in 1888 between 25,000 and 26,000 skins. Thomas Ryan of this city, ex-treasury agent of the seal islands, and accounted among the best authorities on the seal fisheries in question, in an interview this evening said: Capt. Shepherd's report is positively startling. It shows clearly that our possessions in the seal islands have been robbed by direct or indirect connivance of some one high in authority. I am thoroughly familiar with the whale question, and do not hesitate to charge that a gigantic fraud on the government is being covered up. The 26,000 skins which Shepherd swears he knew were taken last year by pirates sailing under the British flag would bring at Victoria or San Francisco $775,000. For the privilege of committing this theft unmolested the pirates could afford to pay a good round sum, and I am interested to hear who got the money. I am watching to see whether the committee will dare probe this steal to the bottom and trace the bribe money that surely passed.

Captain Shepherd testifies that under his instructions from the treasury department he could not seize the pirates, although he found them engaged in unlawful work.

Merit Wins.

We desire to say to our citizens, that we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. J. W. Conn, Druggist.

He Was One of Them.

"You would hardly think," said the yellow-haired man, who sat on the fence and whittled a stick, "that there was a lot of gosh derned idiots in this neighborhood fourteen years ago that could have sold their land for $50 an acre and didn't do it. They wanted $100. They thought the railroad was comin' through here sure. Some of us had a little sense, though, and sold out. The land ain't worth $1.50 an acre now. You can see it's nothin' but sand."

"Yes, I see." said the tourist. "I suppose you're back here on a visit."

"Er—no. I live here," replied the man on the fence, as he took a fresh chew of tobacco and looked drearily in the direction of the setting sun. "Stranger, I was one of the gosh derned idiots."
