Beauty

Is desired and admired by all. Among the things which may best be done to enhance personal beauty is the daily use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. No matter what the color of the hair, this preparation gives it a lustre and pliancy that adds greatly to its charm. Should the hair be thin, harsh, dry, or turning gray, Ayer's Hair Vigor will restore the color, bring out a new growth, and render the old soft and shiny. For keeping the scalp clean, cool, and healthy, there is no better preparation in the market.

Abundant and Glossy,

but it has given my rather stunted mustache a respectable length and appearance."—R. Britton, Oakland, Ohio.

"My hair was coming out (without any assistance from my wife, either). I tried Ayer's Hair Vigor, using only one bottle, and I now have as fine a head of hair as any one could wish for."—R. T. Schmittou, Dickson, Tenn.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor in my family for a number of years, and regard it as the best hair preparation I know of. It keeps the scalp clean, the hair soft and lively, and preserves the original color. My wife has used it for a long time with most satisfactory results."—Benjamin M. Johnson, M. D., Thomas Hill, Mo.

"My hair was becoming harsh and dry, but after using half a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor it grew black and glossy. I cannot express the joy and gratitude I feel."—Mabel C. Hardy, Delavan, Ill.

No Mercury, No Potash, Or any other Mineral Poison.

It is Nature's Remedy, made exclusively from Roots and Herbs. It is perfectly Harmless. It is the only remedy known to the world that has ever yet cured cutaneous blood poisons in all its stages. It cures Mercurial Rheumatism, Cancer, Scrofula, and other blood diseases heretofore considered incurable. It cures any disease caused from impure blood. It is now prescribed by thousands of the best physicians in the United States, as a tonic. We append the statement of a few:

"I have used S. S. S. on patients convalescing from fever and from measles with the best results."—J. N. CUREY, M. D., Ellaville, Ga.

BREKEN, GA.—Willie White was afflicted with scrofula seven years. Prescribed S. S. S., and to-day he is a fat and robust boy."—C. W. PARKER, M. D.

RICHMOND, VA., Dec. 15, 1888.—I have taken three bottles of Swift's Specific for secondary blood poison. It acts much better than potash or any other remedy I have ever used."—E. F. WINDFIELD, M. D., Formerly of Sumner Co., Va.

DR. E. J. HALE, the well-known druggist and physician, of Nashville, Howard County, Ark., writes: "Having some knowledge as to what S. S. S. is composed of, I can safely recommend it as the remedy for all skin diseases. It matters not what the name may be." We have a book giving a history of this wonderful remedy, and its cures, from all over the world, which will convince you that all we say is true, and which we will mail free on application. No family should be without it. We have another on Contagious Blood Poison, sent on same terms. Write us a history of your case, and our physician will advise you by letter, in strictest confidence. We will not deceive you knowingly. For sale by all druggists.

All Struggling to Get Along in Life.

Numerous Obstacles to Brotherly Love.

It amazes me more and more as I live on to observe how human affairs go on at so much variance with a doctrine whose bottom rock is said to lie in the precept "Love thy neighbor as thyself."

I am living just now in a village containing 2000 people. There is brotherly love and brotherly help preached from the pulpit, but if I should say with regard to three-fourths of the people here that every man's hand was against every other man's hand, and that every man's interest was more or less opposed to every other man's interest, I would not be far out of the way. There are twice as many stores as are needed. Business, through excess of competition, whittles down the profits to a very small point. The man that opens the grocery store alongside that of his neighbor does not ask: "Am I helping to beggar my neighbor, or enrich him?" That would not be the business of course. But he doesn't seem to care whether he ruins his neighbor or not. He says in substance: "I must live, and if I can out-into my neighbor's trade and get his customers I'm going to do it. If my neighbor and his family are starved out I can't help it."

Still he goes to the same church on Sundays, hears a sermon on "Love thy neighbor as thyself," hears it comfortably, is not pierced or stung by any arrows of conviction or remorse, goes to his business next morning and hangs out his usual sign, "Step in here before purchasing elsewhere." This is business. On business lines it is correct. On some other lines there does seem an inconsistency. I am not here quarreling at all with the system. I am only wondering at it. Possibly were I in it I might do the same thing myself.

I find here on going out, a newspaper started to run down the other paper. I find the lawyer ready to undertake almost any case against his best friend if there be money in it. I find baker at heart swooning at the other baker, butcher at butcher, and saloon-keeper at saloon-keeper. I see here devout church members whose prayers are long and fervent, whose observance of church ceremonies is as regular as a sailor's watch on deck at sea, and yet when I get a private opinion of their characters from their townsmen, I find their names a synonym for stinginess, craft and "sharp dealing."

Men in various occupations go about soliciting people's patronage in those lines of cooperation.

"I'll do the work," says one, "for just what it costs me to do it."

"Why is it done without any profit?"

"To get your patronage," is the reply, "and to take the business out of the other man's hands."

Now, where does this system end? Under the surface, always in trouble. In little extra charges tacked on afterward on their jobs to make up for the actual loss in time and labor, incurred in doing the first work that won the patronage; in poor material put in silyly where better was bargained for; in a covert and secret determination on the part of the contractor that at some time or other, and in some underhanded way or other, he will find a way to make up for all that seeming generosity that won the patronage at first.

Now, we all know that this is the "way of the world." We do not expect to find any other way. We know that nearly all business means competition and indirectly a game of "beggar my neighbor." We do not wish to beggar our neighbors, possibly, but we say to ourselves if conscience ever interposes an objection: "Well I must do as the rest do to get along."

Do religion and business in this way go hand in hand? Can religion and business go hand in hand? Is there a really religious way of doing business with any profit? Must comparative poverty be ever the reward of virtue?

Then when I sit at a meal with these people, and those of whom they talk and I talk and not present, what do we say of them? Much that is good? Not much. I am sorry to say it, but it is even so. This is a chance for public confession. Let me make it. We find fault with this man because he does not build his house to suit us. We find fault with that woman because she has married a second or third time and has not married to suit us. We sneer gently. We sneer mildly. We pity condescendingly. We innuendo dexterously. Who would say that this neighbor steals outright. But if it is not stealing, what is it we mean or infer while we are talking about him? How we rake over the faults of the other families. Their extravagance. The way they bring up their children. What a sauce-box this one is. What a little thief is that one. How mum we are concerning possible lack of repair in our own household. How seldom we remark, "I've talked too much that borders on scandal to-day. I've wasted altogether too much time criticizing neighbors' affairs. I am covetous of Brown's possession. He rides in his own carriage. I don't. My father rode in his own carriage. I don't. Hence I'm down on Brown. I never say an unadulterated good word of him if I can help it."

Brethren, we do not hitch as yet. We do not pull together. Why is the

DYSPEPSIA.

It is that misery experienced when we suddenly become aware that we possess a diabolical arrangement called a stomach. The stomach is the reservoir from which every fibre and tissue must be nourished, and any trouble with it is soon felt throughout the whole system.
